DISTRICT DRY AGENTS ASSAILED IN REPORT ON CRIME CONDITIONS

Police Are Guiltless of Unfair Tactics, Trade Board Group Holds.

FINDINGS BASED ON EXHAUSTIVE SURVEY

Federal Men Are Bitterly Asailed for Aleged Use of Informers.

VANISHING OF SEIZED LIQUOR BROUGHT OUT

Few Confessions Involuntary, Conclusion, in Favor of Capital Department.

The Metropolitan Police Department is virtually exonerated of any stigma of employing the third-degree method in obtaining confessions from prisoners in a report prepared by a Board of Trade subcommittee for the National Crime Commission, but Federal agents are denounced for employing "lawless practices of law enforcement."

A subcommittee of the public order committee of the Board of Trade, headed by John Lewis Smith, late yesterday made public the results of its exhaustive survey of the records of the Police Department, grand juries, the United States Attorney's office, and criminal courts of the District.

"Investigations indicate that there are no lawless practices peculiarly prevalent to this locality, the Metropolitan Police Force being particularly free from such practices," the report states. "Our police force, as a whole, is composed of men of excellent character, diligent in the performance of their duty, with a fine sense of their responsibility both to the Government and to the individual citizens.

Paid Informers Frowned On.

"There have been certain lawless practices of law enforcement officers in the District, but these have been by the Federal enforcement agents and not by the Police Department."

The Board of Trade group was especially vehement in its denunciation of the use of stool pigeons, or paid informers, by Federal agents and their habit of entering a place and making a seizure without a warrant. The report said:

"Since the enactment of the eighteenth amendment, certain lawless conduct of law enforcement officers of the Federal Government has prevailed in this District. One of the most dangerous practices was the employment by the Federal prohibition agents of disreputable persons as stool pigeons and informers for the making of cases.

Disappearance of Rum.

"The condition became so notorious that several of the informers were indicted for perjury, and in other instances cases were called for trial and the informers were found to be in jail, having been convicted of other crimes. The condition became so acute that the United States attorney's office was forced to refuse to prosecute any cases based upon evidence of these stool pigeons or informers.

"In other cases the courts were compelled to suppress the evidence because of the unlawful entry and seizure by Federal agents. In some of these cases, when the evidence, which consisted of liquor, was ordered returned by the Government to the defendant, it was found that prohibition officers were unable to produce it, it having disappeared while in the possession of the Prohibition Department. Some of these practices have been discontinued because of the position which the United States attorney was forced to take."

Taking up the third degree method for forcing confessions from prisoners, the subcommittee asserts: "While in a few isolated cases the courts have held that the confessions were involuntary, in probably from 90 to 95 per cent of the confessions passed upon it was held they were in fact freely and voluntarily made."

Three Cases Cited.

The report cites three "leading cases" in which the appellate court has questioned the voluntariness of confessions. In the West case a confession was thrown out because it was proved that a policeman addressed the prisoner thus: "You have been telling me a pack of lies; now you had better tell the truth."

The confession of a Chinaman, Wan, in connection with the murder of three persons in the Chinese Mission House was not accepted by the Supreme Court, it is recalled, because police kept the prisoner, who had a stomach ailment, under guard in a hotel room and then questioned him all one night at the scene of the murders.

In the Perrygo case a confession was discredited because the police

Says: The old frontiers and back country of our Nation have vanished. We do not have any longer a strictly rural population. It is difficult to find any region that lives unto itself. Wherever we go we find similar brands of ready-made clothing and shoes worn by both men and women, and standard house furnishings. But the change of even greater importance is the similarity of information and opinions.

One great factor in this improved condition of the people is good roads. They are a by-product of the automobile. When the motor car brought the increased power to travel, people began to insist on adequate highways that were adapted to their needs. Now all kinds of cars with people from all sections are circulating all over the country. Another important influence is the radio. A third is the motion picture.

These influences have supplemented the schoolhouse in banishing ignorance. They have stimulated and unified the thought of the people, broken down sectional prejudices, and welded us all into one Nation. They are outstanding examples of how commercial activity ministers to the spiritual welfare of the people. Diligence in business has carried us to a higher mental and moral plane.

JUSTICE DRY AGENTS IN DEBUT AS RAIDERS

Five Arrested in First Foray and Ten Others Sought on Warrants.

CONSPIRACY IS CHARGED

Swooping down on a house on S street northwest near Seventeenth street yesterday prohibition agents and deputy United States marshals arrested six persons and charged them with conspiracy to violate the prohibition law. Late last night they still were seeking ten other persons named in the warrants.

The raid, which was engineered by Warren A. Heddens, special agent, Bureau of Prohibition of the Department of Justice, is said to be the biggest yet launched in the District and marks the first such foray made since the prohibition enforcement unit was transferred from the Treasury Department to the Department of Justice.

Five of the persons apprehended yesterday were arraigned before United States Commissioner Needham C. Turnage and ordered held under bonds of $5,000 each. The sixth person was held under bond of $2,500.

Several of those named in the warrant which was signed and sworn to by Agent Heddens are women, and several others are said to be involved in other liquor conspiracy cases during the past year.

The warrant charges conspiracy to manufacture, transport, sell and possess liquor in violation of the national prohibition act.

Those arraigned yesterday and held under $5,000 bonds are: Carl Smith, Marion Smith, Annie B. Calhoun, alias Anna Belle Behrens; L. F. Behrens and Milton J. Lerner. Reggy Mann, the other man apprehended, was held under $2,500 bond.

United States Commissioner Turnage, Assistant United States Attorney Harold W. Orcutt, and Agent Heddens refused to divulge the names of the other defendants pending their apprehension or surrender. Most of the group, still at liberty, it was understood, will surrender.

Traffic in alcohol is alleged to be basis of the charge.

In addition to Heddens, other agents participating in the raid were: Hitt and Murphy. Deputy United States Marshals Ceremeli, Hutchinson, Bolger, Denham and Massey also took part.

FLIERS NEARING 600 HOURS' MARK ALOFT

St. Louis Aviators Now in Air Day and Half More Than Old Record.

NO SIGN OF WEAKENING

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 14 (A.P.).—The endurance monoplane, Greater St. Louis, piloted by Dale ("Red") Jackson and Forest O'Brine, had been in the air 589 hours at 8:11 p. m. (Central standard time) tonight, slightly more than 35 hours longer than the previous record. Ground observers still were unable to detect any weakening in the plane's motor.

Plane and pilots have made their home in the sky continuously for more than 24 days. They have put the previous record, that of the Hunter brothers, a day and a half behind them.

The champion sky-riding aviators gave no intimation that they would recede from their expressed determination to remain in the air for 1,000 hours, and the faithful motor of the ship showed no weakness.

Jackson and O'Brine already have put in more than 1,000 hours of endurance flying, 420 hours when they established a world's record in July, 1929, and nearly 800 hours this year to regain the championship. They remain cheerful and are confident of hanging up a record that will discourage all opposition from trying to wrest it from them again.

The fliers spent much of today going through fan mail and messages of congratulation which continued to arrive. They took enough time, however, to wire their congratulations to Capt. Frank Hawks, who yesterday set a new West-East transcontinental flight record.

One letter, addressed to Mrs. O'Brine, said: "I am sending my felicitations to the one I consider the real heroine of the flight. Any woman who cooks that many consecutive meals is deserving of no less than a citation." Mrs. O'Brine has been helping prepare meals for the fliers.

The airmen received an invitation today to demonstrate their method of refueling at an air show sponsored by the Knight Light Airplane Club, at Montreal, Quebec, next month. It was turned over to William Pickens, the fliers' manager.

Healy Income Tax Scanned As Jury Exonerates Ewald

Tammany Leader, Cleared of Corruption, May Lose Place.

New York, Aug. 14 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—A New York grand jury today declined to indict George F. Ewald, resigned magistrate; his wife, Bertha; Martin J. Healy, Tammany district leader and suspended deputy commissioner of plants and structures, or Thomas T. Tommaney, chief clerk in the office of Sheriff Farley, on charges that they corruptly bargained for the appointment of Ewald to a magistracy in April of 1927.

Dinner eSrved High Over Tossing Bilows of the Atlantic.

ENGLAND GIVING OUT MESSAGES OF CRAFT

Fast Gait Maintained, With One of Motors Still Out of Order.

On Board the Airship R-100, Aug. 14 (A.P.).—The British dirigible R-100 tonight was sailing over the tossing Atlantic, homeward bound and giving every promise that she should make a record eastward crossing.

So fast was the speed that those aboard believed it was possible for the largest airship in the world to reach her home port, Cardington, England, by midnight tomorrow, British summer time (6 p. m., Eastern standard time).

It was felt that the dirigible, which left its mooring mast at Montreal at 8.26 p. m., E. S. T. yesterday, should reach Cardington by 3.25 a. m. E. S. T. Saturday, at least, even if held up by winds.

Amazed at Steadiness.

Those aboard are enjoying the flight greatly. When the breakfast of ham and eggs with coffee was served this morning, quite in hotel fashion, hardly a movement of the ship could be felt. The passengers expressed amazement at the steadiness of the airliner as it penetrated huge ranges of clouds.

As darkness fell tonight the electric lights were switched on and a bell summoned the hungry passengers to dinner. Plates of hot soup awaited them in the dining room and they fell to without urging. The printed menu cards, the glittering silverware and spotless linen made the scene remind one of Piccadelly or Fifth avenue rather than midatlantic.

The experiment of obtaining water from the clouds proved a great success today.

Gait of 70 Miles.

The airship passed over the Straits of Belle Isle at midday, maintaining a steady average speed of 70 miles an hour.

In the first 8 hours the ship covered a distance which took 24 hours to traverse on the westward voyage.

CAMPBELL QUIZ BY GRAND JURY MAY END TODAY

WITNESSES HEARD SHOTS FIRED HERE

Evidence Held Directed Against Arlington Real Estate Dealer.

GUN EXPERT LIKELY TO TESTIFY TODAY

Prisoner Awaits Fate in Jail at Alexandria; Alibi Is Strengthened, Claim.

The District grand jury yesterday began consideration of the Mary Baker murder case and expects to conclude its findings today.

All evidence in the case, it is said by the United States attorney's office, is directed against Herbert M. Campbell, Arlington County real estate man, who is being held in the county jail charged with first degree murder of the former Navy Department worker in the District.

Decision of the United State's Attorney's office to place the matter before the grand jury came as a surprise yesterday. It was instigated, it was said, after it was learned that Campbell probably would be released because of new alibi witnesses.

Grand Jury Report Near.

United States Attorney Leo A. Rover announced in connection with the presentation of the case to the grand jury that in event an indictment is returned a copy of it will be forwarded to Alexandria, where Campbell will appear before the United States commissioner at an early date to learn whether he will be returned to the District to face the charge. The Government believes will strengthen its case in its efforts to bring Campbell into the jurisdiction of the local courts.

The grand jury is expected to complete its findings today, and it is believed that any report it has to make will be immediately presented to the court.

It was understood that the United States attorney's office is banking its case on reports that immediately after several persons saw Mary Baker being beaten up near the Tidal Basin, several pistol shots were heard.

The following day the girl's body was found crammed in a culvert near Arlington National Cemetery. She had been assaulted, and slain with a pistol.

Col. Goddard on Way.

DROUGHT RELIEF PLAN DRAFTED BY HOOVER AND 13 STATE CHIEFS

Text of Statement Made By President on Drought

The text of the President's statement on drought relief follows:

We have canvassed the information secured by State and national surveys as to drought conditions. While the extent of the damage can not yet be determined, it is certain that there are at least 250 counties most acutely affected where some degree of relief must be provided. It was the view of the conference that the burden of effective organization to meet the situation over the winter in the acutely affected counties rests primarily upon the counties and the States themselves, supplemented by such cooperation and assistance as may be found necessary on the part of the Federal Government.

The objective of such relief is:

(a) To assist families over the winter who are deprived of means of support through failure of their crops.

(b) To prevent unnecessary sacrifice of live stock.

(c) Protection to public health.

This is to be accomplished by:

(a) Placing of loans privately or where necessary with assistance of State or national agencies.

(b) Red Cross assistance.

(c) Employment.

(d) Reduced railway rates for food, feed and live stock to the distressed districts.

This relief can be achieved justly and effectively only upon, first, a determination of the counties where such assistance is required, and, second, upon an accurate determination of the needs of each family. In order that such determinations may be made and assistance supplied as each case may require, the following organization is agreed upon:

1. That each governor who considers that a situation requiring an emergency relief exists within his State shall create a drought relief committee under the chairmanship of a leading citizen, and embracing in its membership a State agricultural official, a leading banker, a Red Cross representative, a railway representative and such farmers and others as the situation may require. This committee is to take general charge of relief measures within the State.

TRIO OF IMMEDIATE AIMS ARE OUTLINED

Four Principal Methods of Caring for Stricken Are Decided Upon.

(Associated Press.)

The groundwork for a far-reaching drought relief organization made up of Federal, State and county committees was agreed upon at the White House governors' conference yesterday with its immediate aim the prevention of live stock losses, assistance to needy farm families, and protection of the public health.

The conference was attended by governors of ten States and representatives of tthree other Commonwealths, and lasted more than three hours.

At its conclusion President Hoover declared in a statement that while the extent of the damage could not yet be determined it was certain at least 250 counties in the drought areas were "most acutely affected" and required some degree of aid.

Burden Rests on States.

It was the view of the conference, the President said, "that the burden of effective organization to meet the situation over the winter in the acutely affected counties rests primarily upon the counties and the States themselves, supplemented by such cooperation and assistance as may be found necessary on the part of the Federal Government.

"Four principal methods of relief were agreed upon, namely, placing loans privately or where necessary with the assistance of State or national agencies; Red Cross assistance; employment, and reduced railway rates for food, feed and live stock.

"This relief," the President asserted, "can be achieved justly and effectively only upon, first, a determination of the counties where such assistance is required, and second, upon an accurate determination of the needs of each family."

Will Work Through Committee.

To determine such needs, the conference agreed that each governor, if he deemed it necessary, should set up a drought relief committee headed by a leading citizen and including a State agricultural official, a leading banker, Red Cross and railway representatives, and such farmers and others as the situation warrants.

The State committees would organize groups in each county where organized relief is found necessary with a personnel similar to that of the State bodies.

The President will create a national committee composed of representatives of the Agriculture Department, Federal Farm Board, Federal Farm Loan Board, Red Cross, American Railway Association, and the Public Health Service. The duty of this committee will be to coordinate national, State and county relief work.

Red Cross Gives $5,000,000.

The Red Cross, the President's statement said, had made a preliminary allocation of $5,000,000 "pending determination of the aggregate need." This relief organization will organize its own committees in each drought county, the head of which will serve also on the county drought committee.

The duty of the county committees will be to receive individual applica-

MANN REPUBLICANS MAY ASSIST HEFLIN

Alabama Alliance Largest, Is Belief Here; Would Put New Party on Feet.

STREET HOLDS ALOOF

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

The possibility that the Southern Republican movement, headed by Col. Horace Mann, Southern Hoovercrat general in the 1928 campaign, may link up with Senator Heflin in Alabama is seen in political circles here.

Col. Mann could not be found yesterday to comment upon a report to this effect and it is presumed he was en route to Atlanta, where today his followers intend to incorporate a permanent organization.

There are many factors to give weight to the belief that they will tie up with Mr. Heflin. The Mann movement is purely and simply an effort to pick up the remnants of the Ku Klux Klan and mold it into a national political force. The klan was a political force in many Southern States in its heyday, but as one politician after another met the exigency by joining the order, it was gradually taken out of local Southern politics. For example, with all the politicians belonging to it one could hardly use it as his vehicle against an opponent who also belonged.

In the past two years there have been several efforts to revive it as a national political force. Hiram W. Evans, the imperial wizard, about a year ago, in an address out in a nearby Maryland county, spoke vaguely of a new political party in the South. At the time his statement was looked upon as a case of the wish being father to the thought.

But Col. Mann gave life to the idea when he took over the Republican presidential campaign in the South. He revived the klan, had a definite hook-up with it and in general instilled new life into it.

His followers and the colonel himself foresaw a permanent movement whose influence was not to be confined to the States, but was to be a power in national politics. The untiring efforts of Postmaster General Brown, however, set it back and it is just now beginning to rear its head again.

The Mann followers, of course, call themselves Southern Republicans and

FATE OF 47 MINERS HIDDEN BY CAVE-IN Bodies of Two Recovered After Explosion Near Vancouver.

OTHERS MAY SUFFOCATE

Princeton, B. C., Aug. 14 (A.P.).—The fate of 47 of the 49 men trapped in the Blackburn coal mine at Coalmont, near here, by an unexplained explosion last night which wrecked a portion of the mine tunnel and killed at least two of the miners, still was undetermined late today.

While fellow workers dug frantically to reach the buried men, relatives waited about the mine entrance in silence, hopeful of good news. The bodies of Clifford A. Smith, 40, and Albert Cole, 19, were recovered soon after the blast.

Mine officials and employes expressed fear tons of dirt had shut off air from the entombed men and that, if still alive, they would suffocate before they are reached.

Investigators were no nearer a solution of the blast cause than they were immediately after it occurred.

Workmen from this and other frontier villages, almost 300 miles from Vancouver, were laboring in shifts to remove the caved-in debris. A cave-in about 300 feet from the mouth of the tunnel blocked the passage.

Some miners attributed the explosion to marsh gas.

932 Dogs Killed In Month of July

State Game Wardens in Virginia Report on Activity.

Richmond, Va., Aug. 14 (A.P.).—July was a pretty disastrous month for dogs in Virginia. State game wardens reported having killed 932, an average of a little better than 30 a day.

Heaviest casualties were suffered by the dogs in Norfolk, where Warden Oliver Curling got rid of them at the rate of nearly six a day for a total of 174. W. N. Wharton scored the next highest with 110 in Richmond.

By traveling 141,641 miles over the State during July, the wardens discovered game law violators of whom 427 were convicted, paying $2,800 in fines and $1,831.62 in costs. The wardens also inspected 16,784 licenses.

Police to Investigate Radio Activities of 'Psychologist' Here

Maj. Pratt Orders Fraud Squad to Check Up on Programs of Prof. Gayle Norman, Who Answers Questions Sent to Station at Rate of $1 Per Query.

An investigation into the radio activities of Gayle Norman, who is introduced over Station WOL as a "psychologist and mentalist," was begun yesterday by the Police Department.

Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police, ordered the fraud squad of the Detective Bureau to check up on the broadcasts of Prof. Norman, who tells the radio audience that he will give "psychological answers" to questions at $1 a question.

Prof. Norman has been heard over WOL for the past several weeks. The professor does not claim occult powers. He specifically states during each broadcast that he is not a fortune teller. But he will endeavor to answer questions sent in, provided, of course, they are accompanied by $1 each.

"Remember, ladies and gentlemen," Prof. Norman said during his morning talk, "I am not a fortune teller or a clairvoyant or a palmist or a mind reader, but a psychologist and my answers are based on psychological reactions. If you have a question of importance on your mind and will write me a letter in care of Radio Station WOL, in Washington, stating your question and inclosing $1, I will have my secretary mail you my newest booklet and your question will be answered over the radio."

Since he has been broadcasting here the professor has given "psychological answers" to hundreds of questions. Some days he delivers only one broadcast in the morning, but at other times he is on the air twice a day giving "psychological answers" to twenty or more questions at a time, depending on the volume of the incoming dollar bills.

"A situation of this sort bears looking into," said Maj. Pratt yesterday. "We will make an investigation and take up the matter with the United States attorney or with the Federal Radio Commission if necessary."

Headquarters Detectives Clarence Talley and Ben Johnson were assigned to the inquiry. The police chief turned over to them stenographic transcripts of some of the professor's more recent broadcasts.

K Here are some of the questions and "psychological answers" in Wednesday's broadcast, according to the report in possession of the Police Department:

"Here's one by R. M.," said the professor. "You ask which way the party is traveling."

"The party is traveling seemingly southwest."

"John A. wants to know if he will get the car he wants by the time his vacation is started. My answer is, the party will get the particular kind of car he wants and will purchase this

The commissionership becomes vacant when Robert H. Lucas, of Kentucky, retires to assume his new post as executive director of the Republican national committee. Mr. Lucas is preparing to take over his new duties immediately.

Mr. Hoover is anxious to select a successor for this important office at tions for relief and recommend the method of treatment.

The State committees, cooperating with those in the counties, will determine the extent of need beyond county resources, and, if unable to meet the situation themselves, will seek aid from national agencies.

In conjunction with the Federal Farm Loan Board, the Intermediate Credit System and other Federal agencies, the State committees will find means of providing credit beyond local or State resources to farmers for purchase of seed, feed, support of families, or movement of live stock out of the drought sections.

Move to Aid Employment.

To increase employment, it was agreed that the Department of Agriculture investigate the possibilities of advancing State road allotments to drought areas. This proposal was advanced by Gov. Cooper of Ohio and others.

Under the program the Agriculture Department also will publish information regarding sources of food supply and localities to which live stock may be shipped for watering and feeding.

It was proposed that such States as Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas and others, where a surplus of feed exists, create separate committees to cooperate with like organizations in States having surplus livestock in the moving of such stock.

President Hoover pointed out that the railroads "already have generously reduced rates by 50 per cent on food and feed inward to the drought counties and live stock movement outward, to dealers and persons who are entitled to relief and so designated by the county agents or the committees created above."

Guests at White House.

"By the inclusion of the county agents in the county committees and a railway representative upon the State committees," he added, "this service will be coordinated to the national agencies."

Although the conference formally ended yesterday, the State representatives were guests last night of President and Mrs. Hoover at a White House dinner, after which the informal discussion of the proposed relief set-up continued.

Further conferences will be held by the President today with representatives of farm organizations. Before leaving for a week-end trip to his mountain lodge in Virginia he will confer with Samuel H. Thompson, of the American Farm Bureau Federation; Louis J. Taber, of the National Grange, and C. O. Talbott, of the National Farmers' Union.

Those at Conference.

Those present at yesterday's conferences were the President, Secretary Hyde, Govs. Caulfield, Missouri; Emmerson, Illinois; Leslie, Indiana; Cooper, Ohio; Conley, West Virginia; Pollard, Virginia; Erickson, Montana; Weaver, Nebraska; Hammill, Iowa, and Reed, Kansas; Harvey T. Harrison, proxy for Gov. Parnell, Arkansas; Senator Robsion, proxy for Gov. Sampson, Kentucky, and State Agriculture Commissioner Fitts, proxy for Gov. Horton, Tennessee; Chairman Legge, Federal Farm Board; James C. Stone, vice chairman, and Charles S. Wilson, member of the same board; Paul Bestor, Federal Farm Loan Board, and John Barton Payne, chairman of the American Red Cross.

Rain Greets Conference.

Rain, which had been hoped and even prayed for in some communities for weeks greeted the first large gathering of governors in Washington in years.

Weather Bureau reports that the clouds also were loosing their precious drops in some of the drought regions comforted the State officials as they trooped into the executive offices of the White House and took seats in the historic Cabinet room.

Each governor laid his case befcre the President, as had been requested. Then Secretary Hyde dumped on the huge table a stack of reports from more than 200 county agents of his department showing the extent of crop damage.

After considerable discussion, Mr. Hoover, at home in his principal role of relief organizer, proposed the machinery to carry out the drought attack and it was accepted unanimously.

Reed Talks on Grain.

Chairman Legge, whose program of acreage reduction to help the wheat situation has been in controversy, rubbed elbows with Gov. Reed of Kansas, who only a few days ago took sharp issue with the Farm Board head on this point.

In a talk with newspapermen after the conference, Gov. Reed said he favored authority being given the Farmers National Grain Corporation to "bring feed from where it is and sell it where it isn't."

He also proposed distribution of surplus Government funds in the large banking centers to banks in the drought areas to make more money available for loans to farmers on "good security."

He conceded this security would be "pretty thin," but added, "this is an emergency."

Mr. Legge arrived at the White House an hour late, puffing and blowing. Rain interrupted his flight here by airplane from the West, and he was forced to take the train yesterday from Dayton, Ohio, to Harrisburg, Pa., before obtaining another plane to bring him to the Capital.

Pasturage Grant Benefits Farmers

36,000 Acres in Virginia Are Made Available for Drought Relief.

Special to The Washington Post.

Fredericksburg, Va., Aug. 14.—Thirty-six thousand acres of land today were made available for free pasturage to farmers in eight counties contiguous to Fredericksburg when the E. M. Young Lumber Co., J. W. Masters, Inc., A. W. Embrey estate, W. S. Embrey, Inc., Judge Alvin T. Embrey and the Virginia Electric & Power Co., large landholders in this section, offered hundreds of well-watered grazing tracts to farmers whose drought-blighted fields can not provide sufficient nourishment for cattle.

The gratuitous offer giving unrestricted use of 5,997 acres in Spotsylvania, 3,581 in Stafford, 1,903 in Orange, 1,281 in Prince William, 1,214 in Culpeper, 757 in Fauquier, 326 in King George and 93 in Caroline Counties is expected to relieve the deplorable pasturage situation until the drought is broken. The most of the land is wooded and located in sparsely populated areas where water is plentiful.

In line with measures for the relief of distressed farmers in this area, Commonwealth's Attorney S. P. Powell, of Spotsylvania County, has proposed that the law requiring cattle to be fenced in be disregarded and that the animals be permitted to roam at large on the highways or commons wherever grazing can be found.

SURVEY IN FAIRFAX SHOWS CROPS HURT

Farmers to Harvest Only Small Part of Their Normal Output.

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Clarendon 2324-W-2.

The seriousness of the drought in Fairfax County is better realized by the table prepared by the joint meeting of representatives of Agricultural Committee of the Fairfax County Pocounty agriculture advisory board, and the agriculture committee of the Fairfax County Chamber of Commerce. At the request of Gov. John G. Pollard this joint meeting estimated the drought conditions in the county and the damage to the crops of the farmers.

After a careful study and investigation they estimated that the farmers would reap only a small portion of their normal crops. Timothy hay would only be 50 per cent normal, clover and alfalfa only 35 per cent, field corn only 33 per cent, ensilage corn 35 per cent, oats 37 per cent, early potatoes 33 per cent and the late potatoes a failure. As the farmers of the county consume a larger percentage of the crops normally than were raised this year, persons who are familiar with the problems of the farmer say that unless some relief is granted immediately the farmers of northern Virginia ace one of the hardest winters financially that has ever been known.

Dairymen are now having to buy feed for their cattle as they usually do in the winter, because all grass and hay have dried up before they matured enough to harvest. Their crops for winter feed have been complete failures, and the water shortage has curtailed the milk and butter production to such a point that they will have to start the winter without enough surplus funds to tide them over the winter, they declare.

A committee consisting of R. Colton Lewis, of the Pomona Grange; Franklyn Williams, of the county advisory board, and H. B. Derr, county agricultural agent for the farmers, yesterday afternoon visited Gov. Pollard at the White House, where he was attending President Hoover's conference of governors, and presented him with copies of the resolutions passed by the joint meeting the night before in Fairfax County.

The first resolution called upon President Hoover to devise plans to prevent profiteering by speculators in all commodities sold or consumed by the farmer and public.

The second resolution addressed to Gov. Pollard asked him to call a special session of the State Legislature and have the 5 per cent penalty on all delinquent taxes suspended this year at least.

The third resolution asked President Hoover to declare an emergency now exists among the farmers of the Nation, because of the drought, and to take steps to prevent the Federal Land Banks from foreclosing the mortgages on delinquena members of the bank.

Another resolution asked that some plan be evolved for financing and giving emergency credit to worthy and needy farmers that have been stricken by the drought.

The last resolution asked the President to have railroad rates reduced on all comodities that the farmer needs.

County Agent Derr announced last night that since these resolutions were presented to the governor yesterday afternoon that two carloads of feed for farmers in Fairfax County were received by dealers at a reduced freight rate of $2.40 per ton. In order for the dealer to receive this reduced rate it was necessary for him to get a certificate from the county agent guaranteeing that the dealer was accredited in the county and that the farmer would receive the benefit of the reduced rate. Agent Derr states that this small amount alone will mean a saving of thousands of dollars to Fairfax County farmers, better enabling them to purchase a greater proportionate amount of feed for their live stock.

Mr. Derr also announced last night that there would be a special meeting of the bankers and agricultural agencies of Fairfax County Friday night of next week to ascertain if county institutions can finance the needs of the farmers of the county. They will try to devise some plan whereby a farmer can obtain loans from local agencies to finance himself until his crops mature next fall.

The board of directors of the Fairfax County Chamber of Commerce will hold a meeting tonight in the chamber's offices in Fairfax. They will discuss plans for the chamber's participation in the annual Fairfax County Fair that is to be held next month. The chamber usually entertain the chambers from the neighboring counties and cities on the second day of the fair, which is known as Chamber of Commerce Day.

The Fairfax County School Board has named the school janitors for the coming year and has awarded contracts for the school bus routes.

H. B. Gray was appointed janitor at Annandale and driver of the bus from Springfield to Annandale. C. H. Ball was reappointed janitor at Chesterbrook, Joseph I. Robey at Clifton Station, Vernon Kidwell at Fairfax, J. L. Simpkins at Floris, G. R. McCutcheon at Forestville, Sandy Fuller at Lee Jackson, J. F. Beymer at Oakton, Joseph Clair at Pottershill, and G. W. Constable at Vienna. No janitors have been named for the schools at McLean and Baileys Cross Roads.

Alvin D. Davis was given the contract for supplying the schools of the county with firewood with the following exceptions: Centerville School will be supplied by C. D. Roberson, Rockfield School by C. P. Reynolds, Vale School by E. E. Neff, Forestville School and Jefferson School by M. S. Money, and the Herndon Colored School by B. F. Groves.

The coal contract was awarded to the De Witton, Aitcheson Co., of Alexandria.

Divisional Superintendent of Schools W. T. Woodson states that the board has endeavored to secure the most dependable type of bus driver for the school buses so that the parents may have the utmost confidence for the safety of their children.

The county-owned buses will be driven from Red Hill and Legate to Centerville by C. A. Hylton; from Centerville to Clifton or to Oakton by C. D. Roberson; Chantilly to Floris, two trips; to Herndon, one trip, by the son of Mrs. Lizzie Blevins; from Pender and Merryfield to Fairfax, from Potters Hill to Lee-Jackson, by Joseph Clair.

The privately owned buses will be used from Daileys Store and Tuckers Corners to Forestville by H. M. Presgraves, from Silver Brook and Ox road to Lorton by W. F. Hawley, from Popes Head and Oak Grove to Fairview by W. I. DeBusk, from Noyes' gate on the Chain Bridge highway and Tysons Corners to McLean to the Washington, Virginia & Maryland Coach Co., from Lincolnia to Annandale to Lee-Jackson by V. C. Donaldson, Baileys Cross Roads to Lee-Jackson by V. C. Donaldson, Elgin to Clifton by L. F. Detwiler.

The contract for hauling children from Colvin Run to Forestville and carrying high school children on to Herndon was awarded to Marion Money for two years, provided he furnish a bus approved by the division superintendent and Trustee Joseph Murphy, and provided further that his services prove satisfactory and the board continues the transportation route. Should the route be discontinued at the end of this year, the board agreed to purchase the school bus body from Money at cost, less depreciation.

The board of directors of the Herndon Water Co., at its last meeting, decided that in view of the seriousness of the present drought that they they would furnish water to those persons for household use only. No water is to be used for washing cars, sprinkling laws or flowers. The Herndon town council has passed an ordinance stating that any one using water for any but household purposes shall be subject to a fine of $25 and cost. The wells of the water company apparently have been holding up, but the consumption of water having been so great during the hot weather these measures were taken to insure an adequate water supply for emergency.

President's Statement On U. S. Drought Relief

2. The State committee to determine the drought counties where there is need for organized relief and to organize a committee in such county, likewise under the chairmanship of a leading citizen, and embracing the county agricultural agent, a leading banker, county Red Cross leader, farmers and others.

3. The county committees will receive individual applications for relief and recommend the method of treatment, and coordinate the various agencies in service thereto by way of loans, Red Cross assistance, employment, &c. The State committees, in cooperation with the county committees, to determine which counties are in need beyond the resources of the people of the county and in what direction; i. e., whether loans are required beyond the ability of the local banks, or Red Cross assistance beyond the resources of the county chapter; what quantities of imports of feed or food are required, &c. The State committee to cooperate with national agencies if these requirements are beyond the State resources.

Provision of Credit.

4. The President will set up a committee comprising representatives of the Department of Agriculture, the Federal Farm Board, the Federal Farm Loan Board, the Red Cross, the American Railway Association, the Public Health Service. This committee, through its chairman, will coordinate national activities and national support to the State and county committees.

5. The methods for provision of credit beyond local or State resources for the purchase of feed, seed, movement of live stock, or support of families over the winter will be developed by State committees in cooperation with the Federal Farm Board, the Federal Farm Loan Board, the intermediate credit system and other Federal agencies.

6. The Red Cross will organize its own committees in each drought county, the chairman of which will be a member of the county drought relief committee. The National Red Cross has made a preliminary allocation of $5,000,000 pending determination of the aggregate need.

Reduced Rail Rates.

7. The railways have already generously reduced rates by 50 per cent on food and feed inward to the drought counties and livestock movement outward, to dealers and persons who are entitled to relief and so designated by the county agents or the committees created above.

8. The Department of Agriculture will secure and disseminate information as to sources of feed supply and localities to which livestock may be shipped. It will examine the possibilities of advancing State road allotments to drought areas in order to increase employment.

9. In the States of Iowa, Nebraska and Kansas, and others having a surplus of feed, it is recommended that a State committee be set up to cooperate with the committee in the States of surplus livestock.

Baltimore Offers Water Famine Aid

Mayor Wires Other Cities Promising Supply for Transportation Cost.

Baltimore, Aug. 14 (A.P.).—Baltimore is ready to supply water to drought-stricken Maryland communities whose supply is low. Mayor William F. Broening has sent telegrams to all mayors and county commissioners offering them water if transportation arrangements are made by the recipients.

Cumberland, Frederick, Annapolis and a number of other chief cities have been on restricted consumption for weeks and more serious conditions have been reported from smaller towns and rural sections.

A plan to send water to Annapolis the State capital, on car floats was rejected for the present by the Annapolis mayor, who said the situation did not require such heroic measures as yet.

A fight by several hundred men on forest fires, chiefly in Washington County, continued today, as reports of additional blazes were made.

Damage in Maryland from forest fires since January 1 was estimated today by John R. Curry, assistant state forester, at more than $600,000. Four hundred fires since July 1 alone, he said, have burned over 25,000 acres and caused $200,000 destruction.

The wheat sold at 97 cents a ousbel and is the cheapest feed on the market, the grain firm making the shipment said.

Farm in Fire Path Saved by Fighters

Vounteers Called Out From Hamilton Purcellville and Round Hill.

Special to The Washington Post.

Purcellville, Va., Aug. 14.—Nearly 1,000 acres of valuable timber have been destroyed by the forest fires which have raged for a week on the east and west sides of the Blue Ridge Mountains and are now sweeping northward toward the Keys Ferry road. Volunteers from Hamilton, Purcellville, Round Hill and Hillsboro were again called out to aid Harry C. Cooper, prominent farmer and owner of timber land near the mountains. Fighting all night, the men were able to save Mr. Cooper's property and the residence of Percy Koontz, which was in the path of the fire.

In appealing to headquarters for help to fight the blaze, the Virginia Forest Service declared they had no men left to send, as all were out controlling the fighting in othre sections. It is thought now that the fire on the east side of the mountain is under control due to the valiant fighting of the mountain dwellers and volunteers from other sections of Loudoun County.

Raymond Case, of Purcellville, received painful injuries on the leg while fighting the flames.

Army Post Seeking New Water Supply

River Furnishes Baths, but Drinks Are Scarce at Camp Humphreys.

And now, with signs of the breaking of the drought, comes Camp Humphreys with the plaint that it too, faces a shortage of drinking water unless the promised rains speedily fill depleted stores. There is sufficient bathing and washing water, according to authorities, from the river, but this is not suited for drinking purposes.

The river water can be filtered and chlorinated until it is clean, but the heavy application of chemicals make it well-nigh impossible to drink. Even if the 1,700 personnel could down the treated river water, they would be liable to various intestinal disorders.

Another tank truck has been put into service to haul water from Washington for drinking purposes to relieve the shortage. When the 121st Engineers Regiment went down on its annual encampment several weeks ago, they instituted one-truck service, and now the new truck is carrying the beverage to the post proper. Each truck has a capacity of 1,500 gallons per trip and makes, usually, four trips per day.

Among those on the speakers' list are Gen. Frank T. Hines, director of the United States Veterans' Bureau; Maj. Gen. John A. Lejeune, former commander of the Marine Corps and now superintendent of Virginia Military Institute, and Gen. William Mitchell, war-time assistant chief of the Air Corps.

Registration of delegates will begin at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon, September 7, and last through the next morning. The Forty and Eight is to meet Sunday night, and joint Legion and Legion Auxiliary services will be held at the Presbyterian Church, after which the department executive committee will hold its first session.

Mountain Forest Fire Out of Bounds

Call Made for More Men to Fight Flames Raging Near Martinsburg.

Special to The Washington Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., Aug. 14.—A fire on Sleepy Creek Mountain, west of here, in blaze threateningly for ten days, broke out of bounds late Wednesday, in spite of 50 volunteers fighting it, and today a fresh call for fighters from Morgan and Berkeley Counties was issued. The rain today was sufficient to dampen the underbrush and slow up the spread although not heavy enough to put out all blazes. The fire so far has burned over an area six miles long and four miles wide.

Firefighters in the Sleepy Creek section have had to risk danger from rattlesnakes. Fire Warden Frank Miles yesterday nearly stepped on a four-foot rattler with six little snakes. He killed them.

A blaze on the east side of the Shenandoah River in Jefferson County has been in progress for a week, with wardens from two counties helping organize the fight. It has burned over an estimated 2,000 acres. Smoke has been so heavy as to give the impression of fire in Charles Town, near the scene.

FOUR DIE IN NAPLES GALE; SCORES HURT

Six of Those Injured as Wind Sweeps Through Market May Not Recover.

STALLS FALL ON CROWD

Naples, Italy, Aug. 14 (A.P.).—This city, just recovering from the terror and casualties of the recent earthquake, fell victim today to a terrific storm which took the lives of four persons and inflicted many injuries.

In all 6 of those injured are dying, 20 are in a serious condition, while 50 are suffering from lighter hurts.

The terrific wind swept the Pigglioreale market place, where 3,000 persons were engaged in their marketing, and tumbled the market stands on their heads. Several of those killed were struck down by the collapse of a wall near the Rome Airplane Works.

The storm broke early this morning and caused panic in the market place. Carabinieri and firemen immediately rushed to the scene to aid the injured and extricate those caught in the debris.

There were no American tourists among the victims of the storm.

DETROIT GRAND JURY TO HOLD CRIME QUIZ

Edgar A. Guest in Mixed Group of 23 Which Will Air Buckley Case.

PISTOLS CLAIM ANOTHER

Detroit, Aug. 14 (A.P.).—Twenty-three persons whose occupations range from housewife to State senator were drawn today for service on the grand jury which will investigate Detroit crime conditions.

Next Monday the jury will convene under the active leadership of Attorney General Wilbur M. Brucker and Prosecutor James E. Chenot to take up the slaying of Jerry Buckley, radio political commentator, by three gunmen July 23, and such other recent killings and lesser crimes as have a bearing on the general situation.

The 23 grand jurors represent a fair cross section of the county and city life. The list includes bankers, manufacturers, real estate operators, a minister, a newspaper poet, a State senator, two township officials, a funeral director, the owner of a radio broadcasting station and an engineer. There are three women on the jury, one of whom is the wife of Judge Edward J. Jeffries, a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor. The poet is Edgar A. Guest, whose verses are used on many newspapers.

When the grand jury assembles next Monday it will find itself faced with fifteen instead of fourteen gangster killings which will demand investigation. The fifteenth occurred last night when an unidentified gunman shot and killed Cicero Mangiapani, belived to have been a down-river liquor operator.

Magiapani was slain as he and the gunmen drove about Grosse Pointe in the former's automobile. The police have been unable definitely to link the victim with any local gangs. They suspect he was connected with some group in Brooklyn, N. Y.

In New York, Michigan, and Detroit, authorities armed with requisition papers and a murder warrant appeared to press the State's demand for the removal here of Ted Pizzoni, alleged "trigger man" in the Buckley killing. Gov. Fred W. Green had announced he would intercede personally with Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York, if Detroit officers encountered any difficulty in extraditing Pizzoni.

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 14 (A.P.).—An application for the extradition to Michigan of Ted Pizzoni, suspect in the slaying of Jerry Buckley, Detroit radio announcer, was brought to the State executive office today by Lieut. John Hoffman, of the Detroit police.

HERRICK FIGHTS OWN CASE ON RUM COUNT

Former House Member Acts as Attorney at Hearing in Baltimore Court.

HELD FOR FEDERAL TRIAL

Baltimore, Aug. 14 (A.P.).—Manuel Herrick, former Oklahoma representative, acted as his own attorney today at a hearing growing out of his arrest last week while working at a still in St. Mary's County, Md., as a $15-a-week handy man.

He cross-examined witnesses, making frequent side comments, but despite his attempt to prove he was at the still for the purpose of obtaining evidence for the prohibition department at Washington, was held for a Federal district court trial under $1,500 bond.

He has been in jail here since his arrest and there was no indication today he would be able to provide bond. Two men arrested with him were held under $1,000 bonds.

Prohibition agents said Herrick was passing buckets of mash to a Negro at the still when they arrived. Herrick drew from John P. Moore, senior clerk at the Prohibition Bureau at Washington, an admission that Moore had promised he would "attempt to get compensation" for any evidence Herrick might report.

Moore said, however, he refused Herrick a regular job with the department and warned him he would be collecting evidence at his own risk.

Herrick told Commissioner H. A. Abercrombie he had hoped to place Charles McGrath on the stand as a witness to testify that McGrath had been used as intermediary to carry evidence to officers, as Herrick said "it was useless to try to get information on dry law violations through the St. Mary's County postoffice." McGrath, however, he said, was out of town.

Herrick testified he was employed by William F. Airrey, one of the two men arrested with him, but said he did not believe Airrey was operator of the still, a 1,000-gallon affair.

Last week Herrick was wearing tattered overalls, but today was neatly attired. As a parcel, however, he carried a battered suit case bound with rope.

Bus Upsets; Six Hurt.

CAPITAL HAS SECOND RAINFALL IN AUGUST

HIGH TEMPERATURE 75

Just enough rain fell in and around Washington yesterday and last night to remind residents of what a shower was like before the days of the drought. The temperature, after rising slightly Wednesday, fell again to an almost chilly plane and brought out more heavy clothes and blankets.

A brief morning downpour and a drab, cloudy afternoon were followed by occasional rainfall and low temperatures last night.

The precipitation was not enough to help farm crops in nearby Maryland and Virginia and, though partly cloudy skies were predicted for today and probably tomorrow with continued cool weather, officials of the Weather bureau could give no assurance of more rain for at least the next two days.

The official mercury ranged yesterday from 63 degrees at 5:45 o'clock in the morning, to a peak of 75 degrees at 4 o'clock. The latter was 4 degrees cooler than the high mark for the day before.

Showers fell for the first time about 8 o'clock yesterday morning since August 2, when there was just a trifle more than .02 inch of rain.

Despite the unusually dry weather in this vicinity last month the Weather Bureau reported that it was the wettest July the Capital has had in four years. At that, it was only 2.30 inches, while the normal July precipitation is 4.71.

GANGS SHOOT FIVE IN THREE-CITY WAR

Two of Three Slain at St. Paul Are Linked to $142,000 Bank Robbery.

FIFTEENTH IN DETROIT

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 14 (A.P.).—Two of the three men found shot to death on an unfrequented road near here last night were identified late today as members of a gang of five which robbed the Bank of Willmar, Minn., of $142,000 July 15.

The identification was made by two of the bank's staff when they viewed the bodies of Harry Silverman, alias Stein, and a man whose name has not been learned.

Two of the men had previously been identified as Frank Coleman, an associate of Solly Weisman, Minneapolis and Kansas City gambler, and Sammy Silverman, alias Stein, wanted at Kansas City for the slaying of a policeman during a bank holdup there more than two years ago. The third man was first thought to be Adolph "Butch" Myers, a St. Paul hoodlum, but police said late today they believed he also came from Kansas City.

Identification by Brother.

Coleman was identified through a telephone call from Kansas City, which police said came from his sister. A man who said he was Silverman's brother identified him. He said he had not seen the victim in three years. Coleman's body was taken to Kansas City tonight.

Police questioned residents of the district near Wildwood, where the slayings occurred, but learned nothing of consequence.

In the absence of definite information, State investigators, under Gen. W. F. Rhynow, head of the Minnesota Bureau of Criminal Apprehension, were considering four theories as motives for the triple slaying. These, all pointing toward gang activities, were:

Theories Considered for Motive.

That the victims participated in the $142,000 hold-up of the Bank of Willmar, Minn., July 15, and were "put on the spot" after a disagreement with confederates over the division of the loot.

Reprisal for the slaying in Minneapolis last spring of Max Golden, Minneapolis bootlegger and gambler.

Dispute over slot machines or division of racketeering territory.

Disagreement among members of a gang as to leadership.

Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 14 (A.P.).—Police tonight vainly sought tangible evidence of the identity of the third victim of the St. Paul gangland feud which last night also caused the shooting to death of Sam Stein and Frank Coleman, both of Kansas City.

Investigators here agreed with St. Paul police that it was possible the third man also was from Kansas City. An accurate check, however, must await the arrival of fingerprints and other information from St. Paul, it was said.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 14 (A.P.).—Detroit's fifteenth recent gangster assassination was recorded last night. The victim was Cicero Mangiapani, suspected of having been a liquor operator. He was shot five times by a short, dark man, who was riding beside him in his automobile at Mack and Lake Pointe avenues in Grosse Pointe Park at 11:30 p. m.

The assassin leaped from Mangiapani's car and escaped as the car, out of control, crashed into the curb.

The police believe that Mangiapani was slain because he had violated the code of some racket, but his particular activity has not been determined. They also said that Mangiapani probably had been expecting such an eventuality, this belief being borne out by the discovery of a loaded and cocked pistol on his person.

Woman Shot Down.

Hamilton, Ont., Aug. 14 (A.P.).—Mrs. Bessie Perri, who, as wife of Rocco Perri, wealthy self-styled "bootleg king," was called mentor of the rum ring which built up her husband's wealth during the days of the Ontario temperance act, was shot dead last night on the back steps of her home.

She fell under three charges of slugs, fired from two shotguns out of the darkness of the Perri garage, where only a few moments before she and her husband had alighted from their automobile.

Perri was unharmed. He stood maneuvering the garage doors, out of range of the guns.

When Mrs. Perri screamed at the first shot, her assassins fired two more charges at her, then three men darted from the garage and escaped in an automobile parked in the alley.

Police found the two shotguns inside of the garage, one a double-barreled weapon.

Police believed the men had intended to kill Perri. The couple had been visiting relatives and returned home shortly before midnight.

Perri admitted, police said, that his wife was responsible for his fortune, having directed his former bootlegging activities.

GIVES REPORT

JOHN LEWIS SMITH, head of the Board of Trade subcommittee which denounces "lawless enforcement" tactics of Federal agents in its report on District conditions made public yesterday.

would confirm the report, it was stated yesterday that Col. Calvin H. Goddard, of Northwestern University, who identified the bullets fired from Campbell's gun as the same as those that killed Mary Baker, will reach the city this morning prepared to testify. His absence is said to have been the reason for the continuance of the hearing until today.

Witnesses appearing yesterday were: Sam Hardy, Department of Justice agent, who carried the bullets to Col. Goddard; William C. Gloth, Commonwealth's attorney for Arlington County; Lieut. Edward J. Kelly, Dr. A. Magruder McDonald; Dr. W. C. Welburn, of Ballston, Va., who performed the autopsy; Miss Olga Skinner, friend of the dead girl, who identified her body; Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Wood, who told of the struggle at Seventeenth and B streets; Lieut. John Fowler, of the Tenth Precinct; ballistics expert of the Police Department, and Detective Sergt. John Flaherty.

Statement by Couple.

Frank Campbell, brother of the accused man, last night made public the following statement concerning the witnesses whose testimony he is confident will clear the Arlington County real estate man.

The statement follows:

Two new witnesses, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Green, of Murray avenue, Virginia Highlands, to whom Herbert Campbell sold a house, state that they moved into their new home on April 12, 1930, and that Mr. Campbell had promised to get new electric light bulbs for the house; that they went out to their new home late Friday afternoon, April 11 (the day of Miss Baker's death) to make sure that the paperhanger had finished his work, and that the house would be in readiness for them to move into the next day; that they went from there to the home of Mr. Herbert Campbell, a few blocks distant, to see about the light bulbs; that they were there between 6 and 6:15 p. m. (Miss Baker was seen in her auto with her assailant at 6 p. m.); that Mr. Green went into Mr. Campbell's house first to see about the lights; that Mr. Campbell advised the purchase of flame-colored lights instead of white lights because they gave a softer light, and that the husband then called to his wife (who was in their auto outside) to come in and see how she liked the flame-colored lights in Mr. Campbell's home; that they were introduced to Mrs. Herbert Campbell and that they talked to both Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Campbell at that time, for ten minutes or more.

used language similar to that in the West case and also employed the prisoner's sweetheart to extort an admission of the crime.

Investigation of 1925.

The Board of Trade report recalls and quotes at length the findings of a grand jury in 1925 on charges of police brutality and third degree methods in Washington.

The conclusions of the grand jury were:

"We have found nothing in our investigation to support any charges that the local Police Department is mistreating prisoners in any manner whatever for the purpose of obtaining confessions or statements. We believe their practice is to advise the prisoner of his constitutional rights and then question him thoroughly; but we have found no evidence of unfairness.

"We did not find any evidence to substantiate any charge or suspicion that third degree methods are resorted to by the police; but we did find that prisoners had been mistreated for other reasons while in custody of the police, although there is no evidence that such misconduct is general and the number of officers thus affected is relatively small, being about 1 per cent of the total number."

Man, 60, Is Accused Of Embezzling $976

Charges of embezzling $976 were placed against William F. Berlin, 60 years old, of Mount Rainier, Md., by Herbert Schosing, of 1325 Eleventh street northwest, yesterday.

According to Mr. Schosing's statements to police, last November Berlin sold a bakery business for him. Out of the proceeds, Berlin was to pay all the creditors of the concern and turn the rest of the funds over to Schosing. The $976 is the amount which was to have been paid creditors, but which Schosing says Berlin turned to his own uses.

Man Gets 60-Day Term On Liquor Accusation

Pleading guilty to possession of 1 quart of whisky, William Holland, Negro, of Twenty-fourth street northwest near K street, was sent to jail by Judge Robert E. Mattingly in Police Court yesterday for 60 days.

The Negro was arrested Wednesday night in a raid on a house in Phillips Court. Police said that a large quantity of liquor was poured on the floor, but that by using their handkerchiefs as mops they salvaged a quart.

Lacking Proper Tags, Autoist Pays $7 Fine

Edward L. Payne was arraigned in Police Court yesterday on a charge of operating an automobile without the proper tags and without necessary lights.

Judge John P. McMahon fined him $7 after the defendant had explained that when he purchased the automobile at an auction sale the auctioneer told him that he did not need tags or lights. The auctioneer told the man, according to his story, that his bill of sale was as good as tags.

Man to Remain in Jail Until Job Commences

Arraigned in Police Court yesterday on a vagrancy charge, William L. Johnson, Negro, explained that he has a job promised on September 1. Judge Isaac R. Hitt then sentenced the man to serve fifteen days in jail.

The sentence was imposed after the man had told the court that he would not mind going to jail and having a place to eat and sleep if he would get out in time to get his promised job.

Mexican Officials Deny Statements

Financial-Claims-Boundary Reports Called Untrue and Malicious.

In connection with reports said to have been appearing in the American press relative to Mexican financial matters, as well as to claims and boundary questions, the department of foreign relations of Mexico yesterday issued the following statement:

"During the last days, some Mexico City papers have been publishing reports allegedly transmitted from the United States, with comments, remarks and would be projects relative to the adjustment of Mexican international obligations, of pending American claims and of the boundary waters between United States and Mexico. These reports, which show a decided malicious character, are without foundation, and obviously intended to influence public opinion or perhaps the Mexican government.

"The department of foreign relations, as well as the treasury department of Mexico, emphatically deny such reports, which undoubtedly are being circulated by persons interested in discrediting the agreements reached on those matters, agreements which were given to the press in due time, and clearly explained through official statements."

Another Georgetown Home Found Looted
Reprint from Washington Post of August 12th.
J. M. Sternhagen, Member of U. S. Tax Board of Appeals, Returns From Vacation to Find Dwelling Visited by Thieves.
Moving with a thoroughness that is disconcerting to police, the same band of burglars that recently raided the homes of two old Georgetown families while they were closed for the summer, added a third "job" to their list, it became known yesterday, when John M. Sternhagen, member of the United States Board of Tax Appeals, told police that thieves had literally carried away his home.
Mr. Sternhagen, one of the Government's experts on tax matters, discovered the robbery several days ago. It is believed to have occurred while his family, he is single, was at their Farms, in Virginia, and it was known that the home was empty.
The thieves have established a search for him, but his general description would fit about four out of five men of that age.

COUNTY CANDIDATES FILE IN DUPLICATE

Progressive Democrat Wing in Montgomery Takes Protection Step.

FEAR TECHNICAL LOSS

Seeing the possibility of disqualification of their certificates of candidacy at the Montgomery County primary election because of a technicality, Progressive Democratic candidates filed duplicate certificates yesterday with the supervisor of elections at Rockville, Md.

It was explained that in filing the duplicates, extreme care was made to follow the letter of the law minutely to avoid the possibility that any of the Progressives might be denied places on the primary election ballots because of improperly filled certificates.

Two Republicans, five Progressive Democrats and six organization Democrats are the most recent to file certificates of candidacy for various Montgomery County offices with the supervisor of elections.

The Republicans are Thomas I. Fulk, of Gaithersburg, for county treasurer, and Walter W. Dawson, of Rockville, for the House of Delegates. The Progressives are James P. Gott, of Rockville; Enos C. Keyes, of Forest Glen, and Dr. Bates Etchison, of Gaithersburg, for the Democratic State central committee; and Edward P. Abbe, of Chevy Chase, and James L. Morris, of Bethesda, for delegates to the Democratic State convention.

The organization Democrats are Ralph S. Morrison, of Bethesda, for the House of Delegates, completing the organization's ticket for this office; Berry E. Clark, of Rockville, for the State central committee; Perrie E. Waters, of Rockville, for register of wills; Richard H. Lansdale, of Sandy Spring, for sheriff; J. Forrest Walker, of Gaithersburg, for county treasurer, and W. Frank Ricketts, of Derwood, and John B. Diamond, jr., of Gaithersburg, for county commissioners from the fourth and sixth districts, respectively.

After spending the night sleeping in the branches of a peach tree in an orchard near Kengar, Md., Raymond Dorsey, colored, of Kengar, walked into Montgomery County police headquarters at Rockville yesterday and gave himself up after shooting and seriously wounding Sarah Hopkins Davis, colored, early yesterday morning.

Dorsey's only explanation of the affair in which the girl was struck by three bullets was that he had found her in the company of another man when he had supposed she was reserving her affections for him. He was held without bond in the jail at Rockville.

Its first county-wide political rally is to be held by the Progressive Democratic party of Montgomery County Monday at the National Guard Armory at Silver Spring, with arrangements made to accommodate at least 1,500 persons.

Raymond L. Schreiner, of Takoma Park, president of the Bank of Brightwood, will preside, and the speakers will include Albert M. Boulo, of Rockville; E. Barrett Prettyman, of Chevy Chase, candidate for the House of Delegates; William I. Aud, Gaithersburg, candidate for sheriff; Dr. Eugene Jones, Kensington, candidate for State senator; Mrs. Parker Weller, of Barnesville, and John E. Oxley, of Rockville, candidate for State's attorney.

Virginian Leaves To View Eclipse

Dr. Mitchell Off for South Pacific Ocean as Head of Expedition.

Charlottesville, Va., Aug. 14.—Dr. S. A. Mitchell, director of the Leander McCormick Observatory at the University of Virginia, left here yesterday for the South Pacific Ocean to observe a total eclipse of the sun.

Prof. Mitchell is a veteran eclipse observer. The eclipse visible in October will be the eighth he has observed, and to secure the necessary observations he has had to travel 90,000 miles by land and sea. He goes as the scientific head of the American Eclipse Expedition. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Mitchell and by his personal assistant, Mr. Herbert Fales, of Pasadena.

Across the thousands of miles of waters of the Pacific Ocean there is only one small island where the eclipse will be observed. This is the island of Nipaou of the Tonga group, lying about 15 degrees south of the Equator and near the international date line. The island is only 3 miles in diameter and is inhabited by about 1,000 natives of the Polynesian race.

Maryland Gets First Good Rain in 49 Days

Baltimore, Aug. 14 (A.P.).—Maryland got rain today, the first of any consequence in 49 days, but not enough to relieve the drought materially. It did, however, aid in checking a forest fire in Washington County, which was brought under control by more than 200 men, some of whom had been at the scene 36 hours. More than 2,000 acres of woods and farm lands were burned over.

The State Department of Forestry today estimated the damage from more than 1,300 field and forest fires this year at more than $600,000. Only 100 or fewer of the 500 canneries in Maryland are operating this year, according to Frank Shook, secretary of the Tri-State Canners Association, representing New Jersey, Delaware and Maryland. The value of Maryland canned products in a normal year, he said, is $25,000,000 and this year, he said, the output would be only a third of this.

Rain Brings Coolness To Shenandoah Valley

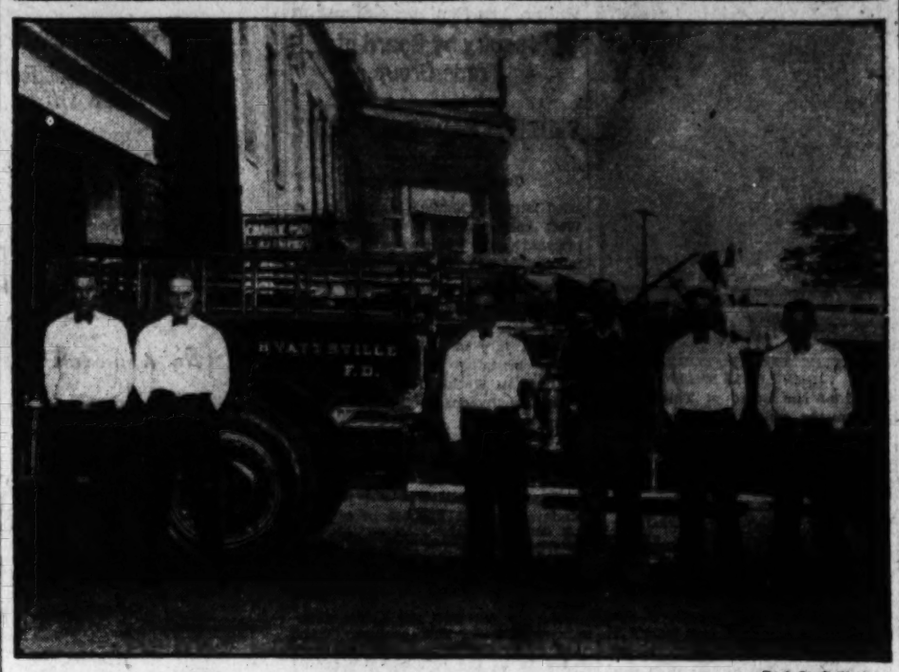
Harrisonburg, Va., Aug. 14.—Shenandoah Valley shivered tonight as the mercury took a headlong plunge following a general rainfall this morning. The cool temperature was in marked contrast to the torrid days of last week.

While the rainfall was confined to one-quarter inch, it marked the first general precipitation in the valley in two months. A steady drizzle continued for two hours.

Shenandoah Host to Church Group.

Luray, Va., Aug. 14 (Special).—The eighty-first annual convention of the Disciples of Christ, embracing the counties of Page, Shenandoah, Augusta, Rockingham, Frederick and Warren, began yesterday in the First Christian Church at Shenandoah. The address of welcome was delivered by the Rev. G. H. Easley; the response by the Rev. F. B. Sapp.

HYATTSVILLE FIRE TEAM WINS POST TROPHY



Post Staff Photo.

Winning the third leg on the hook-up trophy offered to volunteer fire departments in Prince Georges County by The Washington Post, the Hyattsville, Md., hook-up team acquired permanent possession of the cup at the annual convention of the county firemen's association at Laurel Saturday. The team made a county record for a running hook-up by "showing water" in the fast time of 38 seconds flat. Members of the team (left to right) are Lieut. Ernest Davis, Lloyd Anderson, Alfred Deggs, Harry Wilcoxen, Clifford Proctor and James Smith.

FUNDS EXHAUSTED, FIREMEN LACK PAY

State's Emergency $10,000 Sum May Aid in Plight in Prince Georges.

CROP DAMAGE FIGURES

Its funds depleted for payment of firemen, wardens and volunteers, who have been kept busy fighting numerous forest and grass fires since the drought began, the Board of County Commissioners of Prince Georges County, Md., has been compelled to order further payments stopped, it was learned at Marlboro yesterday.

From May 13 until July 21 the commissioners paid out $1,523.21 to fire fighters. The law provides that the county shall be reimbursed by the State, but it develops that the State's fund for the purpose also is exhausted and $761.63 now is owed to the county, although the emergency appropriation of $10,000 made available for the State Department of Forestry on Wednesday is expected to provide some relief for Prince Georges volunteers.

The commissioners report that many volunteers are declining to answer alarms because they have not been compensated for their past services.

The Blandensburg Volunteer Fire Department reversed the usual order of things Wednesday night when its members deliberately started a fire in front of their own firehouse at Bladensburg, Md. The blaze, however, was the celebration of burning up the mortgage on the house, which had been paid off. The company will hold its annual carnival opposite the peace cross from August 23 to 30, with a number of topnotch boxing and wrestling events as the feature of the nightly program.

When the siren blew calling the volunteer firemen of Hyattsville, Md., to their daily blaze on Wednesday, a woman telephoned to Lieut. Ernest Davis, and in a voice registering high dudgeon, insisted that the firemen "please blow that whistle at some other time" instead of when her baby was asleep.

Farmers in Prince Georges County will suffer losses of 10 to 90 per cent on various crops this year as a result of the drought, it was brought out at the farmers' marketing conference now being held at the University of Maryland at College Park.

"If rain comes soon the farmers will redouble their efforts and be able to wipe out some, but not much, of their losses," it was declared by Dr. T. B. Symons, who reported on estimates compiled by all county agents of the State showing probable losses of 90 per cent or more in corn, late potatoes, sweet corn and pasture lands.

The most serious aspect of the drought is found in the shortage of feed for live stock and dairy animals, while the truck and canning crops, which normally furnish the principal incomes of thousands of farmers, have been almost total failures.

Following are the estimated losses on various crops in Prince Georges County, in percentages: Hay, 70; pasture, 60; corn, 60; late potatoes, 90; tobacco, 40; soy beans, 65, and cantaloupes, 40.

Philip A. Miller, of Clinton, Md., filed a certificate of candidacy yesterday with the supervisor of elections at Marlboro for reelection as judge of the Orphans' Court in Prince Georges County. Robert E. Brown, of Browns Station, near Marlboro, filed for county clerk. Both will run on the Democratic ticket.

Romney Schools Organize For Year

Grades and High Course to Be Housed Apart for First Time.

Special to The Washington Post.

Romney, W. Va., Aug. 14.—The organization of the Romney High School and grades for the coming year was completed here today. The board of education has decided to begin school in the grades on Monday, September 15, and in the high school the first of October, or sooner, if possible. With a new modern high school building, the grades and high school will be housed in separate buildings for the first time.

It will not be possible for Romney High School to take any freshmen from outside districts this year, as the new building will not be large enough. Numerous requests for admission of freshmen from outlying districts have come in, but it is impossible to grant them, announcement said.

DEMOCRAT FACTION CANDIDATES NAMED

Slate of Progressive Group in Montgomery Nears Completion.

PRIMARY SEPTEMBER 8

With the filing yesterday of five additional candidacies with the supervisor of elections at Rockville, Md., the Progressive Democratic party of Montgomery County now has its slate practically completed for the primary election to be held on September 8.

Those who filed yesterday with support of the progressive faction were James P. Gott, of Rockville, and Enos C. Keyes, of Forest Glen, and Dr. Bates Etchison, of Gaithersburg, for membership in the Democratic State central committee, and Edward P. Abbe, of Chevy Chase, and James L. Morris, of Bethesda, as delegates to the State Democratic convention.

This leaves still one candidate for the House of Delegates and four more delegates to the State convention to receive the indorsement of the party in order to give the progressive faction a complete representation in candidates for every office to be designated in the county.

Those who had filed previously were W. Clinton McSherry, of Frederick, for judge of circuit court; Dr. Eugene Jones, of Kensington, for State senator; E. Barrett Prettyman, of Chevy Chase; Dr. E. Clyde Shade, of Takoma Park; Thomas D. Darby, of Seneca, and Harry Fraley, of Olney, for the House of Delegates; William H. Warfield, of Damascus, for clerk of the circuit court; Richard T. White, of Barnesville, register of wills, and William L. Aud, of Poolesville, for sheriff.

John T. Culver, of Forest Glen, is the Progressive Democratic nominee for county treasurer, while others on the slate are John E. Oxley, of Poolesville and Rockville, State's attorney. The party's candidates for county commissioners are Nicholas Grimth, of Laytonsville; Arthur L. Watkins, of Cedar Grove; Pierce Hunter, of Poolesville; Vinson Peter, of Rockville; Otho C. Trundle, of Gaithersburg; Eugene McLachlen, of Chevy Chase, and William H. Thompson, of Silver Spring.

The faction's candidates for the State central committee are Robert Allnutt, of Dawsonville; Joseph Morgan, of Bethesda; Dr. Bates Etchison, of Gaithersburg; Enos C. Keyes, of Forest Glen; James P. Gott, of Rockville, and Millard Peake, of Bethesda.

Edward P. Abbe, of Chevy Chase, and James L. Morris, of Bethesda, are the only two of the faction's six candidates for delegates to the State Democratic convention to have filed their certificates of candidacy thus far. William Bogley, of Laytonsville; Frank Wilson, of Bethesda, and Genoa King, of Damascus, are the Progressive Democratic candidates for judges of the Orphans Court.

West Virginia Farm Bureau Elects Officers

Martinsburg, W. Va., Aug. 14.—E. S. Humphrey, of Belleville, was elected president of the West Virginia Farm Bureau at the closing session of the annual conference yesterday in Jackson's Mill. Gray Silver, of this city, was named vice president, and D. W. Alexander, West Alexander, Pa., was named a member of the executive committee.

Howard M. Gore, former governor of the State, was a speaker at one of the sessions.

Races Attraction At Clarke Show

Horses Will Be Exhibited Under Auspices of County Society.

Special to The Washington Post.

Berryville, Va., Aug. 14.—There will be 29 well-filled classes at the twenty-ninth annual exhibition of the Clarke County Horse and Colt Show Association, to be held Thursday and Friday next week. The list is expected to excel the 300 mark reached last year.

The scheduled races are a big attraction. Several horses already are installed on the grounds. Two sets of starting stalls have been provided. The largest class is that of green hunters, which excels any of previous years.

Among those who will have private boxes are Mrs. John B. Neill and Mrs. E. L. Evstaphiove, Mrs. B. O'F. Randolph, Capt. Ewart Johnston, the Rev. B. Duval Chambers, R. Harrisonburg, Va., Aug. 14.—The record-breaking drought is responsible for the earliest corn harvest in the history of the Shenandoah valley of Virginia.

The farmers have begun cutting their withering corn crop and packing it away in silos in an effort to salvage what there is for winter feed for live stock, especially for the dairy cows and the beef cattle that have not already been forced upon the market for lack of pasture and water.

ALEXANDRIA MASONS LAY REUNION PLANS

Scottish Rite Initiates in October to Be Known as Capstone Clsas.

FIRE WARNING IS ISSUED

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 823.

Tentative plans for the fall reunion of the Scottish Rite bodies of the Valley and Alexandria have been announced by Percy E. Clift, secretary of the local bodies. It is understood the reunion will probably be held October 13 to 16, and the class to receive the degrees will be known as the "Capstone Class." It is understood that the capstone of the George Washington Masonic National Memorial Temple will be laid at that time, and that practically all the interior work of the temple will then be completed. Prominent Masons from all jurisdictions throughout the country will be here for the laying of the capstone, it is understood.

Scottish Rite Masons from Winchester, Manassas, Front Royal, Strasburg, Middletown, Falls Church, Fairfax, Vienna, Culpeper, Harrisonburg, Clarendon, Warrenton, Occoquan, Fredericksburg, Lorton, Middleburg, Burke and Fort Humphreys were represented at the meeting Wednesday night, when plans for the reunion were discussed. Venerable Master Harry A. Lipscomb, of Washington Lodge of Perfection, greeted the visiting delegates and introduced the chairman of the reunion committee, C. C. Wenrich, K. C. C. H., who presided during the session and introduced the speakers.

Among those who made short talks on Scottish Rite Masonry and pledged their support to the fall reunion were George P. Norton, of Winchester; J. R. Bushong, of Manassas; Maj. Porter House, of Winchester; H. H. Porter, of Clarendon; C. C. Batcheller, Riley W. Nixon, Leonard Miller, J. H. Kretchner, the Rev. W. T. McDougal, of Alexandria; J. L. Laird, of Fort Humphreys, and several others.

In an effort to cut down the number of fire alarms, and in the interest of safety during the continued drought, Fire Chief James M. Duncan, jr., has issued a warning against burning trash and the careless disposal of cigar and cigarette butts from automobiles and airplanes. Chief Duncan states that since August 1 the fire department has answered 35 alarms, 30 of which were caused by grass fires attributable directly to the drought, and many of them due to carelessness. The chief states that while the fires have fortunately been confined to a small area and the loss has been small, they could easily have developed into serious fires.

All records for fire alarms in Alexandria were broken Tuesday, when the department was called out eight times in three hours, seven of these alarms being caused by grass fires and one by burning trash in a yard.

Chief Duncan announced yesterday that steps would be taken to prosecute those responsible for these grass fires. The State law provides that any person maliciously setting fire to any woods, fence, grass or other things capable of spreading fire on lands shall be confined in the penitentiary not less than one nor more than three years or, in the discretion of the court, be fined not less than $5 nor more than $500 and be confined in jail not less than one nor more than twelve months. For such fires set "carelessly, negligently, or unintentionally" whereby the property of another is damaged or jeopardized, the person responsible shall be fined not less than $10 nor more than $100.

A chapter of the American Air Cadet organization, to be known as the Dr. Hugo Eckener Chapter, will be formed in Alexandria by H. P. Wells, district organizer, with headquarters in Richmond, plans having been completed for the organization yesterday. Mr. Wells stated yesterday that a charter has been applied for, which will be sent from the national headquarters at Sioux City, Iowa, within the next few days. The petition for the charter was signed by Howard L. Arnold, commander of the Alexandria American Legion Post; W. L. Leitch, Boy Scout executive of this area, and Dan S. Hollenga, business manager of the chamber of commerce.

There are 200 Alexandria boys eligible for charter membership, according to Mr. Wells. The object of the organization is to instill air mindedness among the youths through competitive building of model aircraft. Three ranks are given the boys—grease monkey, pilot and ace—the ranks being awarded through construction of the model planes. The first three boys to turn in their model planes will be given the rank of squadron commander. The model planes must, it is stated, meet with specified requirements in order for the boys to get promotions. A duplicate charter of the Alexandria organization will be sent to Dr. Eckener.

The annual business meeting of the Free Methodist Church was held Wednesday night, when Calvin Butts was elected the delegate to the annual conference at Starrucca, Pa., on September 10-14, inclusive, and William S. Seven stewards were elected as follows: W. E. Newman, Ernest Finnell, John Massey, William S. Adams, A. E. Parks, Mrs. Maggie Suthard and Mrs. Emma Butts. A. E. Parks was elected superintendent of the Sunday School, and Calvin Butts was elected class leader. The Rev. William H. Van Ness will conduct the last quarterly meeting for the conference year tonight and also preach at the Sunday service.

A coupe bearing Pennsylvania license tags was brought to police headquarters yesterday morning by Policeman Wilson Darr, who stated it had been parked for several days in the 1800 block of King street, apparently abandoned. The car contained a quantity of clothing and books.

Judge Howard W. Smith, Democratic nominee for Congress, was the guest of honor and speaker at the meeting of the Kiwanis Club yesterday. The meeting of the club next week will be held on Wednesday, and will be known as annual farmers' day, with J. William May as chairman of the committee on arrangements.

The Feast of the Assumption will be celebrated by the Catholic Church today, when masses will be said in St. Mary's Church at 6, 7 and 9 a. m., the last followed by benediction.

The convention of local Republicans to select delegates and alternates to the State convention to be held in Roanoke on August 31, will be held Monday, August 25, in the George Mason Hotel.

Naval Academy Ship Is Delayed

S. S. Arkansas, Bound for Hampton Roads, Has Boiler Trouble.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Aug. 14.—An accident to the battleship Arkansas, flagship of the midshipmen's summer practice cruise squadron, has caused some delay in the arrival of the squadron at Hampton Roads, Va. They will not reach there until tomorrow or Saturday, according to information received here. The itinerary called for their return today.

The trouble experienced by the Arkansas was to one of her boilers, and it is understood that it occurred at sea soon after leaving France. Repairs were completed while the ships made slow headway, it is said.

A dozen or more members of the football squad who belong to the second class and have been undergoing instructions in aeronautics at the Naval Academy during the summer, began their leave today. Soon after the arrival of the squadron in Hampton Roads the ships will engage in target practice off the Capes and will return to Annapolis August 28. All of the midshipmen will then go on leave for one month.

Martinsburg Tax Rates Cut Down

City and County Boards Act to Meet Economic Situation.

Special to The Washington Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., Aug. 14.—Reacting to the straitened economic situation, city and county levying boards here yesterday found it possible to cut 11 cents per hundred-dollar valuation from the tax tickets for city taxpayers. County tickets will be cut in proportion.

The county court cut its levy, applicable to the entire county, 4 cents; the Martinsburg school board, 4 cents, and the City of Martinsburg, 3 cents. The State levy remains unchanged at 19 cents. The Martinsburg tax ticket will read $2.85 instead of $2.96 for the coming year, under the provisional estimates.

A substantial increase in property valuation helped make possible the tax rate cuts. In Falling Waters district, one of the six in the county, the board was enabled to lop off 26 cents through the completion and prepayment for the new school building there.

The men were W. Edwin Crouch, a Baltimore banker and owner of the craft, and J. A. Cox. Discovering the engine room in flames, they succeeded in launching the lifeboat a few moments before the explosion. They were picked up in the boat by Louis Smith, of Catonsville, Md., who was fishing at the mouth of the Magothy River.

CAPITAL MOTORIST CLEARED OF CRASH

Three Charges Filed Against J. D. Hunt Unsupported in Hyattsville.

CONTROL OF CAR LOST

J. D. Hunt, of Silver Spring, Md., a salesman for a Washington motor car company, was exonerated in police court at Hyattsville, Md., yesterday on three charges developing out of an automobile accident which occurred recently on the Washington-Baltimore boulevard near College Point, Md.

In the accident, Hunt's car was found crashed against a telegraph pole on the left side of the highway and he was carried in a semidazed condition to the home of Justice of the Peace H. J. Moffatt in Hyattsville, thence to the Prince Georges County Rescue Squad headquarters, and from there to the offices of the company.

He was charged with reckless driving, operating an automobile equipped with fictitious license plates and with failing to exhibit his operator's permit.

Had Permit, He Says.

Hunt testified that he had his permit with him and that if the police were unable to find it that was not his fault in his condition after the accident. He testified that he had lost control of the car and "when I came to I was in the offices of the company." He did not recall hitting the pole, he said, and knew nothing of how the accident had occurred except that "I was told later I had hit a pole."

The fact that he was driving a car registered as his property in the District of Columbia while he lived in Maryland, Hunt explained through his attorney by stating that the company required all of its salesmen to take out District tags, as the cars are owned by the company and only furnished to the salesmen for demonstration purposes and could not be used for pleasure.

No Recklessness Shown.

Judge J. Chew Sheriff found that inasmuch as there were no witnesses to the accident who could explain how the car crossed from the right side of the road to crash into a pole on the left, there was no evidence that it was due to other than a strictly unavoidable accident. He dismissed that charge.

The charge of operating with fictitious markers also was dismissed.

Judge Sheriff fined Mr. Hunt $1 on a charge of failing to exhibit his permit, but when Hunt's attorney, Vincent A. Sheehy, of Hyattsville, pointed out that there was no evidence to prove that he did not have his permit with him, but only that another employe of the company who searched him was unable to find it, the judge reversed that decision and dismissed the third charge also.

Bible Conference Hears Dr. Gordon

New Yorker Tells Ministers at Massanetta Springs of Service Yoke.

Special to The Washington Post.

Harrisonburg, Va., Aug. 14.—"Surrender is the common law of all strong, human life, a yielding of one to another for a purpose of service," Dr. S. D. Gordon, of New York City, tonight told the Massanetta Springs Bible conference in explaining to the ministers and churchmen that Christ calls upon them to wear "the yoke of service."

"Here in America," he added, "some say we do not like that because we like for each man to have his own way. But you will notice that surrender is the common law of all strong, human life, a yielding of one to another for a purpose. It is the law of self-mastery."

Other speakers at the conference today were Dr. Lionel B. Fletcher, of New Zealand; Dr. J. Stuart Holden, of London, and Dr. William Evans, of Los Angeles. Twenty States and four foreign countries are represented.

BOY FREED ON BOND IN ROBBERY CASE

Alleged Companion in Takoma Park Holdup Released to His Parents.

WOMAN DEFENDS YOUTH

William F. Lake, 17-year-old New York schoolboy, yesterday was released from the Montgomery County Jail at Rockville, Md., on bond of $1,500 on a charge of highway robbery. Walter C. Dinges, 14, of Takoma Park, Md., alleged to have assisted Lake in the alleged holdup, was released in custody of his parents following a hearing in Juvenile Court at Rockville.

The boys are charged with holding up Isacio M. Bazquez, of Takoma Park, at the point of a pistol when he was sitting on a bench in the park shortly after midnight on August 4 and to have robbed him of about $30 in cash. A neighbor who witnessed the stickup traced the youthful bandits, police reported, and was instrumental in their capture and confession.

Young Lake is declared to have told police that he had come to Takoma Park to visit friends after completing his school term in Canada and that, having no job, he was short of money and planned with the Dinges boy to stage the holdup. The pistol they used was later found to be unloaded, police said. The charge against Lake is to be heard by the November grand jury.

Miss Vivian Simpson, of Rockville, is attorney for Lake, while Clay Plummer, of Gaithersburg, provided his bond.

WARRANT IS ISSUED FOR GAME WARDEN

Paperhanger Accuses Him of Asault and Battery in Prince Georges.

OFFICER DENIES CHARGE

A warrant for the arrest of Deputy Game Warden John E. Fisher, of Hyattsville, Md., was issued last night by Justice of the Peace Herbert J. Moffatt at Hyattsville on a charge of assault and battery preferred by Clyde W. Richards, 25, a paperhanger, of Kidmore Park, East Riverdale, Md.

According to Richards he claims that he was papering a room in the home of James Rogers at East Hyattsville when Fisher and Game Warden James W. Rogers, of Prince Georges County, the latter a nephew of Richards' employer, entered the place and accused Richards of "tipping off" a delinquent tenant that his furniture was to be levied for nonpayment of rent.

Richards declares he denied the charge and added that "whoever said I did that is a liar." Thereupon, he asserted, Fisher punched him in the nose, and when he grappled with the deputy warden to ward off further blows, Fisher drew a blackjack and slugged him four times on the head and face.

Dr. Leonard Hayes, of Hyattsville, who treated Richards, issued a certificate stating that the man was suffering from "multiple contusions of the head and face."

Fisher could not be located last night, but Mr. Rogers, who is a candidate for sheriff of Prince Georges County in the coming primary elections, stated that Fisher had overheard Richards advise the delinquent tenant to flee because the furniture was to be seized, and that they had sought to learn why the man had taken it upon himself to thwart and block the enforcement of the law.

Mr. Rogers declared further that Richards had not been struck until after he had made an effort to seize a paperhanger's shears, and that in striking the man, Fisher had been acting purely in self-defense.

Judge Moffatt stated last night that it was unlikely that any bond would be required of Fisher upon service of the paper, which would act more as a summons ordering the officer to appear before Judge J. Chew Sheriff in police court at Hyattsville next Wednesday.

"Mr. Fisher is an officer of the county, and I think there is no likelihood that he would run away or seek to evade trial," Judge Moffatt explained.

An interesting Announcement!
A modern, new Speedy Elevator now in operation

Congratulations-

Captain Hawks!

THROUGH careful planning and intrepid skill, you have bettered all previous East to West and West to East transcontinental flight records.

The Texas Company is proud that, through its products, Texaco Aviation Gasoline and Airplane Oil, it has again been able to serve such a distinguished pilot and contribute to the successful completion of such a significant flight.

Texaco Aviation Gasoline and Airplane Oil functioned perfectly in the new Wright Special Whirlwind high compression motor which twice hurled Texaco Number 13, the Travel Air Mystery S, to transcontinental records. Texaco refueling service was excellent and contributed considerably to my success . . . . Frank M. Hawks

DROUGHT RELIEF PLANS.

Plans formulated at the White House conference of governors for administering relief to the drought-stricken areas reflect the genius of President Hoover in handling emergencies of this kind. The organization to be set up will reach into every community where the drought has caused undue hardships, and the whole project will be coordinated under one Federal committee. Every agency that can contribute any measure of organized relief will be brought into action.

The conference wisely decided to localize relief work so far as possible. Every county in which conditions warrant organized relief will have a committee of its own to determine what assistance is necessary, to whom and how it should be given. Except in case of acute distress, each county will be expected to take care of its own needs. Where outside help becomes essential, the county committee will call on the State committee. The Federal committee will be always ready with advice, information and such aid as is beyond the power of the States to give.

This organization should function with a minimum of delay and red tape. It is well that the Government has not undertaken to direct a gigantic relief campaign from Washington. The States and counties are better equipped to know the needs of their people and to supply what aid is necessary, with the cooperation of the Federal committee. President Hoover has succeeded in stimulating the States to shoulder the direct responsibility. The result should be effective relief without drawing heavily upon the taxpayers' money.

Every phase of the situation will be given attention. The local committees will extend aid to families left without means of support for the winter. Precautions will be taken to preserve the public health by inspection of water supplies, &c. The program for saving live stock in areas where feed is scarce is already under way through cooperation of the railroads.

Where credit is necessary to tide farmers over the winter and enable them to buy seed for planting in the spring, it will be supplied. In accordance with sound American policy private agencies will be utilized. This is to be facilitated by the inclusion of bankers in all the committee groups. Needs that can not be thus supplied will be provided through State agencies with the cooperation of the Federal Farm Board, the Federal Farm Loan Board and the Intermediate Credit System.

The Red Cross will play a prominent part in both local and national relief activities. The national organization has allocated $5,000,000 for this work, and further financing will depend upon the ultimate need yet to be determined.

The success of the movement will depend upon the cooperation of local communities. President Hoover has pointed the way whereby the drought-stricken States can help themselves, and secure what outside aid may be needed. If these plans are carried out with the dispatch and efficiency with which they have been formulated, the drought will not likely leave any serious scars.

BLUSTERING REDS.

The Communist regime in Moscow has ceased to curry favor with the United States, and the fabulous offers of trade are not so frequently heard. Instead, Moscow has adopted a blustering attitude. The American Government must recognize the red dictatorship, it is hinted from official sources, or suffer the consequences.

When the congressional committee investigating communism put the Amtorg Trading Corporation, commercial agency of the Soviets in this country, under scrutiny, its officials threatened to disrupt Russian-American trade unless the corporation was cleared of all charges. Now comes a demand straight from Moscow that the Communist regime be recognized in Washington. On no other condition, writes H. Osinsky, of the supreme Soviet economic council, in the official Communist paper, can trade between the two countries continue.

The recent importation of cheap Russian commodities is undoubtedly an effort to coerce the United States into entering diplomatic relations with the Stalin dictatorship. The right of this country to regulate its own trade is insolently disregarded. Speaking of the movement to prevent dumping of Russian goods made by convict and conscript labor, Osinsky says: "This is our internal affair and no barons of monopolistic capitalism will be able to hold Russia back from developing her domestic industry." To this is added the threat that "the Soviet Union could spoil any dish prepared by the bourgeois diplomats and could mix the cards in any diplomatic game."

There can be no question as to the objective of this campaign. Through the extension of trade the Soviet regime hopes to be able to force the United States to exchange ambassadors, and thus set up a more effective organization to work for revolution in America. The objective of the Moscow government can not be concealed under any amount of pretense. Instead of considering recognition, the Government is preparing to tighten up embargo restrictions against convict-made goods.

PESSIMISM WEARING OFF.

As autumn approaches it is evident that courage and confidence are returning to energize the business world. The effects of the drought are diminishing in importance, as scattered rains operate to save many fields that had been consigned to destruction. The sum total of loss will be lighter than was lately feared, and the threatened shortage of foodstuffs has already disappeared.

The long period of depression which caused a slackening of production has enabled the country to consume accumulated supplies. Notwithstanding the depression the population has continued to increase at the normal rate, and this factor alone now requires a renewal of building operations. New homes are needed by new Americans. The country can not stand still. It grows in spite of business fears and depressions, and this growth forces many lines of production to resume operations. Collateral needs stimulate minor industries. Clothing and fuel must be provided for the cold season.

The pall that has hung over agriculture is lifting, thanks to nature itself. The dry season has brought about heavy consumption of wheat, thereby tending to reduce the surplus. The reduced corn yield has a tendency to raise the price of the entire crop, so that many farmers who have seen some of their fields "burned up" are reimbursed in part by better prices for what is harvested. Individual cases of dire hardship will be relieved by the machinery that is now being set up by President Hoover's initiative. The rains that have already fallen in the Middle West have greatly ameliorated the situation.

Americans usually go to extremes of optimism and pessimism. Last August they thought that economic laws had ceased to operate, and they could not imagine that prosperity could come to a sudden halt. They have now enjoyed a thorough soaking in the blue waters of dejection for many months, during which they reached the fixed conviction that prosperity never could return. They are now beginning to wonder if they were not a little too pessimistic. Soon they will be making bigger plans than ever before.

A LIFETIME OF POVERTY.

The large number of vacancies—718, to be exact—that exist at the United States Naval Academy and the fact that the Government is finding it increasingly difficult to recruit midshipmen is attributed to the poor pay of officers of the Navy. Upon his graduation an ensign receives less pay than a policeman. When he reaches the pinnacle of his profession and dons an admiral's uniform he receives less than the bonus paid to many a junior business executive.

An officer of the United States Navy is expected and required to maintain himself and his family according to a traditional social standard. And yet on Navy pay he must expect to be always dodging creditors. Small wonder that American youths are dodging naval careers. The fact that they are determined to become economically independent is to their credit. Let Congress adjust the service pay scales so that officers will be compensated in keeping with the value of their services to their country, and it will be seen that the character of American youth has not changed with the passing of the years. There are thousands of young men all over the country who would gladly adopt a naval career if it did not call for a lifetime of humiliating poverty.

INTERNATIONAL AIR LINES.

Col. Lindbergh's address before the Institute of Politics, at Williamstown, was essentially a repetition of the plea he made recently over the radio. Commercial aviation, he says, has reached a point of development where it is pushing outward across international boundaries. The time has come when it is essential that uniform flying, customs and other regulations be adopted by the nations in order to expedite air commerce. The advantage of a liberal policy of regulation is demonstrated by the recent history of commercial aviation in the United States. During the last year commercial aviation in this country has progressed faster than commercial aviation in any other country in the world. This is attributed by Col. Lindbergh to the fact that in the United States there is a minimum of local interference with the development of air lines.

It is to the South that America looks for the extension of her air lines. Mexico, Central and South America are natural markets for the United States. The Pan-American peoples have a common political heritage; their aims and aspirations are similar, their tastes are not unlike, and they constitute a homogeneous geographical unit. The United States is a natural market for Central and South America. The nations south of the Rio Grande are storehouses of raw materials that are needed by the United States. Closer commercial ties between the nations of North, Central and South America will be mutually advantageous. Europe is making a spirited play for South American trade. The ship haul from Europe to South America is, relatively, not long; consequently Europe has an advantage which the United States must strive to overcome.

As the plane flies Buenos Aires is only a few days distant from New York, with land connections, while the oceanic route from Europe is beset with numerous practical operating difficulties. Two American lines now link South with North America. The planes they operate are the forerunners of a fleet of air merchantmen. Their operation should be surrounded with no greater restrictions than are required to protect the interests of the several nations.

FILM STARS TAKE THE STAGE.

Last week George Bernard Shaw signed a contract for production of one of his plays as a vocal motion picture, commenting that "the poor old theater is done for." The British dramatist has never allowed his plays to be used in the movies, and he apparently resisted the "talkies" until he became convinced that there was no future for the legitimate stage. But current announcements in New York suggest that Mr. Shaw may have despaired just before the dawn.

No less than five leading motion picture stars have announced their intention of returning to the stage. Broadway theaters have enticed Mary Pickford, Colleen Moore, Lya de Putti, Vilma Banky and Rod La Roque from Hollywood, and it is rumored that other names famous on the screen will be listed among the returning prodigals before the coming season is over. Apparently actors and actresses of the better class have found something waning in the "talkies." At any rate the fact that they are attracted by the lure of the footlights is most significant.

Development of talking films struck the theater in two vital places. Talent was attracted away from the stage and patrons away from the box office. Now that talent is returning to the stage, will not patrons also return to the box office and bring about a revival of the spoken drama? Will not actors be able to shift from the films to the stage, and vice versa, drawing their admirers after them? In the film production they will be able to appeal to the masses and on the stage to those who do not care for mechanical reproduction of the voice.

It seems probable that in becoming accustomed to the spoken drama through mechanical reproduction the public will increase its demand for stage performances. The superior diction and technique of the stage would unquestionably improve the talking pictures and the screen performances would tend to popularize the theater where the idols of romance could be seen in person. The return to the stage of these successful film stars is full of interesting possibilities for the whole field of dramatic art.

COVERED BRIDGES

From the Christian Science Monitor.

Covered bridges, common on country highways in many sections of the United States a generation or two ago, have virtually vanished. Recently the New York World has raised the question, Why were covered bridges covered? In its zeal to find the answer the World has gone researching, studying musty engineering books and consulting bridge-building experts. Yet it remarks sadly in a recent editorial: "We can't say that our researches have turned up anything very satisfactory in the way of an explanation."

No wonder! Its researches dealt with questions of preventing snow from collecting on the structure, of protecting bolts and rods from rusting, and such uninteresting and inconsequential details. We frankly are surprised at the line of investigation followed by the World. Why research? Any country boy can tell in a jiffy why bridges were covered.

They kept the thick, cool dust dry so that it was soft on a boy's bare feet and "squoozed" easily and pleasantly between his toes when he scuffed through it.

By excluding the rain they preserved for more than one season the posters proclaiming the auctions on farms for miles around, the virtues of Pratt's Poultry Food, the attractions of the county fair, and the wonders of the jungle as revealed in the Greatest Circus on Earth.

Such bridges afforded the best place to stop and rest the horses when you were riding home on a load of hay.

They were the safest, driest and most inviting places for swallows and squirrels to build their nests. On rainy days they made a better place to play than even the haymow. But if you batted the baseball to the end of the bridge you were out.

The cover of the bridge caused its shadow in the afternoon to extend far up the stream to the alder bushes and made a cool and accessible retreat for the big suckers which lurked in the dark waters.

But of course nothing constructed by human hands is ever wholly perfect. Even covered bridges had their drawbacks. When evening came, it grew dark earlier and became blacker in that bridge than in any other spot in the known world. If a small boy was late in coming home from driving the cows to pasture, or returning from the village postoffice, Stygian darkness confronted him. Strangely, too, the bridge was about three times as long as it was in the daytime.

We usually admire the World's erudition and enterprise, but it has stubbed its toe this time in selecting a field of research. The reason covered bridges were covered will not be found in books—they were covered for the especial pleasure of the barefoot boys who played in them in childhood, and who in maturity will still love them long after the iron bridges that displaced them have rusted away.

PRESIDENT'S TITLE COPYRIGHTED.

The Austrian government, says the Pathfinder, has copyrighted the title "bundespresident" in order to prevent anybody except the president of the republic from using it. This law was enacted after the "bundespresident" of a trade federation was introduced to President Miklas and each had to address the other as "Herr Bundespresident." Since there are some 22,000 "bunds" with presidents in Austria, the government decided it was time to end the confusion between the president of the republic and the head of a society of fish peddlers.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

A STRANGE STORY.

The man has saved a drowning child,
By chance he happened there.
None other heard the shrieking wild
Of anguish and despair.
He caught the little fellow's coat
And raised him safely to his boat.

There was no risk of life or limb,
But trifling was the act,
And yet it later seemed to him
A very curious fact
That he, of all that summer throng,
Should chance just then to come along.

"A year ago," said he to me,
"By care was I distraught.
No sense in living could I see;
I had a coward's thought.
When grief seemed more than I could stand,
To run away from it I planned.

"Now had I done that very thing,
And thrust my care aside
Today—beyond my reckoning—
That little boy had died.
'Tis strange—because I chose to stay
That little lad is safe today.

"And glad am I for all the pain
And all the care I've known.
I've learned that life is never vain
And no one lives alone.
Who runs away from life, may run
Away from some one's drowning son."

There Are No Statues of Men Who Were Taught to Be Ashamed.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

TODAY an uncommonly intelligent and interesting woman, who has taught school for more than thirty years, said to me: 'Nobody ever paid me a compliment until I was fourteen years old. That year a good Samaritan told me I had beautiful eyes. I went home and stood for an hour in front of the mirror trying to make myself believe in was true."

I know a girl yet in her teens whose face is set in lines of sullen resentment because she has been told too often that she is homely.

As a matter of fact, her features are good enough to escape criticism if they were alight with happiness and good nature; but years of humiliation have given them an expression that would make a natural beauty repulsive.

If you will study the people you pass on the street, you will discover that not one in ten has a form or features that approximate the accepted standards of beauty.

Yet nearly all of these people are reconciled to their appearance and many of them are proud of it.

There is no reason why any physical imperfection short of actual deformity should be a handicap or reason for shame, since most of us contrive to keep our chins up despite glaring faults, and when you find a child burdened with an inferiority complex because of some physical shortcoming, the fault usually can be traced to cruel and thoughtless parents.

It is a social crime and a mortal sin habitually to tell any child it is homely or stupid or bad.

There are countless men and women afraid of the world and whipped by life because in childhood they were made self-conscious and fault-conscious by cruel critics.

Your own unjaded appetite for praise and the new strength you draw from it should teach you how essential it is to the development of self-confidence in a child.

Better forty cases of swell-head than one poor child whipped by unjust criticism.

If you would do a good deed, give alms of praise to those who get none of it—even though you must lie like a gentleman.

MR. HAGEN RECALLS.

("Hagen fails to qualify in Professional Golfers Association tournament."—News item.)

I.

I remember, I remember
The drives so straight and far,
The balls that sailed right down the line
And meant a certain par;
The ones that went 300 yards—
The gallery's sharp "Oh!"—
The plaudits of the multitude
Back in the long ago.

II.

I remember, I remember
The way I used to swing;
A mighty and unerring sock
That kept the ball awing;
My spirit flew in feathers then,
But it's so heavy now
I need no summer pool to cool
The fever on my brow.

III.

I remember, I remember
When golfing was but play;
When it was childish exercise
To take the P. G. A.—
When headlines screaming "Hagen Wins"
Were always kept in type
And grabbing major championships
Was nothing but a pipe.

IV.

I remember, I remember
When I adored the grind
And I was never better than
When coming from behind;
When play-offs were my fondest dreams
And I was coolest in
The pinches of a match that took
An extra hole to win.

V.

I remember, I remember
The days my spirit flamed
And one thing was a certainty—
I couldn't be outgamed!
I doted on the warfare then
But now I'm through, I fear . . . .
Likell I do! Remember, boy,
There'll be another year!

VACATION.

AMERICA IS NOT OVERSUPPLIED.

Over 7,000,000 families in the United States have no automobile, the Bloomington Daily Pantagraph points out. There are 20,000,000 families which have no adequate radio sets. In the cities alone, not counting the farm population, there were in 1928 4,000,000 families which had no bathtubs for their homes, and over 3,000,000 families without even a kitchen sink with running water and probably no plumbing for their houses. There are 13,000,000 families in the country without any kind of a telephone and 4,000,000 homes not wired for electricity.

Oversupplied? It is said that 5,000,000 families in this country are without proper or adequate clothing, food or housing. These are eager to secure better living conditions and would purchase the necessary things to give them this kind of life if they had the money to do so. The country is not, therefore, overstocked with things which people want and need. Give the people wages, income, money to buy them, and there would be a rush of orders for every producing institution in the country.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Democracy Unlucky With New Yorkers as Presidential Candidates—South Will Have Its Way in 1932.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I notice that it has been announced by a prominent Democrat that the opposing candidates for the Presidency in 1932 are to be Hoover and Roosevelt. That spells defeat for the Democrats in advance. New York Democratic candidates have, as a rule, been unfortunate for the party. Twelve times in its history that party has gone to New York for its candidate, and has scored only three victories.

Democracy's first effort was in 1808, when the Kinderhook Magician, Martin Van Buren, was chosen as candidate on command of Andy Jackson. He scored a success that year, but in 1840, when he was again the nominee, he met with a disastrous overthrow. The Democrats, for several campaigns, fought shy of New York. In 1864, hoping a military hero might win for them, they named Gen. McClellan. A defeat followed. They clung, however, desperately to the Empire State, but lost in 1868 with Seymour, in 1872 with Greeley, in 1876 with Tilden and in 1880 with Hancock. Then came a success. Three times they nominated Cleveland, winning twice and losing once.

Their next venture with a New Yorker was with Judge Parker in 1904, and they lost. Again they fought shy of New York for several campaigns, until 1928 when they tried to win with Gov. Smith. The solid South may not yet have been broken, but the good people down there are getting tired of furnishing about all the electoral votes the Democrats receive, and of being ignored when it comes to naming a candidate. My prophecy is that in 1932 the Democrats will name a Southern man to head their ticket.

OBSERVER.

Suggests That Hoover Make Rapidan His Headquarters—Federal Buildings Should Be Refrigerated.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: If President Hoover can not get away to Glacier Park he can at least make his headquarters on the Rapidan for a while, and he should do so. The country would gain nothing by overworking the President or by impairing his health. His Rapidan camp is cool and he can come into town in case of necessity. Most of his advisers and assistants can go out to him.

The White House should be provided with a refrigeration system. It is a reproach to American intelligence that refrigeration is not more extensively used in houses and offices. It has been proved to be successful in theaters. Congress should refrigerate and purify the air of the Federal buildings as a mere routine of civilization, the same as installation of heating plants.

No Excuse for Profiteering in Foodstuffs Under Pretext That Drought Has Caused Scarcity.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: There is no excuse for a general increase in the price of foodstuffs. The drought covers only a part of the producing portion of the United States. Enormous stocks of food are already on hand. Canned goods should not increase in price. Profiteers are already at work, scaring the housewives and trying to make them think starvation is ahead.

The Department of Justice should send out a storm warning to its agents everywhere, bidding them be on the lookout for unlawful combinations of producers and jobbers. No doubt an example could be made of some combinations that would deter others from consummating their conspiracies to cinch the public. The State authorities can do much to discourage and punish profiteering in foodstuffs.

J. H. HARNED.

Says Now Is the Proper Time to Destroy Hay Fever Weeds.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The season for hay fever is rapidly approaching. The cause of this sickness is due to wind-borne pollens from certain green-flowered weeds, especially the common ragweed growing along the roadside, on unoccupied land and often in our back yards.

Much sickness is caused to many persons by poisoning from weed pollens in more or less aggravated forms, such as summer head colds, hay fever and very often severe bronchitis and asthma accompanied by prostration.

Now much relief can be obtained locally if the owners of weed-growing land will destroy the weeds growing on their property.

Destroy the weeds now by mowing and weeding.

C. A. J.

Quick Recovery From Drought Is to Be Expected.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Experience tells us that communities recover more quickly from drought than from any other abnormality of nature. A few good soaking rains change the mental attitude of the people, and they quickly forget what they have suffered. Don't forget necessity breeds invention. Farmers can scratch out feed from corners and odd places when they are hard pressed. Their fields soon recover from dryness. Nature looks sick in a drought, but it is really not badly hurt. By this time next month the public will have dismissed all talk of the drought.

Does Not Favor Increased Postage as Suggested by Mr. Coolidge.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: A few days ago Mr. Coolidge, at quite a few dollars per line, observed that if a postage stamp was worth 2 cents before the World War, it ought to cost 2½ cents by all present standards.

But who can impress these golden words on the next Congress, so that mail-carriers, soldiers and sailors, for example, will be able to buy this new stamp out of their present, unincreased pay.

EVENTS OF INTEREST IN SOCIETY CIRCLES OF CAPITAL

New Fuller Marine Home Is Historic

Barracks Mansion of Commandant Spared by British.

TALES of haunted rooms, of ghosts and hobgoblins and stories of thrilling events in history are recalled as Maj. Gen. Ben H. Fuller, newly appointed commandant of the United States Marine Corps, and Mrs. Fuller complete plans to move to their new quarters, the commandant's house at the Marine Barracks, Eighth and G streets, about September 1.

Quaint stories of olden days when plenty of adventure came riding, give to the old house its far famed atmosphere which is further enhanced by the mellow charm of the fine mansion. Although Gen. and Mrs. Fuller are having some redecoration completed before they take possession, no further "wings" will be added and certainly "no higher ceilings," laughed Mrs. Fuller who has discovered that the height of the windows demands curtains 4½ yards long.

The house has been unoccupied since the death a few weeks ago of Maj. Gen. Wendell C. Neville whom Gen. Fuller succeeds as commandant. Built in 1802 the mansion, then a square and forbidding pile, was one of the few houses spared by the British during the burning of Washington City in the War of 1812.

The house was used as headquarters of the British army and for that reason stands today, untouched, and one of the fine old houses of the Capital. Through the years it has undergone several periods of remodeling with the addition of "wings" and charming rooms until today it assembles in fascinating series, suites and corridors and terraces to intrigue the lover of the antique.

Having passed her girlhood in Georgetown, where quaint houses abound, Mrs. Fuller will enjoy the new quarters probably to a greater extent than many hostesses. For she has lived in an atmosphere steeped in historical lore. The great-great-granddaughter of Thomas Nelson, signer of the Declaration of Independence, Mrs. Fuller, all her life, has heard stories of York Hall in Yorktown, where her ancestors lived. She is the daughter of the late H. E. Offley, chief clerk of the U. S. Navy, a position which, years ago, corresponded to that of the Assistant Secretary of the Navy of the present time. Her grandmother was Miss Marbrey, of Georgetown.

Gen. and Mrs. Fuller have been living in Washington about four years, having been stationed here since Gen. Fuller's return from Haiti, where he served as commandant of the first brigade of marines. With them this summer is their daughter, Mrs. C. L. Fordney, and her three children, Catherine Wilson Fordney, Mary Cleland Fordney and Edward Canfield Fuller Fordney. The little boy was named for his uncle, son of Gen. and Mrs. Fuller, who lost his life at Belleau Wood while serving in France with the United States Marines in the World War. Mr. Fordney is the son of former Representative Fordney, of Michigan, co-framer of the Fordney-Macumber tariff bill. Mr. and Mrs. Fordney live in Saginaw, Mich.

While Gen. Fuller and his family are establishing themselves in their home, far across town, the Navy will find one of its officers taking the trek to Georgetown. For Lieut. Comdr. William Heard and Mrs. Heard have bought a house on O street across the street from the old Russian Embassy. Originality marks the blue prints sketched for the remodelling of the old house in which Lieut. Heard has planned a grillroom after the style of a street cafe in Mont Martre or, rather, in the Latin Quarter of Paris. All the bizarre features of a Paris street, lamp-posts, odd lighting effects and fantastic wall-finish will mark the interior of Lieut. Heard's "pet" room.

The Vice President, Mr. Charles Curtis, will be the guest today and tomorrow of Mrs. George Mesta at The Rocks in Newport. Additional plans have been made for his entertainment, which include a tea by Mrs. Stuart Duncan at Bonnie Crest this afternoon shortly after his arrival and a reception tomorrow morning at Harbour View by Mrs. Paul Fitz Simons, president of the Newport County Woman's Republican Club. There also will be a public reception given for the Vice President during his stay.

The Assistant Secretary of War, Mr. P. Trubee Davison, will give his annual clam bake on the beach at Peacock Point, the estate of his mother, Mrs. Henry P. Davison, at Locust Valley, Long Island, on September 6.

The former Senator from Rhode Island and Mrs. Peter Goelet Gerry went to Newport on Wednesday as guests of Mrs. Gerry's sister, Mrs. J. Nicholas Brown, to attend the reception given for Miss Anne Seddon Kinsolving, of Baltimore.

Harts Will Be Aid To Envoy to Ethiopia.

President Hoover's appointment of Herman Murray Jacoby, of New York, as special Ambassador from the United States to the coronation of his imperial majesty, Haile Selassie I, Emperor of Ethiopia, at Addis Ababa, on November 2, carries with it great social significance. The ambassador's aid will be Brig. Gen. William W. Harts, who was a great social factor in Washington when he was military aid to President Wilson, and is now Military Attache of the United States Embassy in Paris. Mr. Jacoby's wife was Miss Catherine Fairbanks Murray of Canada.

Mr. Charles L. Cooke, who for many years arranged all ceremonial affairs at the State Department, will serve as secretary to the special mission.

Every country of the Old World will send an illustrious representative to the coronation. The Duke of Gloucester will represent Great Britain, and the brother of the Emperor of Japan will represent that country. From each country similarity important persons will officially attend the ceremonies which will last for three weeks and will be brilliant in interest.

A Washington woman famous in her own right as an explorer and historian, Mrs. Harriet Ghalmer Adams, wife of Dr. Franklin Adams, of the Pan-American Union, will attend the coronation unofficially and will be the guest of the United States Minister to Ethiopia and Mrs. Addison E. Southard.

Will Wed Minister

MISS MARTHA ELIZABETH LAVISSON,

Both Dr. and Senora de Viteri and since their arrival in the capital the legation has become one of the interesting diplomatic households.

Recently the minister, who is an author of ability, wrote for the Pan American Bulletin the story of his country's 100 years as a republic.

HARVARD PROFESSOR HEARD AT INSTITUTE

"CARTEL" GROWTH CITED

Williamstown, Mass., Aug. 14 (A. P.).—The present limited and unofficial participation of the United States in the Bank of International Settlements "will not last but will lead to closer international economic cooperation," said Prof. Edwin F. Gay, of Harvard University, at the Institute of Politics today. He spoke before the conference on European economic progress.

"I believe the United States will be appealed to for economic cooperation rather than political cooperation," Prof. Gay said.

He referred to a statement by David L. Shillinglaw, of Chicago, who said the United States declined to permit the Federal Reserve Bank of New York to participate in underwriting the International Bank's stock. Mr. Shillinglaw asserted that the New York bank was intended to be the bank of issue in the United States and held the veto right on questions involving the interests of the United States.

"Cartel" Movement Sighted.

The international "cartel" movement, which originated in Europe before the war, has been strengthened by postwar economic conditions, said Prof. Gay. Although some American business is cooperating with European cartels, he said, American nationalism is partly responsible for lack of closer cooperation.

"The price competition of national industry," he asserted, "has gone to a point, especially in some of the big staples, where cooperation and stabilization in the interest of all concerned, have become necessary. Modern mass production is dependent on wider markets."

At the round table discussion of Pan-American problems Prof. Jesse S. Reeves, of the University of Michigan, said he thought Mexico might soon join the League of Nations. Mexico, he remarked, has observers at Geneva and has accepted the invitation to The Hague conference on codification of international law.

Claims No Causes for War.

He said that at present there were no real causes of war in the Latin-American countries and it was fanciful to say the United States was jealous of the League of Nations and desired to decide disputes in those countries.

In spite of the Kellogg pact, a modification of the rules concerning neutrals "may be useful," Dr. Walter Simons, chief justice of the German Republic, told the institute tonight.

"On principal, all states adhering to the Paris pact are bound to renounce war, and where there is no war, there is no neutrality," he said. "But as long as the Paris pact is not universally adopted, there is room for war and neutrality."

He declared the neutrality rules in the last war were neglected in great measure by both sides, who excused themselves on the ground of necessity.

R-100 SPEEDS EAST STEADILY OVER SEA

a height of 1,500 feet. The passengers could see an occasional passing vessel or lonely lighthouse keeper, and hear the salute of sirens above the steady drone of the engines.

Tonight the R-100 was enjoying ideal weather conditions. The wide vista of the calm Atlantic was now the only reminder to the passengers that they were at sea, for the airship was as steady as if she were still at her mooring mast.

Cardington, England, Aug. 14 (A. P.).—The steady and comfortable progress of the British dirigible R100 on her return flight from Canada was eagerly watched today by those at her home port here.

News from the great airship is immediately transmitted by the air ministry to the headquarters of the R100, and the news that the big airship is making excellent time, despite the fact that one of her six motors is out, is received with jubilation.

New Record Expected.

All reports show that the R100 was speeding eastward with such progress she might establish a new record for a lighter-than-air crossing in this direction.

The R100's departure was made 13 days after the arrival in Canada from a record crossing of 78 hours 51 minutes from Cardington. Three mishaps befell the air liner in its visit to the North American Continent—a large tear was found in one of the fins before the original landing at St Hubert, while later a small hole developed in the outer envelope and the forward motors went out of commission. The rips were patched, but the engine could not be repaired in time for the scheduled start homeward.

700 Miles From Belle Isle.

St. Hubert, Canada, Aug. 14 (A.P.). The British dirigible R-100 radioed St. Hubert Airport tonight that at midnight (G. M. T.; 7 p. m. E. S. T.), the airship was at 52.30 north latitude and 44.10 west longitude, making 56 knots at an altitude of 1,700 feet.

The position placed the England-bound dirigible at nearly 700 miles southeast of Belle Isle. The message said that the weather was overcast and cloudy.

once and his friends understand he intends to make an announcement within a few days.

Mr. Burnett is a veteran of the Internal Revenue Service in which he has served for more than ten years. He was appointed deputy commissioner in charge of the income tax unit by Mr. Lucas last winter. Before then he served as internal revenue agent in charge at Cincinnati and later at Boston.

He is a native of West Virginia but entered the Government service as a resident of Ohio. The commissionership has been regarded as one of the choice political plums, but the President apparently intends to favor promotion within the service.

Other names have been mentioned in the speculation over the commissionership, including that of Joseph Moyer, of Pennsylvania, the chairman of the advisory board of the bureau. He is popular in the service and had considerable support for the appointment.

"Dead" Wife Breaks Upon Honeymoon; Placed in Jail

Vermont Woman Held to Explain Mystery of Body Identified as Hers and of Suicide Note, Which She Admits Writing.

Bellows Falls, Vt., Aug. 14 (A.P.).—The reappearance here of Mrs. Catherine Rockwell Packard, wife of George J. Packard, of Rutland, today had given her the role of a feminine Enoch Arden and had produced a mystery involving suicide or murder and mistaken identity which officials sought to unravel.

More than a year ago Mrs. Packard disappeared from her Rutland home. In August, 1929, the body of a woman found in a Chester pasture was identified by Packard as that of his wife. On the body was a note which read: "I am sick of life and am going where I will be happy."

On July 14, of this year, Packard married again. His second wife was Margaret L. Macfarland, of Rutland. On that same date an insurance company refused to pay insurance on the first wife.

Recently the supposedly dead Mrs. Packard made an appearance in Manchester, N. H. She explained that she had been "out West." She returned to Vermont Sunday.

Investigators said Mrs. Packard admitted having written the note found on the body of the dead woman during a period of despondency. How another person obtained it she could not explain.

After leaving her husband, Mrs. Packard said she worked in a hospital in Springfield, Vt., and later went to Cleveland, Ohio. Returning from Cleveland, she lived in Manchester, N. H.

Springfield, Vt., Aug. 14 (A.P.).—Mrs. Catherine Rockwell Packard, wife of George J. Packard, of Rutland, today was held as a material witness here in connection with the identification of the body of a woman in Chester last year.

Police placed Mrs. Packard under technical arrest this afternoon after they said it had been determined that a "suicide note" found on the dead woman had been written by Mrs. Packard. They also requested Rutland police to hold Packard for questioning.

POLICE ORDER INVESTIGATION ON ACTIVITY OF PSYCHOLOGIST

automobile by the time his vacation starts."

Prof. Norman then injected an explanation.

"I haven't time to go into details telling how a thing will be done or why it will be done, but merely that it will be done or it will not be done."

And then on with the letters.

"Letter signed by Mrs. F. A. L. Seemingly it will prove more profitable to leave Washington."

"Mrs. L. B. T. Will I receive my naturalization papers and when? My answer is yes, within the next six months."

"Letter signed by K. F. L., wants to know if he will ever live in a city in New Jersey. My answer is that the party will."

"Letter signed by Mrs. J. L. A. The party asks where is there success for me. During the very early part of 1931 there will be no occasion for this party to ask that question. For by this time the party will be having a fair success outside of Washington."

Affairs of Heart.

A number of the questions repeated by the professor deal with affairs of the heart.

Mrs. A. J. K., for instance, wanted to know if the party will be remarried. The professor's answer was in the affirmative. He added that the wedding would be in 1931.

R. J. Y. asked a question.

"Yes," answered the professor, "in 1931. The party will be married to some one whom you now know."

At this juncture the professor again reminded the radio audience that he was not a fortune teller, clairvoyant, palmist or mind reader, but a psychologist whose answers were based on his psychological reactions.

The next answer was: "The party is very sincere and you will have proof of this in 1931 when the party will marry you."

Question on Investment.

The next question concerned an investment, and then the professor evidently came to a letter asking his advice on "numbers," a game that is played in this section by a large number of persons despite the activities of prosecutors and police who insist it is against the law.

Prof. Norman brushed the query aside with the comment, "Remember, ladies and gentlemen, I reach my answers on a psychological basis, and it is impossible for me to give lucky numbers."

B. B. wanted to know about a certain letter.

"The party will receive the letter in six days," came the answer based on "psychological reaction," "and seemingly the letter will carry with it everything that could be expected."

The busy business world also is represented in the questions that pour in Prof. Norman's office.

C. A. wanted to know whether the contract would be renewed. Prof. Norman, judging from the answer he gave, was quite sure about it.

"My answer is positively yes," he announced. "They will renew the contract and you will be reengaged."

Then a lady wanted to know if she ever would be married and when. The answer was yes, in 1931.

Mrs. Betty C. was told to listen in at a later broadcast for the answer to her question regarding the illness of her son.

After three other questions had been answered, F. G. wanted to know whether she would be remarried.

"The party will be remarried to her former husband in the year 1931," the professor replied.

And so on until the professor's time had expired.

MANN'S REPUBLICAN GROUP MAY GIVE VOTES TO HEFLIN

Heflin is now an independent. One has only to read Mann's latest statement of purposes and aims, however, to fit Heflin right in with the crowd and place a sheet over the whole.

The practical reasons of a tie-up lie in the fact that it is the only way the Mann movement can get into Alabama and it is sorely in need of States in which to operate. As a matter of fact, a tie-up with Heflin and success in November would give the group a political standing which it is not believed they will be able to achieve elsewhere.

The administration seems to have the Southern situation in hand except in Florida, Georgia, Mississippi and South Carolina. And it does not seem to be worrying about, and with good reason, what the Mann followers do in those States.

In Alabama, Oliver Street, the Republican leader, is playing ball with the administration. Strangely enough no effort has ever been made to put one of those "patronage committees," of which one hears so much, into Street's State. Through all of the Southern reorganization he has been left alone just as if he had as respectable a Republican party as exists in North Carolina—which is not the case. Street is the Republican party in Alabama just as Ben Davis and Perry Howard, Negroes, used to be in Georgia and Mississippi.

Democratic Leaders Shaken.

Now the Democratic regulars here have been made rather shaky by the smallness of the vote in the Democratic primary in Alabama Tuesday. It fell at least 75,000 short of the normal vote. Heflin had pleaded with his followers to stay out of the primary so they could vote for him in November.

If the 75,000 remained out of the primary because of Heflin, his chances in November perk up considerably. The regulars get some consolation out of the fact that Tuesday's vote was small even in the regular strongholds, and from this fact they reason that there was simply not much interest in the primary, the voters realizing that the real fight will be in November. This may be so.

But, assuming the small vote is an evidence of Heflin's strength, a tieup with the Mann movement would certainly do him no harm. It would, as a matter of fact, give the regulars a problem.

Hoovercrats Are Vital.

As the Alabama situation stands, Street does not intend to put up a Republican candidate. This is not with a view to helping Heflin, necessarily, because the Republicans never have a candidate in that State.

It is doubtful, in fact, if Street will vote his constituency for Heflin because after all the Republicans here have been badly burned on the Klan business. But even if he should it would not in itself be enough to put Heflin across.

What he needs are the Hoovercrats and 7,000 more than Hoover received in 1928. It is with these that the Mann workers and the colonel himself can be of inestimable value.

It is not at all unlikely that they will get together. In fact, it is hard to see how they can long remain apart.

BABY REFINERY MAKES GASOLINE

Simplified and Economical Process Set Up by New York Engineer.

APPARATUS IS SMALL

New York, Aug. 14 (A.P.).—A complete gasoline refinery, no bigger than a home-brew outfit, has been set up by Edward F. Chandler, New York engineer. It makes enough antiknock gasoline daily to run an automobile about 500 miles.

It represents discovery of a simplified method for making gasoline, Chandler says, and also the possibility that small refiners may be able to compete with the new hydrogenation process contemplated by refineries representing about 80 per cent of America's production.

In hydrogenation oil is boiled in an atmosphere of pure hydrogen under pressure, so much more of the oil "cracks" into gasoline.

Chandler's discovery is a catalyst. Catalysts, substances widely used in chemical processes, are the small quantities of foreign substance introduced into ingredients under treatment, which convert them into the desired product. A compound of aluminum, for example, is well known as a catalyst in manufacture of gasoline.

The new catalyst found by Chandler governs the effects of heat to permit of rapid vaporization of the oil.

This simplifies the gasoline-making process enough to eliminate much costly apparatus. But from this smaller and more economical apparatus, by a process which he says is inexpensive, Chandler claims to obtain from cheap, low-grade oils more gasoline than formerly could be obtained.

Further, he says, the catalyst produces an antiknock gasoline without the necessity of adding poisonous or other ingredients.

In the baby refinery oil is pumped into a drum-shaped catalytic reaction chamber. Here the oil is vaporized and treated at ordinary temperatures and atmospheric pressure. The lighter vapors are condensed and removed as gasoline.

The remaining vapors are returned to the reaction chamber for further treatment, the production of gasoline being continuous as long as oil is pumped to the system.

A by-product of the process is a gas of high heat value which may be largely converted into aviation gasoline.

Martinsburg Planning To Receive Orchardists

Special to The Washington Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., Aug. 14.—Plans are being made here to entertain about 400 orchardists from this State and Maryland, Virginia and Pennsylvania at the annual summer meeting of the West Virginia Horticultural Society, which is scheduled for August 21 at the West Virginia University Experiment Station, a few miles east of Martinsburg.

Gov. William G. Conley is on the program and is expected to address the fruitmen. Others to speak are representatives of the United States Department of Agriculture and prominent growers of the tri-State district.

Condemned Man Flees With Convict Group

Lewisburg, W. Va., Aug. 14 (A.P.).—Seven Greenbrier County prisoners, one of them under sentence of death for killing a man, were at liberty today in the mountains near here. One of the group of eight men who escaped from the county jail last night was recaptured this morning.

County officers believed the fugitives would flee across the Virginia State line a few miles away. Their trails were obliterated by hard rain.

The man convicted of murder is Roosevelt Darnell, sentenced to be hanged November 14 for the slaying of Clarence Holbrook.

Protest on Train Cut Is Planned for Today

Special to The Washington Post.

Berryville, Va., Aug. 14.—Capt. Frank M. Wray, president of the local Chamber of Commerce, has been appointed delegate to represent the town before the State Corporation Commission which meets in Richmond tomorrow morning.

Capt. Wray will present a resolution of protest from the county board of supervisors, the town council and the prominent citizens of the town, on the discontinuance of the operation of passenger trains Nos. 27 and 28 by the Norfolk & Western Railway Co.

Man Drowned in Dive From James River Boat

Petersburg, Va., Aug. 14.—Robert Powell, said to be from Hopewell, was drowned yesterday afternoon in the James River at Coggins Point. It is stated that while Powell and a companion were in a boat, Powell stood up and dived backwards. His companion, having but one leg, could not swim and was unable to save him.

Parties went to the scene as soon as possible in an effort to locate the body.

JURY CLEARS EWALD OF BUYING JUDGESHIP

said the Federal grand jury investigation of the income tax return of Healy for 1927 had not yet been closed.

And, following on the heels of this statement, Mayor Walker, who had been a witness before the grand jury, announced that he would not make up his mind whether to reinstate Healy until all the charges under investigation had been settled. In the city hall it was generally believed that, regardless of the outcome, Healy will not be reinstated.

The grand jurors came to their conclusion after a day and a half spent in examining witnesses, capped with 23 minutes of deliberation. Formal filing of their action will take place Monday, when Judge Allen, of general sessions court, receives the verdict.

The two principal witnesses before the grand jurors today were Ewald, who, although he appeared voluntarily, was asked to sign a waiver of immunity as a double precaution, and Emmerich J. Boczor, who had previously stated that he would tell the grand jurors that he heard Ewald say that he had paid $12,000 for his job, $10,000 to Healy and $2,000 to Dr. Francis Schirp, an official of the Steuben Society, who was one of the signers of a letter to Mayor Walker recommending the appointment of Ewald, which, the mayor testified on Wednesday, was a large factor in the appointment.

Filipinos Denied Work After Unsigned Threats

San Jose, Calif., Aug. 14 (A.P.).—More than 100 Filipinos working on fruit and vegetable crops in this vicinity have been released by orchardists and other employers after receiving anonymous warnings against the use of Filipino labor.

One of the warning notes, headed by a skull and crossbones, read: "Work no Filipinos or we'll destroy your crop and you, too." Several of this character were placed in rural mail boxes of pear orchardists in the Santa Clara-Sunnyvale district. Postal authorities started an investigation.

RUSSIAN BAUBLES COSTLY TO TOURISTS

Government's Second-Hand Stores Are Great Lure to Get Money.

SUBJECT TO EXPORT TAX

Moscow, Aug. 14 (A.P.).—Government second-hand stores, officially named "commission shops," are a great lure here to the money of tourists.

They are stocked with art objects of china, silver and gold, with paintings, ikons, tea and coffee sets, gems, rugs, ivory, jade, tortoise shell and even clothing and household linens confiscated from the old aristocracy of defunct imperial Russia.

Even though thirteen years have elapsed since the Bolsheviks squashed the old regime, the government has immense stocks of baubles dating back, in some cases, to the reign of Catherine the Great. These were augmented recently by further seizures of rugs and household articles for nonpayment of the heavy taxes imposed upon the nonworking classes.

In the days of the great famine of 1920-1921, members of Hoover's relief administration and other foreigners were frequently offered diamonds and rubies, rare tapestries and rugs, gold cigarette cases and begemmed snuff boxes for a few pounds of sugar or flour. Prices now are not that low, but they are still below what the same articles would cost in other countries, provided one overlooks the one-third ad valorem export tax.

No Russian, of course, has the means to purchase any of these articles, so the government looks to foreigners for the double income from sale and tax. The Soviet authorities, in fact, expect to reap a harvest in foreign "valuta" this season because more than 10,000 Americans alone are expected to visit here.

A visit to one of the shops is like turning over the pages of Russian history. One sees a magnificent dinner service of pure gold that belonged to Empress Catherine, Russia's most extravagant sovereign; a tea set of exquisite Saxon, which formed a part of the household equipment of Czar Nicholas I; a jeweled sword with which Emperor Alexander II defended himself; a diamond-studded ikon, in front of which the late Empress Alexandra prayed; a gold and ivory crucifix with which the monk Rasputin is said to have performed some of his "miracles;" a toy electric train with which the little crippled Czarevich used to amuse himself, and so on.

Even the wearing apparel, including wedding dresses and shoes, of Russia's empresses are on sale. Particularly fine are the collections of jeweled snuff boxes, vanity cases and cigarette cases. These range in price from $50 to $50,000.

To facilitate the sale of these articles, the authorities have authorized the commission shops to collect the export duty from the purchasers at the time the sale is made. A certificate is then give nthe purchaser which enables him to take the article out of the country without difficulty.

Since the destruction of the imperial regime, the bolsheviks have realized hundreds of millions of dollars from the sale of the former property of the Russian royal family, nobility and aristocracy. A considerable part of this money has gone into locomotives, tractors, machinery and other equipment intended to help convert Russia into a modern manufacturing country under the five-year industrialization plan.

HIDE IN THE DARK

By FRANCES NOYES HART
Author of "The Bellamy Trial"

Time—All-Hallows Eve.
Place—Lady Court, an old manor house south of Washington.

CAST OF CHARACTERS.

Lindy Marsden, lonely, lovely, a dark-eyed romanticist, and mistress of Lady Court.

Doug King, hilarious and jovial, the life of every party and the founder of the March Hares.

Neil Sheridan, sleek, dark, highly successful in his career as a lawyer and husband of Trudi, wise, witty and chic, with all the ease of manner of a grand duchess, and the lack of manners of a fishwife.

Chatty Ross, small, gay, blindly adoring wife of Tom Ross, the least successful man in the room, shabby and sensitive among his wealthy friends.

Hanna Dart, a gentle lady, immaculately beautiful, whose reserve masks a deep affection for her husband.

Gavin Dart, a rather tired and immensely successful business man of 50, with shrewd, dark eyes and steel-gray hair.

Ray Hardy, the youngest member of the party, not long married and overwhelmingly in love with

Joel Hardy, her charming and irrepressible husband, who has not grown five minutes older in the last ten years.

Jill Leighton, graceful and gracious, stepsister of that legendary Sunny, the beloved girl whose strange death ten years ago still lay like a shadow over the gay group.

Larry Redmond, an agreeable young banker who can not understand why Jill hates him.

Kit Baird, wanderer and adventurer in strange lands, who in his casual way does every romantic thing magnificently well.

THE STORY THUS FAR.

Thirteen gay revelers, calling themselves the March Hares, have gathered on Hallowe'en at Lady Court, an old manor house. As the party gets under way, some one starts a graphophone. The record is "Underneath the Stars." Sunny's tune, Sunny herself, whom every one loved, having been drowned in Washington.

Kit entertains with a few songs. Lindy then tells him why she arranged the party. She confesses her love for him, proposes, while in another part of the house Larry proclaims his love to Jill. Outside a storm is raging, but the March Hares continue to make merry. Kit and Doug, however, quarrel when Lindy objects (for a moment) to dancing with King. The situation is saved when Lindy relates a murder story concerning early relatives who occupied Lady Court.

Chatty and Trudi review events since the last party. Lindy corners Kit again and teases him about being jealous of Doug King. Later as she chants "Mirror, mirror, dark and bright * * *" Kit's face appears in the glass. The mirror is broken. Doug is furious. Kit discovers that the party is marooned—a bridge over a creek has been washed out.

Kit makes a big winning at poker and Doug is the victim. Comes midnight and time for "Hide in the Dark." Lights go out and everybody scampers to different parts of the house. Doug (who is hiding) is found by Jill on the sofa, dead—murdered—and the house is in confusion.

Lights go on and the party reassembles in the living room. Gavin Dart is selected chief inquisitor, unofficially. He asks each guest where he or she was at the time Doug's body was discovered. Kit admits being "quite romantic" about Lindy.

NOW CONTINUE THE STORY.

Sunny Told Him of Stairs.

It was Gavin Dart who broke the long silence.

"How did you come to know about these stairs, Baird?"

Jill spoke suddenly and clearly from the depths of her cushions.

"Sunny told you, didn't she, Kit?" She told me that she's told you."

He said, not turning his head:

"Yes; Sunny. I caught her trying to work the catch from the chapel side that last time we were out here and she let me in on the secret. She was going to try hiding there the next time that she played Hide in the Dark * * * She never played it again."

"We both found it that last afternoon," said Jill. "It was the closet in our room, you know, and Sunny was trying to get a hat from the shelf and tipped over the boxes."

She was abruptly silent, and Gavin asked: "There were at least three of you who were fully aware of these stairs, then—Lindy, Kit and Jill. Were there any more?"

Lindy asked: "But, Gavin, are the stairs so important? I'm probably being stupid again, but truly, I can't see why."

"Lindy, I may be wrong, but it seems to me that the stairs may be of the very greatest importance. Suppose, to take a purely hypothetical case, that one of us had discovered them by accident and thought that every one else in the house was totally unaware of their existence? Here we would have an absolutely unknown method of approaching this room, or of escaping from it, that would be under cover the greater part of the way. A really superb place to hide any incriminating evidence, as even the most zealous investigator can't very well search something that he doesn't know exists. Here was a place that a knife, for instance, might be concealed for days——" He broke off, rising abruptly to his feet. "Suppose we call a halt for a few minutes while we investigate these famous stairs. Is there a flashlight anywhere round here?"

Fingerprints May Tell.

"There's one in the corner of the lacquer cabinet," said Trudi. "We were using it out in the kitchen and I stuck it in with the silver and things."

Gavin took a step in the direction of the cabinet and Hanna flung out a detaining hand.

"Gavin, wait." He turned, something in the low voice swinging him about in his tracks. "Gavin, you said that you wouldn't leave me again. You promised."

He said slowly: "And so I did. You don't want me to go? Well, that's perfectly simple, then. I'll deputize some one else. There are one or two things that I still want to straighten out, anyway, and I'll probably be more useful here than anywhere else. Lindy."

"Kit, you know the way, don't you? Supose that you and Tom take that flashlight and make a good, thorough search of the whole thing. Bring back anything that you find, of course, only remember the importance of fingerprints and go a bit easy on the way you handle things."

Kit swung to his feet, slinging a carelessly protective arm about Tom Ross' narrower shoulders.

"Oh, rely on us!" he assured Gavin with a sudden gleam of teeth. "You shall have every knife we find and absolutely untampered with, shan't he, Tom? And, of course, if it's that nice bone-handled one that Doug was fooling around with after the poker game, it ought to have a really first-rate set of fingerprints of mine to warm the heart of headquarters, or has headquarters got a heart?"

"Fingerprints of yours? What on earth are you talking about?"

"He means he nicked the knife up to look at it after Doug put it down," interposed Joel promptly and heatedly. "You saw him do it yourself. What in the devil do you think he meant?"

Kit flung a brief smile over his shoulder in the direction of the indignant countenance of his champion.

"I'll leave my interests in your hands, old boy; you're more capable of looking out for them than I am. The quickest way's through the chapel, Tom—watch out for that step——"

Gavin, following the red head and the brown one with inscrutable eyes, let a full minute go by without a word. Then, turning back to his place on the love-seat, he asked, leisurely sympathetic, "Feel up to answering two or three questions now, Jill?"

"I'll—try."

The piteous eyes in the small, strained face turned slowly to him.

"You found Doug's hiding place very quickly, didn't you?"

"Yes." She wrung her hands together until the knuckles were bone white, but her voice did not waver.

"Was that simply chance, or had you any reason to believe that you might find him there?"

"I had every reason. He told me that he was going to be there."

"He told you that? When?"

"Just after—just after we put the lights out—before we started upstairs."

"You were in the dark when he told you this?"

"Yes. In the dark."

"Could any one have overheard you?"

"I don't know. We were talking quite softly, in whispers. He'd followed me over to the window. I thought that all the others were near the fire. They were trying to put it out, I think."

"But some one might have followed him in the darkness, of course. Can you remember just what he said to you, Jill?"

Doug's Plan to Hide.

"Yes. He said that he wanted to try a scheme that he and Sunny and I had talked over at the last party that we had here. He'd been reading 'The Purloined Letter'—you remember how the thief left it lying right under the nose of the searchers, and no one ever found it because it was so obvious. He was sure that it would work perfectly in Hide in the Dark. He chose the sofa because that was where he was supposed to wait until the signal to hide and he was sure that no one would dream that he'd just go on sitting there.

"He simply asked me to be very careful not to give him away. It was I who suggested it. I—wanted to ask him a question. I'd been trying all evening to get a word with him."

"What question?"

She stared back at him despairingly, the color draining back from the delicate hollows in her cheeks.

"I can't tell you. It's no good asking me, I can't. It wasn't about me. It was about other people. I'll tell you anything else, but I can't tell you that."

Gavin Dart looked gravely and compassionately at the hard-wrung hands.

"Jill, I have no power to force you to tell us anything whatever, but I can give you my word that in the end it will be far, far easier for you if you tell us now what that question was."

"I wasn't thinking of what would be easier for me," said Jill Leighton. "I can't tell you what it was, either now or later."

"Very well. Will you tell us, then, just what you did, from the time that the last gong struck until you screamed?"

"Yes. I waited to let the others get a good start and then went straight down to the Priest's Room on the second floor. I thought that I'd use those stairs to get to the chapel and then to this room—that I'd be less likely to run into any one that way. But there was some one in the Priest's Room, so I came back by the front stairs. I could hear some one moving around in this room—footsteps, and a little crash of some kind, so I stood back against the stairs, waiting. Two people passed quite close to me, one going upstairs and the other crossing into the library, and then everything seemed quite still in the room, so I went in. I came straight over—straight over to the sofa, and sat down on the end nearest the door. I waited a second or so and then I whispered, 'Are you there, Doug?' No one answered, and I put out my hand and touched his sleeve. I said, 'Doug, it's Jill!' And when he still didn't say anything, I thought that he must have fallen asleep, and I put out my other hand to give him a little shake. And then I felt—then I felt——" She turned a face that was suddenly deathly sick against the cushion of the chair, her voice trailing off into something fainter than a whisper. "Then I felt that my hands were—wet!"

Unexpected Clues.

"Gavin, don't ask her anything more now!" Lindy's silver voice was stirred from its cool tranquillity to something startling like indignation. "It's sheer medieval torture to make her go over that part of it now. Jill, darling, it's all over. You don't have to tell us any more at all! Darling, not ever——"

Jill said, "There's nothing more to tell—that's all. I'm all right, Lindy; don't bother about me, dear."

"I bother about you rather a lot," murmured Lindy, a soft passion of indignation still shaking her voice. "Chatty, hand me up that other cushion for her, there's a good child—no, the one near Joel's foot."

Chatty reached for it obediently and then pushed it from her with a small sound of amazement, leaning forward to inspect it more closely.

"But, Lindy, it's simply sopping! How on earth—oh, Joel—look out! It's your feet. They're wringing wet—look, almost up to your knees. Where in heaven's name have you been? Wait—here's one of mine.

Gavin, inspecting the tip of his own immaculately polished shoe with grave interest, inquired sympathetically, "So you got your feet wet, Joel? Hard luck. But you can't expect to keep dry shod on a night like this."

Joel gave the cuff of his trouser a vicious wring and turned an indignant eye on his suave interrogator.

"How do you mean, on a night like this? The weather tonight hasn't got anything more to do with me than it has with you."

"Oh, my mistake. It looked for a moment as though you'd been battling with the elements."

"Well, I haven't." Joel's glare was entirely unmollified and his grip tightened on the thin little paw of the young thing seated beside him and staring at Gavin Dart with the disconcerting intensity of a very small, slightly ruffled owl, round-eyed and solemn.

"I haven't set my foot outside of this house since I came into it. What do you think I am, anyway—cuckoo?"

Gavin, passing over this impassioned and rhetorical question with an agreeable smile, asked mildly:

"Was the sewing room fairly damp?"

"Quite a little wag, aren't you?" inquired Joel bitterly. "No, Scotland Yard, the sewing room was not fairly damp. I got my feet wet crashing into that doggoned tub of apples over there, if that's what you want to know."

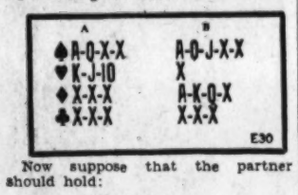
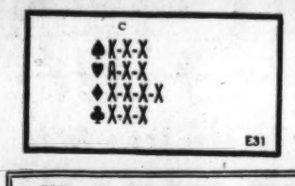
WORK ON BRIDGE

CONTRACT BRIDGE.

Players who use original suit-bids of two as forcing bids do not dare to make such declarations without great strength because if the partner have a hopeless holding, forcing him to bid over an original two is apt to spell disaster. The system works quite satisfacorily when the bidder has strength enough to make a bid of two safely; but the main objection is that when using it, an original one-bid may mean anything from a minimum one-bid to one just under the strength required for two-bid. For example, one Spade would have to be bid originally on both of the following hands as neither is strong enough for a forcing two-bid:



Now suppose that the partner should hold:



If the original one-Spade bidder held Hand B, B and C together would be practically certain to produce game at Spades; but if the holder of C should bid two Spades and his partner had Hand A, six tricks must be lost even with the best possible break.

Supposing that Hand C should elect to bid one No Trump; two suits would be wide open for the adversaries to run, and they might start off by cashing from eight to ten tricks. Hand A would not dare to overcall the No Trump with two spades because the C Hand might turn out to be—in which case the No Trump might work better than Spades.

It is sounder practice not to make two a forcing bid, but to have two indicate a six-trick hand. With the forcing bid eliminated, Hand A would bid one Spade and Hand C would pass. Hand B would bid two Spades, Hand C would jump, and game doubtless would be obtained at Spades.

It simplifies partner's bidding enormously if an original bid of one announces: "I have not six tricks."

Reed Smoot and Bride On Belated Honeymoon

Salt Lake City, Aug. 14 (A.P.).—Senator Reed Smoot, of Utah, and his bride, the former Alice Taylor Sheets, prominent Utah church and society leader, started today for Honolulu on a delayed honeymoon.

The couple will sail from San Francisco Saturday for a three-month stay in the Hawaiian Islands. They were married here nearly two months ago and planned to start immediately for the islands, but the senator was called to Waashington by President Hoover to aid in securing ratification of the London Naval Treaty.

SPAGHETTI DESSERT.

1 package spaghetti.
1 large can crushed pineapple.
½ cup sugar.
½ pound marshmallows, halved.
½ cup pecans, chopped.
1 small bottle cherries.

Parboil the spaghetti for seven minutes in four quarts rapidly boiling water to which one tablespoon salt has been added. Drain.

Separate the pineapple from the sirup. Heat the sirup.

In a baking dish place alternate layers of the spaghetti, pineapple, sugar and marshmallows, until all are used up, having a layer of mashmallows on top.

Pour the heated pineapple sirup over all and sprinkle top with the pecans. Bake in a moderate oven fifteen minutes or until the marshmallows are well toasted. Top with the cherries and serve.

Dare INTERPRETS the MODE

Smart, this beige woolen ensemble with beige crepe de chine top to the dress. (Courtesy of Yteb, Paris.)

Paris, August 14.

"O cloud-pale eyelids, dream-dimmed eyes
The poets laboring all their days
To build a perfect beauty in rhyme
Are overthrown by a woman's gaze."

ISN'T that true, and yet the poets who have labored throughout the ages have never quite finished with the subject of a woman!

Um, doesn't it sometimes give you a little thrilly feeling just to be a woman, knowing you are an example of that which embodies all the known and surmised symptoms of beauty—oh, well, you know what I mean—, I just feel that way today!

In innumerable ways the modern woman has opportunities to enhance her charm that women had not before, even such a short while ago as our mother's day. And the truly elegant woman overlooks no opportunity to enhance her charm in her own eyes and in the eyes of people around her!

* * * *

And when does a lovely lady feel and perhaps look the least lovely? Well, I fear the answer to that would be, upon awaking in the morning, unless it would be when caught in a rainstorm in a tulle party frock—but we are not particularly alarmed about the latter because if anything could induce a lovely lady to be out of doors in a tulle party frock regardless of an imminent thunderstorm, well—!

Not feeling very serious today, I ask you plaintively, have you sent your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the leaflet telling you how to make the most gorgeous nightgown and negligee set you ever saw in your life? If you never do, you'll be sorry, if you haven't you better do it right now. Even if you don't sew, you can turn the design over to your dressmaker or a specialty shop, you know. And with this leaflet it won't cost you umpteen dollars, as anybody can tell you who has ever tried to shop for a beautiful set like this in Paris or on Fifth Avenue!

* * * *

Little natures attach great importance to little things. Do you? One of the loveliest things woman has is a calmness of temperament, a bigness of character if you wish, which can be acquired only by ruling oneself to a philosophical outlook.

* * * *

Just what you need for your fall wardrobe! It isn't a blouse either, it is a dress with a beige crepe de chine top trimmed with beige woolen incrustations, a beige wool skirt, and the smartest jacket you ever saw. In fact, I have illustrated it for you today for two reasons—one is to remind you that we do sketch practical things for you every now and then, and the other is to remind you that the house of Yteb is one of the few English houses existing in Paris and turning out models like these.

Here's the reminder again—You shouldn't miss the weekly Dare fashion letter in next Sunday's Post.

Oklahoma's Air Lines Exempt From Gas Tax

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

AM INCLOSING a few leaves from my azalea. Last year this plant bloomed beautifully. This year all the leaves are yellow and the stems gray. It has, of course, not bloomed. It is growing quite close to a persimmon tree. Dou you think this is the cause f its failure to bloom? MRS. C. F. B.

The leaves you inclosed showed that the plant was suffering from some form of blight. Being planted close to a tree, provided the tree is of such size as to shade the plant permanently, might be the reason why it has failed to bloom, but shade would not be responsible for the blight. Better spray the bush with bordeaux mixture. You will have to make several applications.

Please tell me what is the matter with the fern of which I am inclosing a frond. Also tell me the name of this variety. J. B. R.

Your plant is evidently suffering from too much sun and too little water. The variety is pteris alexandriae.

Inclosed please find a leaf from a diseased hollyhock. Please tell me how to control the disease and also the cause. MRS. F. J. H.

Your hollyhock has been attacked by blight or rust. Plants that are grown for a number of years in the same place are likely to be covered with rust, though this disease causes little trouble among healthy, vigorous plants. A mixture of lime and sulphur will prevent its injuring the plants. Bordeaux mixture is also an effective remedy. All hollyhocks should be sprayed in the spring before growth begins. Much of the trouble with rust may be avoided if the seed is sown in August instead of in the spring.

Please give me some advice about a cherry tree which we have cherished for its shade rather than for its fruit. All the leaves on the tree are now turning yellow and falling off. We are very anxious to save it. MARGARET E. W.

Better spray the tree with lime-sulphur.

Inclosed are some leaves from my flowering maple (abutilon). Please tell me what insect is destroying the plant and the best way to combat this pest. D. C.

Your plant is covered with mealy bugs. Usually spraying with cold, soapy water will control mealy bug, but occasionally it is necessary to use some form of nicotine.

I am moving and I have a very large rosebush which I am anxious to take with me. Can this bush be transplanted without injury? MISS SALLIE G. T.

You may move it if you will exercise some care. Prune it back severely and, if possible, move it with a ball of earth. This is best done in the spring before growth starts.

Please tell me what has caused the foliage of my dahlias to turn white. ALICE P. H.

Your dahlias are covered with mildew. This is usually controlled by sulphur, which is dusted on the foliage. Bordeaux mixture may also be used for the same purpose.

Why do pansies fail to continue to bloom? I am particular never to pick the flowers or disturb them in any way. MARTHA B. L.

The fact that you do not pick your pansies each day is the reason they are going to seed and failing to produce more flowers.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"LEO."

IF August 15 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 7 a. m. to 8:15 a. m., from noon to 1 p. m., and 7:30 p. m. to 8:30 p. m. The danger periods are from 10 a. m. to 11:40 a. m., from 3 p. m. to 4:30 p. m.

Astrological indications on this date will make you feel as though life was a glory and that you could live victoriously on bread and cheese. You will be able to see good, nobility and kindness in those about you. You will experience ecstatic moods of the soul, and if you be an artist or writer you may try to reproduce your feelings by brush or word.

The child born on this August 15 will be active and lethargic by turns, and highly emotional. It will have an inquiring mind and an agreeable disposition, and will seldom worry. Its angers will be readily kindled and easily appeased. Influence of mother paramount.

You are a calm, restful being, who prefers to be a looker-on in life. You do not want too much activity, nor do you always want to be surrounded by people. Work and duties permitting, you enjoy to laze and dream, and it reposes you to do nothing in particular. You like to read serene, peaceful stories that do not arouse your complex emotions. You will never wear yourself out physically or mentally, because you do things slowly and easily. You do not worry as a rule, so you are saved from the sins of both hurry and apprehension. As long as everything satisfies you, you do not care about the criticism of the rest of the world. You are indifferent to other people's opinions, and you do not try to force yours on any one else.

There is a certain amount of originality in thought and action in your case. You are a clear thinker, and you get correct mental impressions. You are very good humored as a rule, but you can be very stubborn and warm-tempered. You are not a nagger yourself, and you will not stand being the victim of one. Although you are reserved, you have a great desire for affection from others, and you are slightly jealous in your friendships. Your home instincts are very strongly marked and you would make a very fond and unselfish parent. You would be inclined to spoil and humor your children—you would become their slave.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

TRAINING FOR CRIPPLES.

WHEN a city entertains a convention the proper procedure is to beat the tomtoms about all sorts of local pride, but to put a tarpaulin over the garbage dump. Chicago recently entertained the Rotarians. Both the city and the order have been accused of Babbitry—and both are glad to wear the badge. Amid all the pageantry and blare of trumpets which characterized the city's entertainment of its visitors there was listed a visit to an institution of a type not always boasted of. It was a public school for crippled children. The one on exhibit was the Spaulding School. They have others.

In every group of 3,000,000 people there are always many hundreds of children who have been crippled by tuberculosis due to raw milk from infected cows, by infantile paralysis, by birth palsies and in a few miscellaneous ways. In the Spaulding School children of these groups are brought together in play and study and to get proper treatment at the same time.

The psychologic and social effect of taking cripples away from the noncrippled and having them play together is worth while. The school day and the school work are adjusted on their basis, and all kinds of equipment for treating and training is provided.

There is a large cabinet provided with a bank of six ultra violet lamps arranged three on each side and spaced from the ends. The child, stripped and wearing goggles, steps on to a moving sidewalk which carries him from one end of the light chamber to the other. In this way the duration of exposure is regulated.

There is a tank with good equipment to be used in muscle training, particularly after infantile paralysis. A larger tank with some underwater platforms is for muscle training of other groups. The large flat roof is used as in a playground. Another part serves as space for sun baths. The manual training facilities are ample and varied.

RESULT OF SOME FRIGHT.

Mrs. C. R. C. writes: I am much concerned regarding my 16-month-old child. At all unexpected noises, such as the ringing of the telephone or doorbell, a strange voice, or the entrance of a strange person into our home, he runs to me terrified and screaming for me to pick him up. Some one told me this would lead to St. Vitus' dance. Is this correct?

REPLY.

Some one has frightened the child. You must train him out of his fears. This condition has no particular relation to St. Vitus' dance.

MAY BE DUE TO EXPOSURE.

A. P. F. writes: Beginning with this season of the year, small blisters form under the skin on various parts of my fingers and hands. The blisters do not itch, but seem to spread, dry up, and form small scales at the edge of which new blisters form. Could you tell me what this might be and what I could do to remedy it? Is there anything I could include or omit in my daily diet to help this condition?

REPLY.

If you can find the cause and avoid it your trouble will be at an end.

Eruptions on the hand are generally due to some exposure incident to occupation. Therefore, your occupation is the first field in which to search for the cause. What is there in your work that is peculiar to this season?

Diet is not the probable cause in your case.

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD

Worry Over Nothing.

DEAR MISS McDONALD: I wonder if you can help me out in a question that has become quite a puzzle to me. I will try to be as brief as I can, at the same time giving you all the facts so that you will be able to understand my trouble and give me your much-needed advice.

For the past 18 months I have been going with the dearest boy in the world and we love each other dearly, but that is beside the point.

This boy is an only child of parents that are far from wealthy, and yet they hardly are what one would call poverty-stricken. Unlike most only children he is far from being spoiled. In fact, he has earned his own spending money since he was 6 years old. At that time he started a paper route and from the time he got his first pay envelope until the present, anything he wanted aside from the bare necessities of life he had to pay for himself.

He graduated from high school this June and the only presents he got were from some of us (his classmates) and a few relatives and outside friends, nothing from "the family." His father told him, at graduation, that he had now received as much education as he (his father) had received and any more that he wanted, meaning college, he would have to get on his own "hook." In fact, his father thinks he has done him a great service by helping him to obtain a job that paid him enough salary to put him through a year of night school. He is taking English at summer night school now and wants to take a full course next year and another session in summer school next summer so that he can get enough credits to enter college next fall in his sophomore year. Personally I think a job that keeps him on his feet, plus four hours of school at night and the time his studying will take is too much for a boy, no matter how healthy he may be and "my boy" isn't in the pink of condition.

He came over last night, as he does about twice during the week, aside from Sundays, and I told him I thought he was trying to do too much; that by the end of the year he would be a total wreck from the strain of it all. But, he argued, he has to work to make enough money to pay his college expenses, and unless he takes the course he has planned to take it will take him five or six years to get through college, and he can't stand the thought of that. He seemed so discouraged about getting through college that I couldn't help but think that his parents were very selfish not to help him out. I was so preoccupied about that, that I wasn't listening much to what he said. Finally, he noticed that I wasn't listening to him and asked what the trouble was. Of course, I didn't want to tell him, and he became very much perturbed.

"You see, not having any idea how I feel about his family life, he naturally thinks I am probably worrying about something that concerns me personally. I finally put him off by saying that I wasn't in a mood to tell him then, and maybe I could tell him some other time. And that is where the trouble comes in. I'm afraid I wouldn't be able to put it tactfully enough. On the other hand, if I don't tell him he will continue to worry about it and be anxious about me, feeling certain that I am in some kind of trouble. I'm not just supposing that, Miss McDonald, because I have known him to go without food and not sleep for days when something is worrying him. In fact, he told me last night that if I didn't tell him enough to relieve his worry he wouldn't be able to sleep.

So you see, Miss McDonald, what a quandary I'm in. I asked mother what she thought I ought to do and she was just as puzzled as I am. I may be all wrong about his parents, although as far as I can learn they take very little interest in him, and it is useless for him to unburden himself to them, because they won't sympathize and so are no comfort to him. However, whether there is another side to it or not, something will have to be done about the present situation so that my poor boy won't worry himself to death over me.

BELLE.

Well, my dear, you and this boy of yours will certainly always be able to find lots to worry about. As I get the substance of your letter, you are asking me whether or not you should tell the chap what was engaging your attention at the time he happened to note that you were not listening to his story. You feel certain he will neither eat nor sleep until you tell him, yet you await official instructions as to procedure. Listen, girl, if you through life act like that you will have a very thin husband. In the first place why all the mystery? Why the "perhaps some day you will know all?" What man would fail to think that some dark spectre from a harrowing past was stalking through your thoughts? And your mother is as puzzled as you are. You are all pretty serious-minded are you not? If this do-or-die boy of yours does not find himself a wife with a better sense of values than you seem to possess, he is going to go through life like a beast of burden, hitched to a load. What is the matter with all of you? Do you eat enough fruit? Do you get fresh air? What are you glooming about? Tell the boy for me to take his time, as he will be dead a great many years. And as for you, unless you can laugh a man out of worries, you will be a failure as a wife.

What would you do if you were married to this boy and he came home and told you he had been fired, and had been to every place he could think of, asking for work and could get nothing? Would you reply that it was just what you expected, for something told you ill-luck was going to follow you both?

If you care anything about this boy who certainly has had gloom enough in his life, cheer him up in a normal, natural way. Restrain yourself when you feel tempted to grab the spotlight and enjoy seeing how much someone will worry over you. Invalid wives are few, according to the doctors. But the number of wives who become "invalids" to excite their husbands to interest and worry are legion. I hope that you will not be one of those "invalid" wives.

11 WOMEN IN GROUP PASSING BAR TEST

Less Than Half Successful at Examination Will Practice Here.

PRESENTATION IN FALL

Eleven women are included in the 192 candidates who passed the recent examination for admission to the bar of the District of Columbia, according to a list made public yesterday by John Paul Earnest, chairman of the examining committee. The budding attorneys probably will be presented to the court early in October.

Four hundred and twenty-four persons took the examination, 45 per cent passing, and 55 per cent failing. Among the successful women candidates was Sarah Wheeler Sechrest, whose husband, Earl F. Sechrest, also passed the test. Other women to be admitted to the bar are Bertha A. Crump, Augusta De Laguna Spaulding, Frances D. Foley, Mary J. Kane, Paris F. Keener, Dorothy M. Long, Ella A. Merritt, Jean Crowley Stormer, Katherine E. Wood and Margaret M. McCarthy.

Martinsburg Decides To Reduce Tax Rate

Special to The Washington Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., Aug. 14.—The Berkely County Court, the school board for Martinsburg district and the city council, this city's three tax levying bodies, have decided the tax rate for Martinsburg proper is too high. Consequently each body has made a slight reduction with the result that the rate for the ensuing year will be $2.85 on the $100 valuation, instead of $2.96, last year's figure.

The county court cut its rate 5 cents, while each of the other bodies reduced 3 cents. Increased property valuation, due to the city's growth in the past year, will bring in about the same amount of taxes as the old rate brought in last year.

"ESSO PACKS MORE POWER . . . . that's why we use it in our 'cars'" say MOTOR EXPERTS at HOOVER FIELD

Travelers of the air-lanes—There's nothing these Hoover Field men don't know about flying and about motors—their automobile as well as their airplane motors. They are, left to right, top row: John S. Wynne, General Manager and Pilot; Daniel H. Cave, Traffic Department; Boardman Munson, Office Manager; William Wells, Representative Eastern Air Express; Nelson R. Skinner, Traffic Department; J. Earl Steinhauer, Assistant Manager and Pilot. Second row: James Case, Escort; Roger Scott, Pilot; George Brincherhoff, Pilot; Joseph Dial, Escort. Bottom row: Edward Wright, Licensed Mechanic; Charles Snyder, Chief Mechanic; Elmer Matter, Licensed Mechanic; Walter Brown, Licensed Mechanic.

By air and land—Mr. John S. Wynne, general manager of Hoover Field, never powers that faithful little Ford of his with anything but ESSO. Here he is asking Howard A. Behr, one of his crack pilots, what he uses in his car. Said Pilot Behr: "ESSO gives you better performance, cuts down repair bills, lengthens the life of your car. That's why I won't use anything else."

WASHINGTON'S oldest airport . . . the country's largest "short-hop" passenger-carrying field . . . the local terminal for the only two airlines operating out of the city on schedule—that's Hoover Field.

But most of all, perhaps, this field is known for the calibre of its pilots and mechanics, the experts on its staff. They hold the unchallenged 1929 record of carrying 23,437 passengers, and the record for the first six months of 1930 of carrying 10,071 passengers.

Proved experts they are. And worth listening to when it comes to talking about motors—both airplane and automobile.

Just read their official statement, as issued by Mr. John S. Wynne, general manager of the Field. It says:

"ESSO makes a car run the way it should run—gives it greater power—eliminates knocking—gets the best all-round performance out of it. Any of the men on our staff will tell you that, for they use ESSO in their own cars and they know what motors—both airplane and automobile—need in the way of fuel."

What more impartial—more authoritative—advice could you get than that! Follow it, and switch to Esso today.

Power for the wings—Did you know that an airplane carries its fuel in its wings? Take a look, and you'll see Charlie Snyder, chief mechanic, and Walter Brown, mechanic, fueling a plane at Hoover Field. When they fuel their automobiles, they use ESSO!

Almost lives in the clouds—But when J. E. Steinhauer, assistant manager of Hoover Field, drives his car, he uses ESSO. "You don't have to know anything about motors to know when a car is run on ESSO," he says. "But my business is knowing motors, and I can tell you I know that ESSO is the best fuel for any car."

Questions and answers.—Picked at random, 1,000 Washington motorists were asked, "What motor fuel do you use?" 345 replied, "ESSO,"—more than voted for any other motor fuel.

PROHIBITION'S FOES RAPPED BY WOMAN

Mrs. Colvin Addresses Parley at U. of V.; Spence Hits Canadian Law.

U. S. ACT IS HELD BEST

Charlottesville, Va., Aug. 14 (A.P.). Advocates of prohibition rallied to its defense in the Institute of Public Affairs today, while in another discussion restriction of Mexican immigration by the United States was held to be not only a right but a duty if economically desirable.

Mrs. D. Leigh Colvin, president of the New York State W. C. T. U., upheld the national dry law tonight in an address assailing its foes.

She accused the wet forces of "the most dastardly and underhand attempts to undermine the Constitution which have been perpetrated," in all of which, Mrs. Colvin declared, they had failed.

Canadian Law Condemned.

Her address followed closely upon another in which the eighteenth amendment was praised by a Canadian, Ben H. Spence, of Washington, D. C., correspondent of the Toronto Daily Star, who at the same time condemned his own country's system of liquor control.

At the morning open forum discussion Mr. Spence disparaged the praise which he said was often heard in America of Canada's liquor control system. In his opinion, the United States dry law is much superior.

The Mexican immigration question was brought before the institute by Carlos Edouardo Castaneda, in charge of the Garcia section of the University of Texas Library, whose address was read by Dr. Clarence Haring, of Harvard University.

Mr. Castaneda declared the Mexican immigration problem to be neither social nor moral, but purely an economic question which the American people must decide for themselves.

"It is a nation's right and duty to protect the interests of its nationals," he said. "If Mexican immigration is in fact prejudicial to best American interests, if it is unnecessary, if it threatens to fill the Southwest with an undesirable class the United States has not only the right but the obligation to protect the interest of its nationals."

Defends Mexican Peon.

He denied that the Mexican laborer is inferior to other immigrants, or that the Mexican-American makes a poor citizen, and said, "It can not be proved that the average Mexican immigrant is inferior either mentally or physically. There is no greater criminality among them than among other immigrant classes."

Such charges Mr. Castaneda laid to American organized labor which sees, he said, "in the Mexican, like all other immigrants, a menace to their constantly increasing demands, and should not be taken seriously."

More Lake Water Asked by Illinois

Gov. Emmerson Tells Hurley of Chicago's Needs for Drainage.

(Associated Press.)

Engineering and legal officers had before them last night the request of Gov. Emmerson of Illinois that Secretary Hurley allow an increase in the water flow admitted through the Chicago River from Lake Michigan. Existence of an emergency due to drought conditions was cited by the governor as the reason for his request. He contended the low waters of the Chicago River did not adequately take away the sewage from Chicago.

Another question Hurley discussed with the governor was that of the Illinois waterway which is to be taken over by the Federal Government. The Federal Government had endeavored to secure a loan to begin work on the project out of a $2,000,000 State fund for bridges. Gov. Emmerson had declined, however, to advance the sum and he and the Secretary reached a virtual agreement yesterday, sufficiently complete to cause the governor to state after his conference that work by the State on the bridges would begin soon.

YES—then work seems like play!

...but when your red-blood-cells are only 80% you are not yourself—60% is dangerous

DON'T STARVE your system—those unseen red-blood-cells, when lowered in number, may cause serious trouble. In fact, if the tendency of a lowered red-cell count is allowed to continue, ANEMIA usually results.

Body weakness, lack of appetite, underweight, paleness, sallow complexion, pimples and boils are symptoms of a low blood count. These may indicate that you need S.S.S.

S.S.S. restores the red-blood-cells to normal. Your resistance to infection and disease is raised. Your appetite picks up, your whole body is strengthened, invigorated! You, too, may soon possess a wonderful power of new life and vitality. Get the large size. At all drug stores. © S.S.S. Co.

How to recognize a low blood count

Fatigue without any apparent cause, sluggishness, loss of appetite, loss of body weight, paleness, boils and pimples are outstanding symptoms of a LOW RED-BLOOD-CELL COUNT. The red-cells are your body builders. They carry nourishment to every part of the body. Also, they remove impurities from the tissues.

S.S.S.—the great blood tonic—stimulates the blood-building organs to supply the necessary red-cells. Your appetite picks up, your body is strengthened—you feel like yourself again!

(Left) Microscopic view of healthy red-blood-cells. The blood stream should contain about 5,000,000 of these cells to every cubic millimeter.

Detective Spied On "Attic Lover"

Sleuth Hired by Husband, Who Later Was Slain, Will Testify.

Los Angeles, Aug. 14 (A.P.).—The State neared the end of its case today in the trial of Mrs. Walburga Oesterreich, accused of the murder of her husband, Fred, eight years ago.

Deputy District Attorney James P. Costello said he had only two witnesses remaining to be called. They are Alvia Judkins, Oesterreich's office girl in Milwaukee, and Philip Stover, Milwaukee private detective. Costello said the detective would testify regarding his being employed by Oesterreich to watch Mrs. Oesterreich and Otto Sanhuber, her "attic lover."

Sanhuber, recently freed under the statute of limitations after he had been convicted of manslaughter in connection with Oesterreich's death, was dismissed from the witness stand yesterday. The jury visited the house where Oesterreich was shot to death. Mrs. Oesterreich, accompanying the jurors, unemotionally gazed at the spot in the hallway where her husband was slain.

Mississippian Sentenced For Attacking Woman

Meridian, Miss., Aug. 14 (A.P.).—Jack Austin, alias Jack Lampert, hosiery salesman, returned to Mississippi from Chicago to face a charge of kidnaping Miss Ann McCarley, of Tupelo, Miss., and marrying her against her will, pleaded guilty in court here today to an attack charge and was sentenced by Judge J. O. Patheree to serve seven years in the State penitentiary.

The young woman claimed Austin induced her to accompany him under the promise of a job on a sales force and deserted her in Mobile, Ala.

Norris Spent $2,600 In Primary Campaign

Lincoln, Nebr., Aug. 14 (A.P.).—United States Senator George W. Norris, insurgent, who defeated W. M. Stebbins, regular, for the Nebraska Republican senatorial nomination, spent $2,600 in his campaign, his account filed today showed.

All of his fund of $2,900, he reported, except $228, was contributed by individuals living out of the State. Mrs. Gifford Pinchot, of Philadelphia, wife of Pennsylvania's Republican candidate for governor, gave $1,000, and Senator Bronson H. Cutting, of New Mexico, gave a like amount.

Two Given Terms For Auto Theft

One Gets Three Years in Jail Upon Conviction on Two Counts.

George Murphy, 22 years old, of Van alley southwest, was sentenced to serve three years in jail yesterday following conviction in Police Court on charges of attempted robbery and carrying concealed weapons. Judge R. E. Mattingly sentenced the man to serve one year straight on the attempted robbery charge and to pay a fine of $500, or serve another year. A sentence of a year also was imposed on the concealed weapons count.

Murphy was arrested Wednesday near the Smithsonian Institution while in the act of rifling an automobile belonging to John Mimuse, of Port Chester, N. Y. He was apprehended by a park policeman who is detailed there to break up thefts from automobiles.

Shortly afterward, Judge Mattingly sentenced Henry Cheri, 18 years old, to jail for a year, following conviction on a charge of attempted larceny of an automobile tire. The boy, according to testimony, was apprehended while in the act of taking a tire from an automobile parked on Pennsylvania avenue northwest, near the District Building.

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

THE USE OF INSECT SCREENS.
(Bureau of Entomology.)

A careful screening of windows and doors during the summer months, with the supplementary use of sticky fly papers, is a protective measure against house flies known to every one. As regards screening, it is only necessary here to emphasize the importance of keeping food supplies screened or otherwise covered so that flies can gain no access to them. This applies not only to homes but also to stores, restaurants, milk shops and the like. Screening, of course, will have no effect in decreasing the number of flies, but at least it has the virtue of lessening the danger of contamination of food.

Insect screens for doors and windows should be well made and must fit tightly, otherwise they will not keep insects out. It is equally important that they be made of good and durable screen cloth. Copper insect screen cloth, although a little higher in price, will prove more economical in the long run, as it lasts many years.

If, however, the cost of copper screen cloth is objectionable, steel screen cloth, either painted or galvanized, can be used. Painted screen cloth will last one or more years without repainting.

NATS SCORE 5TH STRAIGHT BY BEATING CHISOX, 5-4

Westbrook Pegler Says

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—The business of arranging a heavyweight prize fight is a good deal like my conception of the nomination of a machine candidate for governor or President. A lot of practical men, mostly fat men, gather in a hotel room. A kid brings chairs. Another kid comes in with mineral water and cigarettes. A couple of pints appear, with fake revenue stamps on the bottle necks.

One fat man says: "This any good?" and another says: "Sure. Shake it. See them bubbles? That's oke."

"Bubbles don't mean a thing," says some one. "You can make them bubbles with a few drops of liquid soap. That label's on crooked. But don't let me interfere."

However, those who are going to drink pour drinks and down them with the reckless fatalism of the modern drinker, and those who don't drink take water.

Then to business.

Fighters Nowhere Around.

Yesterday it was Mique Malloy, of Chicago, who was trying to close a deal with the managers of Jack Sharkey for a Sharkey-Carnera fight in Chicago. The fighters were nowhere around. Sharkey was fishing in New Hampshire. Carnera was in Chicago. The business men of the prize-fight trade believe this fight would draw $750,000 in Chicago. Carnera's four managers had accepted the match for 25 per cent of the net receipts, provided, however, that Sharkey's terms should be no better.

John Buckley, a fat man with a red face, and Jack Conway, a medium-thick man, had come down from Boston to negotiate for Sharkey. Conway's interests are curiously mixed. He holds some sort of job on the sports staff of a Boston newspaper, but he is not a newspaperman in the recognized sense. He is also some sort of lawyer and, finally, he is comanager of Sharkey with Buckley.

Sharkey had been invited to fight some one, either Willie Stribling or Victorio Campolo, for the Garden firm and demanded $100,000.

The Garden had refused to guarantee him any such sum, so Malloy had offered him $100,000 guaranteed or 25 per cent of the net receipts to fight Carnera.

This Was Different Matter.

But yesterday when the boys got together in the hotel room Buckley said, well, this was a different matter and they would have to get $125,000 guaranteed, with an option on 30 per cent of the net.

In the meantime, a block away, Pa Stribling, just back from Europe, was shopping around for some work for his boy, Will. His boy Will is the support of a numerous clan of Striblings, and Pa looks after Will's business. Pa talked for some time with Will Carey, the president of the Garden firm, and then walked over to the hotel where the boys were

Jeers of Fans Lead Tilden To Default

"Big Bill," Trailing in Match, Walks Off Court at Rye.

Returns for Doubles With Hunter and Is Beaten.

RYE, N. Y., Aug. 14 (A.P.).—Big Bill Tilden took his turbulent personality out of the Eastern grass courts singles championship today, when he withdrew from the defense of his title in a match with Clifford Sutter, intercollegiate champion from New Orleans.

The youthful Tulane University star had won the first set, 6—1, and was leading, 4—love, love—15, in the second set when Big Bill took offense at the heckling of the crowd, which packed its way into the bleachers at the Westchester Country Club. Preceding Tilden's walkout, the referee frequently requested the crowd from showing any signs of partisanship. As the ace of the American Davis Cup team left the court he said, "I can't stand this any longer."

Ordinary Points Lost by Tilden.

Tilden, throughout the match, limped and let ordinary easy returns drop for placements to Sutter's credit. ter several such plays a portion of the crowd began to laugh at the lanky Philadelphian's style. Two or three times before defaulting he paused and cast his famous "glare" in the direction of the hecklers.

After the match Tilden refused to blame his showing on a bad leg, although he fell yesterday and was under a masseur's care two hours before taking the court today. Later, however, he admitted to Gene Tunney, former heavyweight champion, that his right leg bothered him.

After a short rest, Tilden took the court with his doubles partner, Francis T. Hunter, of New Rochelle, but the veteran combination lost to Keith Gledhill, Santa Barbara, Calif., and Ellsworth Vines, jr., Pasadena, Calif., national junior doubles champion. The score was 6—2, 4—6, 6—4, and placed the youthful West Coast pair in the semifinals.

Mangin Defeats Burwell.

Hunter also lost in his singles match, falling before Johnny Van Ryn, of East Orange, N. J., 6—1, 6—2.

Gregory Mangin, of Newark, N. J., and Berkeley Bell, of Austin, Tex., were the other favorites to come through to the semifinal. Mangin turned back Ted Burwell, Charlotte, N. C., youth, 6—3, 6—4, while Bell managed to eliminate the young Harvard freshman, Richard Murphy, of Utica, N. Y., 4—6, 7—5, 8—6.

The survivors in women's singles today were the two Californians, Miss Marjorie Gladman, of Santa Monica, and Miss Helen Marlowe, of Los Angeles; the Italian entry, Baroness Giacomo Levi, of Rome, and Miss Clara Louise Zinke, of Cincinnati.

A foreign threat appeared in the men's doubles when H. G. N. Lee and S. J. Perry, of England, defeated Fritz Mercur, of Bethlehem, Pa., and J. Gilbert Hall, of South Orange, N. J., 6—1, 6—3. Bell and Eddie Jacobs, of Baltimore, also went into the semifinals by disposing of Wilbur Coen, jr., of Kansas City, and Harris Coggeshall, of Des Moines, Iowa, 6—2, 6—2, 6—2.

TWO CAPITAL LADS LOSE AT CULVER

McLean and Morrison Beaten in Singles of U. S. Net Play.

Special to The Washington Post.

CULVER, Ind., Aug. 14.—Representatives of Washington, D. C., in the national junior and boys' singles tennis tournament in progress here met elimination in the quarter-final rounds of the two divisions.

Jock McLean, the boys' champion of the District of Columbia, was defeated by Jack Lynch, seeded star of Taft, Calif., in three sets, 6—3, 2—6, 6—4. Donald Morrison, Washington's contender in the junior class, was eliminated in straight sets by Carl Kamrath, of Austin, Tex., seeded player, 6—2, 6—1.

McLean played a much craftier, more heady game, while the Californian drove everything almost at top speed. The margin of difference was very slight, Lynch winning because he is a year older and much more husky than young McLean. In the finals set Jock was so tired his shots began to soften a bit and not go as deeply into his opponent's court as they had previously and Lynch took advantage of this fact by taking the net to volley off a setup or crack an overhead for the point.

McLean-Barclay Even Score in Doubles.

Darkness last night halted one of the prettiest exhibitions of doubles play seen in this event for some time. McLean and Henry Barclay, Baltimore, lost the first set to Jack Cohn, Santa Monica, national boy champion, and Lynch, 6—3, but pulled out the sec-

Canada's Yacht Cup Is Annexed by Quest

Rochester, N. Y., Aug. 14 (A.P.).—The Canadian challenger Quest won the fourth race for the Canada's Cup today by the slimmest of margins, defeating William P. Barrows' Thisbe by 28 seconds over an 18-mile windward and leeward course. The Quest thus evened the score at two all in the series for possession of the historic trophy.

The 8-meter yachts provided a thrilling finish for the largest gallery of the series as dead calm broke into a freshening breeze a half mile from the finish and swept the craft bow and bow to the line.

Starting for home on the last leg of the course off Summerville, the defender Thisbe, of the Rochester Yacht Club, was nearly 4 minutes behind the challenger. The lead changed several times on the last lap and a half mile from the finish Quest was just off Thisbe's stern.

ROBINS LOSE TO MALONE OF CUBS

Blanked for 8 Innings as Chicago Gains 5-1 Victory.

(Associated Press.)

CHICAGO, Aug. 14.—The brawny right arm of Percy Lay Malone throttled the Brooklyn Robins to a mere chirp today and derricked the Cubs into a full-game lead in the bitter fight for the National League pennant.

Backed by faultless support and bunched hits early in the struggle that carried him over the top, the big fireman from Altoona, Pa., gave Uncle Wilbert Robinson's warriors just eight scattered blows and conquered them, 5 to 1, in the third game of the first-place series. Thirty-eight thousand spectators gave him a big ovation as he waded through the Flatbush ranks with his famous smoke ball that never worked more effectively. He struck out six, walked but three and permitted but one man to reach third up until the final inning.

Malone Weakens In Ninth.

But for a careless let-up in the ninth inning, Malone would have daubed the whitewash on the Robins. Rube Bressler opened the inning with a weak single and when the next two batters filed out Bressler was permitted to jog around to third base without a play. Then Johnny Frederick came through with a single over second that scored Bressler and wiped out what looked like an almost certain shutout.

The Cubs scored all their runs in the first three innings, during which they sent Watson Clark, Brooklyn's prize left-hander, to the showers. After one was out in the first inning, English opened the way with a walk. Cuyler responded with a short fly to right that fell for a double and sent English to third. Hack Wilson then looped a hard single to left and both runners scored. The rally stopped at that juncture, however, as Danny Taylor, who subbed today for Riggs Stephenson, struck out.

Hartnett Starts Drive.

Gabby Hartnett started the rush that netted another run in the second. With none out, he splashed a single off Gilbert's glove. Farrell and Malone were easy outs, but Blair socked another single to left. Here a break came for the Cubs. Blair overran

Ferrell Beats Macks for 20th Win

Scores 15-0 Shutout; First in Majors to Reach Mark.

Indians Pound Quinn Off Hill Early in 20-Hit Attack.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 14 (A.P.).—Wes Ferrell, star pitcher of the Cleveland Indians, turned in his twentieth victory of the season against the Athletics today, the Redskins winning by 15 to 0. The triumph was also Cleveland's first of the year in eleven games played in Philadelphia. The Macks' lead over the second-place Washington club was reduced to eight games.

Ferrell, completing his second year in the major leagues, is the first pitcher either in the American or National to win twenty games this season. Lefty Grove, of the Athletics, has 19 victories to his credit.

The Indians pounded Jack Quinn, J. Mahaffey and C. Perkins for a total of 20 hits, reaching the peak of their attack in the fifth inning, when they scored six runs. Eddie Morgan hit a home run and a single in this inning, accouting for three tallies.

Whitehill's 10th in Row Scored as 11 Yanks Fan

New York, Aug. 14 (A.P.).—Earl Whitehill, of Detroit, established a new season's winning record for major league pitchers today as he made it ten straight by hurling the Tigers to a 5-to-1 victory over the Yankees.

Whitehill let the Yanks down with seven hits and struck out eleven batsmen. Sam Byrd's home run in the fourth inning saved New York from a shut-out. The Tigers also were held to seven hits, but they bunched six of them in the fifth and sixth innings for all their runs. Elias Funk decided the contest in the fifth by hitting a triple with the bases full. A Yankee error and a wild pitch were joined with three hits to score two sixth inning runs.

IN THE WAKE OF THE GAME

CARL FISCHER started well, disposing of the first two Chisox to face him in short order. Kerr fanned and Watwood filed to the rookie pitcher. In catching this looper, Fischer violated the "union" rules, for pitchers are not supposed to field any aerials. He probably was warned not to repeat this offense.

Both pitchers ended the second round on strikeouts, Fischer fanning Caraway on three successive offerings with two on the sacks, while Kuhel took a third strike for the third Washington out.

Kerr's bounder opening round 3 caromed off Fischer's glove directly to Myer.

Second-baseman Buddie Myer chased to short right for Watwood's near Texas leaguer in the third.

Mulleavy went back to the grass to take Bluege's bounder and toss him out starting the home third. It was a good play!

Spencer's poke to left with one dead in the third was Washington's first Crowder Ends Threat in 9th by Fanning Fothergill.

Fischer Is Relieved by Liska; Caraway Weakens in 3d.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

DONIE BUSH'S WHITE SOX gave the Nationals a real battle at Griffith Stadium yesterday, but lost out in the end, 5 to 4, giving the Johnsons their fifth straight victory, including a series clean-up over the Windy Cityans. As both the Mackmen and Yankees lost, the Nats stepped out two games in front of the second-place New Yorkers and are now trailing the Elephants by but eight games.

It was one of those games in which the result was in doubt until the very end, the Sox having the tying and winning runs on the paths in the ninth, when "General" Al Crowder, relieving Ad Liska, who in turn had relieved Carl Fischer when a blow from Fothergill's bat laid Fischer low in the fifth, fanned Fothergill for the final out of the game.

The Sox went into a two-run lead early in the game and dropped behind when the Nats solved Pitcher Cecil Pat Caraway for three markers in the fourth. The string was knotted in the next inning with the visitors becoming 1 up in the seventh, only to see the Nats score the two runs which ultimately won for them in their half of this "lucky" frame.

4,000 Fans on Edge During Play.

In addition to the runs which were scattered over the route, there were many threats which failed to materialize, the result being that most of the 4,000 on hand were sitting on the edges of their seats much of the time. This was especially true in the home fifth, when three walks, one to Cronin, an intentional one, filled the runways with two out. This put it up to Kuhel, but his bat was a tap to Clancy.

It was a "break" for the Nats that gave them their tying and winning runs in the seventh. With men on third and second and one out, Harris was purposely walked so that there would be a force play at every base and the possibility of a twin-murder ending the frame. Kuhel, at bat, shot a perfect double-play ball at Kerr, but he fumbled it momentarily, getting but one man and allowing Manush to register with the run which knotted the string at 4-all. This also gave Bluege his chance to single home what turned out to be the decisive marker.

Jolley Starts Rally With Double.

An opening double by Jolley, Cissell's sacrifice fly and Mulleavy's single gave the visitors their run in the second, which broke the ice, while they doubled their total in the fourth on Jolley's single, which pried the

CAESARION, 25 TO 1, WINS HANDICAP AT SARATOGA

Ragged Start Shuts Off Favorites

Son of Man o' War Graduates From Maiden Class.

Kildare Beaten After Disposing of Battleship Grey.

By GEORGE DALEY.

SARATOGA RACE TRACK, SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 14 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Caesarion, son of Man o' War—Cleopatra, now 5 years old and one of the big disappointments of racing, royally bred as he is, was graduated from the maiden class in winning the Champlain Handicap at the track here today. He was the extreme outsider at 25 to 1 and his victory was the final touch to what amounted to a racing travesty.

The start was terrible. No other word fittingly describes the worst send-off George Cassidy has had since he took over the nerve-breaking task. William Woodward's Frisius, the favorite, was sideways when he sprung the barrier, and left at the post while the others were off straggling and in Indian file. Battleship Grey was the one to gain a big advantage, but he failed to stay the distance of a mile and a furlong.

Kildare and Comstockery Bad Actors at Post.

Kildare and Comstockery were on such bad behavior that neither would face the barrier. Finally in one of his lunges the latter broke through the barrier and ran away the full circuit of the track. Kurtsinger pulled and tugged with all his strength to check his mount, but the horse was the winner in the pulling contest and had his way. Red Coat Murray caught him just as he was beginning to tire. More ructions at the post followed, and then came the unfortunate start which ruined the race.

Kildare, loving the sloppy track, went off to a long lead and then Battleship Grey moved up. Kildare raced the son of Man o' War into submission and appeared to have the purse of $3,400 won until Caesarion, closing strongly on the outside, caught him inside the last sixteenth pole to score driving by half a length.

Martie Flynn Wins by Neck.

Chicago, Aug. 14 (A.P.).—Coming fast after racing under stout restraint to the approach of the turn into the home stretch, S. Peabody's 3-year-old Martie Flynn closed with a rush to win a close decision in the Chicago Beach Hotel Purse, the feature at Hawthorne track today. The Three D's Stock Farm's 4-year-old Calf Roper was next best with Clayton Morris' 4-year-old Uncommon Gold third.

The event was an allowance affair for 3-year-olds and upward over the mile and 70 yards journey and carried a net value of $1,400 to the winner. The son of Black Toney covered the distance in 1:42 3-5 and was quoted at $7.22 to $2 in the mutuel pay-off.

Martie Flynn was away well but was immediately taken back and trailed his field for the first 6 furlongs. Given his head, he quickly closed ground and in a hard drive through the stretch was up to win by a neck. Calf Roper, also rated fair back, closed with determination to take the place by half a length over Uncommon Gold, which was two lengths in front of Black Diamond.

The latter set the pace to midway of the home stretch but then weakened. Chicago and Whiskery, the latter the favorite in the wagering, finished as named.

Boots and Saddle's

(Reg. U. S. Patent Office.)

—Saratoga Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 14.—PORTERNESIA is selected to capture the Troy Claiming Stakes, the main feature on a splendid Friday card at The Spa. This good 2-year-old showed a mighty nice effort in his recent start at the meeting back of some of well-regarded juveniles. If he repeats that performance this afternoon the finish in today's race should never be in doubt. He is plainly much the best of his field.

Rainy weather yesterday put the track in bad shape for the first time of the present meeting. Mud runners will be in demand. Horses favoring a heavy or slow track figure to hold the spotlight.

The chief contenders PORTERNESIA will have are George Widener's PANETIAN and GOSLING, two youngsters which have shown good races at the present session. PANETIAN holds a world of early speed. He should stick it out long enough to take second money from GOSLING, Harry Payne Whitney's good filly. The last-named miss won in Canada recently over a fair field and may take down third honors.

PETO won a close decision over a better field than he faces in the secondary attraction, the Mohawk Claiming Stakes. The Fitzimmons colt is right at the peak of his form. His races speak for his fitness and with capable handling he should score an easy victory over a high-class field of selling platers. This colt is just a notch below a top-class colt. Sande may have the mount. MARTIS was never better. His one corking race at the meeting indicates that much. ADEQUATE, a sluggish beginner, has HAND TO HAND to defeat for third prize.

FIRST RACE—FLOSSINE, a mare that displayed a high order of speed in her only outing of the meeting to defeat a good field, is the logical choice over an ordinary lot of claiming platers. JACK CAMPBELL may come up in this spot a hot choice. Has trained in a remarkable manner and appears ready for the race of his life. This one can make no mistakes and lead him to the wire. BROWN ADMIRAL, heavily backed the other day, looms up third best.

SECOND RACE—DRESS SHIP looks superior to the platers in the second. The Whitney cast-off is partial to the going that will prevail and in a field of the order he is meeting here should win with lots to spare. GUILDER and BRIGHT RED are favored for the smaller portions of the purse.

FIFTH RACE—GONE AWAY, a candidate for the Travers Stake, goes in the fifth race, the Newburgh Handicap, an overnight handicap. He has only to run his race to beat a small field. DANGEROUS and GREY COAT may fight it out for the place money.

SIXTH RACE—DOUBLE TIME and 11 other fillies meet in the closing 5½ furlongs. This filly is highly regarded by her connections. Her form has been excellent and with the competent McAtee in the saddle there does not appear a reason why she should not whip her field easily. LADY NEWBURY is well thought of by the clockers and is fancied for the place. Show money may be won by CHICSU, a fair 2-year-old prospect.

Aurora Racing Dates Shifted to Hawthorne

Chicago, Aug. 14 (A.P.).—The sixteen-day fall race meeting scheduled to be held at Aurora October 13 to October 31 has been transferred to the Hawthorne track, it was announced today by officials of the Chicago Business Men's Racing Association. This will give the Hawthorne track continuous racing from September 29 to October 31 and a total of 46 racing days this year.

"The transfer was made in compliance with the requests from horsemen and prominent and influential patrons of the sport," John C. Schank, president of the Hawthorne Association, said.

Clifford R. Trimble, general manager of the Aurora track, has been seriously ill for several weeks, and his illness is believed to have been responsible for the transfer.

The present eighteen-day meeting at Hawthorne ends August 23, after which a 30-day meeting will open at Lincoln Fields. Hawthorne will be the only Chicago track to operate more than 30 days this season.

BIRD OF PREY was kept with the pace all the way and held on gamely. CHARLEY J. S. was taken wide for entire trip and ran a good race.

STALKER opened long lead in the first half mile, fenced well, showed good speed and held on gamely. FRIAR M'GEE was allowed to drop far out of it in early part, made up ground fast, but stopped to a walk after clearing last jump. HORICON was outrun. THE WORKER could not keep up. RETALIATE lost his rider at the first fence.

ALEXANDRIA GAINS SEMIFINALS IN LEGION SERIES

Virginia Boys Triumph, 24 to 4

Memphis Trounced as Nicholson and Bruin Star.

Play Gastonia Nine Today in Final of Region No. 8.

Special to The Washington Post.

GASTONIA, N. C., Aug. 14.—Led by Bruin, their flashy shortstop, who garnered four hits and five runs, the Alexandria (Va.) Baseball Team slaughtered Memphis in the semifinals play of the American Legion Junior League series for the eighth region. The score was 24 to 4. The victor of the Alexandria-Gastonia game tomorrow afternoon will be eligible to compete with victors in other regions for the Eastern championship and the right to play in the little world series.

Gastonia won from Columbia, S. C., 6 to 4, for the championship of the Carolinas.

Memphis Team Outclassed.

The Memphis Team was so badly outclassed that their clash with Alexandria proved an uninteresting affair. The Virginians placed 23 hits alongside 9 Memphis errors to chalk up their victory.

Everyman on the victorious team was credited with at least one hit, and they played a smart, heads-up game, making but a pair of miscues.

Nicholson had little trouble with the Tennesseeans. Their ten hits were well scattered. Only a step behind Bruin in the slugging competition were Hudson and Zimmerman, who slapped out three hits each. Nicholson showed himself to be versatile by helping his own cause along with a couple of hits.

Rain at Mountain Lake Keeps Racqueters Idle

Special to The Washington Post.

Mountain Lake Park, Md., Aug. 14. Rain stopped play in the western Maryland tennis championship here today, the semifinals of the singles being postponed until tomorrow. Bob Considine, of Washington, D. C., is one of the semifinalists, along with with J. L. Alcorn, John O'Laughlin and Bill Ramsay.

Due to the size of the entry list and the scarcity of courts, all players have been asked to play two matches tomorrow, inasmuch as the tourney ends on Saturday.

Potomac Boat Club Represented at Bristol

Four members of the Potomac Boat Club, accompanied by Coach Ernie Miller, will leave the clubhouse at noon today for Bristol, Pa., where they will represent the Potomac Boat Club on the Delaware River tomorrow. The regatta is sanctioned by the Middle States Canoe Racing Association.

Shorb, Kelso, Hayes and Harper compose the local quartet. Shorb and Kelso will enter the junior tandem double blades; Shorb and Hayes will go into the junior tandem single blades, and the four enter both the junior four single and double blades.

TAPPAHANNOCK EAGLES WIN

Tappahannock, Va., Aug. 14.—The Tappahannock Eagles romped to a 15-4 victory over the Fredricksburg Elks here this afternoon, two of the visitors' scores being the result of home runs. Altogether six circuit drives were made, four by the winners. Maurice and Balderson pitched for Tappahannock and Jacobs and McCarthy for the losers.

SAYS PEGLER

trying to get together on the Sharkey-Carnera fight.

After several hours the hotel room door opened and Buckley and Conway said they were going out for a walk. Malloy's offer had climbed to $125,000 guaranteed or 30 per cent, one or the other.

They walked straight down to Will Carey's office at the Garden about the same time that Pa Stribling walked into the hotel room from the Garden.

Pa Wants Some Work For His Boy Will.

Pa said he would like to take the work for his boy Will, but there was something wrong with Will's left hand and, anyway, Will wouldn't land back in the United States for a few days yet and he wouldn't care to close any match until Will, himself, were present to say "yes" or "no."

During the hours a number of other fight managers had been drawn to another room adjoining the conference. One of them was Dan Carroll, of Boston, a former policeman, who went out with the rest of them that time when Calvin Coolidge called out the troops. The strike made Coolidge and Carroll. Coolidge went to the White House and Carroll became the manager of a young laborer on the Boston fishing wharves named Jimmy Maloney. Maloney made a lot of money and, of course, Carroll made a lot, too.

Some of the boys poured drinks and the smoke and the talk were growing thick and rank in the room. Bill Duffy, the night-club promoter, one of Carnera's managers, sat by in yellow golf knickers, blue stockings and a dark-blue polo shirt. He wasn't drinking. He has a red face, darkened by black hair, furry brow and a stubble of beard so black it is blue.

"Well," Mr. Malloy said to Carroll, "it looks like them Boston guys have went right down to Carey's store to do a little shopping. They give me their word they're coming right back as soon as they telephone Sharkey. Do you want this work?" "How much?" said Mr. Carroll, sighting down a walking stick.

Carroll Wants Percentage.

"Give you $25,000," said Malloy.

"I like to work on percentage," said Carroll.

"Anyway, Maloney's got a bum back. He grounded a speedboat on a shoal and had to swim a mile and hurt his back. No hay. And, I say, I like percentage, myself."

"No percentage; straight $35,000," said Malloy.

"I'll wait," Mr. Carroll said. "You'll come back to me."

"Not with Stribling coming home, I won't," Mr. Malloy said. "Anyway, you're another Boston burglar."

Mr. Duffy spoke up. He said he was willing to fight for 25 per cent, but he wasn't going to let Buckley and Conway do better.

"I've got the card," said Mr. Duffy. "We can make $70,000 a month on exhibitions. What did Buckley's fellow ever do? Ruined the fight game. Fouls out all the time. Is he the card or are we the card? Without Carnera Buckley couldn't fill this room. I'm doing Buckley a favor to fight him."

It began to grow dark outside. The boxing writers brushed the ashes off their vests, made a few final notes on old envelopes and left by ones and twos. Mr. Duffy, Mr. Carroll and Pa Stribling went down together.

"Them burglars will come back to me," Mr. Malloy said. "Carnera's the card and I've got him. They can't get no hundred thousand fighting anybody else. Don't anybody want a drink?"

Woman Bids $30,000 For Wichita Franchise

Pittsburgh, Aug. 14 (A.P.).—Sam Dreyfus, vice president of the Pittsburgh National League Baseball Club, said today that Mrs. Lucille Thomas, of Tulsa, Okla., was negotiating for purchase of the franchise of the Western League club at Wichita, Kans., a Pirate "farm."

Mrs. Thomas was understood here to have offered $30,000 for the Wichita franchise. Should she purchase it, she would be the second woman to own a minor league team, the other being Miss Florence Killilea, of the Milwaukee American Association Club.

Old Dominion to Name Race Course for Washington

ALEXANDRIA, Aug. 14.—On Saturday the annual intraclub regatta of the Old Dominion Boat Club will be held on the 1-mile straightaway rowing course of the Potomac River.

Oarsmen of the club have been in training for six weeks, under the coaching of Walter Thrall, former Potomac Boat Club oarsman, in preparation for this event and the Middle States Regatta on Labor Day, September 1.

In connection with the plan offered by the George Washington Bicentennial Commission arranging for the 200th birthday of George Washington, officials of the Old Dominion Club are planning to name the course the George Washington Memorial Rowing Course. The dedication of this new name will not take place until the Middle States Regatta.

The intraclub regatta was won last year by Parke Bell. His name was engraved on a plaque presented by Capt. J. Sid Douglas of the club. Bell will defend his honors in Saturday's regatta.

Belle Haven caddies defeated the caddies team of the Winchester Golf and Country Club in a match played over the local links yesterday, 14½ to 12½.

The Alexandria team was made up of the following players: Bill Hardbower, Noe and Jack Wolford, Aubrey Evans, Raymond Massey and Willie Snyder.

The date for the return match will be announced later.

T. E. Sebrell, jr., chairman of the Belle Haven Country Club golf committee, tomorrow is expected to announce the selection of the 12-man team to represent the local club in the Mannsfield Hall Club golf match at Fredericksburg Saturday. Alexandria lost the first match of the series last Saturday.

Chairman Bill Moncure, of the Alexandria municipal tennis tournament, plans to have the finals completed before next Saturday. Two classes are now playing for top honors.

The junior final match will be played Monday when Roland Goode and Charlie Nicholson clash, while the third round has been reached in the senior competition. Joe Duncan, defending champion, is favored to repeat.

Manager Bill Hammond, of the Colonial Athletic Club, has signed Vincent Bradley, former star pitcher with the Columbia Firemen, to play with his club for the rest of the season.

Hammond stated today he had booked the Vienna Firemen for a game Sunday. This contest will be played in Vienna, Va. The Alexandria boys will make the trip by automobiles.

Robert McDonald, popular local baseball official, is umpiring in the Third Area Baseball League. Most of these contests have been played on the Fort Humphreys' Post field.

Art Ludlow, veteran all-around player with the St. Mary's Celtics, will don the mitt and mask for the next two weeks for this club. Russ Kidwell leaves the Celtics' line-up Friday. He is going on a vacation for two weeks.

Ludlow is considered one of the best all-around baseball players in this section. He has been playing third base and in the outfield for the Celtics in games this season. The big fellow had experience at catching with the old Dreadnaught Athletic Club.

On Sunday the Celtics will entertain the fast Mount Rainier baseball team, leaders in the Prince Georges County section of the Capital City League. This contest will be played at Baggett's stadium. The Marylanders defeated the Celtics last year and the Alexandria boys are anxious to even the count.

Bob Jackson, of the Gator Club, won the diving contest staged at the municipal swimming pool last night. Jack Trenary was second and Walter Mahoney third. Sidney Hancock, head lifeguard at the pool, postponed the other events because of the change in the weather.

Emment E. Lawler, jr., prominent Alexandria water sport authority, has been named timer for the Middle States regatta.

EAGLES WALLOP FIREMEN.

Leading in the fourth inning, 11 to 3, the Skinker Brothers Eagles claim a forfeit over the District Firemen Nine yesterday, which walked off the field before the third Eagle player could be retired in the frame, during which the Eagles scored seven runs. Buddy Pierson, Eagles catcher, who was hurt Tuesday, will rejoin the team in a few days.

Braves and Cardinals Divide Double-Header

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 14 (A.P.).—The Boston Braves and the Cardinals split a double-header here today, the Cardinals taking the first game with a ninth-inning rally, 4 to 3, and the Braves winning the nightcap, 3 to 2, behind the effective pitching of old Tom Zachary.

In winning the first game St. Louis extended their latest winning streak to six straight. A two-run rally made possible by Jimmy Wilson's single in the ninth gave them the game after they had trailed since the second inning, when Mancuso's home run with one on counted the tallies.

Zachary held the Red Birds to ten scattered hits, but his mates made their eight blows in the second game count for more runs. Grimes was the losing pitcher.

POLICE VS. PRISONERS.

Prisoners chasing cops, unusual as it seems, will be the scene today at Lorton, Va. Part of the time the cops will be chasing the prisoners, but the latter will have their innings, which is more than they ordinarily do. The explanation of this strange situation is that they'll all get together in a baseball game, the cops representing the District of Columbia Metropolitan Police Department and the prisoners representing the Lorton Reformatory.

LEADING GRID MANAGERS TO MEET

Apaches, Hawks, Celtics, Northerns to Plan for Season.

NIGHT football and plans for the sandlot football championship series between the leading independent elevens of this section will be discussed at a meeting to be held tonight at The Washington Post Sports Department at 8 o'clock. Representatives of the Apaches, Mohawks, St. Mary's Celtics and Northerns, the four leading clubs of last season, will attend.

It is probable that the subject of a league will be discussed. Edward B. Eynon, jr., secretary of the Washington Baseball Club, favors the league idea and will offer the clubs the use of the Griffith Stadium field where facilities for night football will be installed as soon as the baseball season is ended.

Big Time Circuit Planned.

Under the suggested plan, the Apaches, Mohawks, Celtics, Northerns and a leading Baltimore team would comprise the circuit. It is understood that a new edition of the famous Georgetown - Knickerbocker eleven is in the making and that that club will be represented.

While there has been much discussion about the coming season, no team has officially expressed its feelings on the night league. It is the purpose of this meeting to give the clubs and Nat officials something to work on.

Calvary Drake Wins Church Championship

Calvary Drake's Baseball Team won the championship of the Georgetown Church League yesterday when it scored its second victory in the play-off series with the West Washington Nine, winners of the first half of the season, 4 to 2, on the West Ellipse diamond. The winners had beaten the same team on Wednesday by a 11-2 score.

Bozy Berger started the new champs out on the right foot yesterday when he smashed a home run to deep right center with Harwood on base to give the Drakes a 2-0 lead in the third inning. West Washington came back with a run in its half of the inning, but was never able to overcome its handicap.

SHAMROCK V NOW BEING GROOMED

Racer Expected to Be Ready for Tests by Monday.

NEW LONDON, CONN., Aug. 14 (A.P.).—Shamrock V, Sir Thomas Lipton's fifth challenger for the America's Cup, swung gently at her anchor off here today as her brawny crew rested after their boisterous 28-day passage from England's shore.

The Erin, Sir Thomas' steam yacht, which convoyed the challenger, tied up at an electric boat works dock to unload Shamrock's topmast and spare spars and other gear. The latter included a spare center board, built entirely of bronze and devised to slip up through Shamrock's keel.

Officials of the boatyard said today it might be Monday before everything would be in readiness for the tensive work of preparing the challenger for her coming test with one of four candidates for the defense of the cup. Stepping of the topmast represents a difficult task. The top section of the spar, which fits into the lower part, must be hoisted more than 100 feet into the air. A wooden tower will be built on the pier to attain so tall a lifting purchase.

Erin Will Leave for New York.

The Erin will leave tomorrow for New York to meet Sir Thomas, due there on the Leviathan Saturday. He is not expected to come immediately to New London, but will probably spend some days in his New York office, as he has on previous cup invasions.

Shamrock V must be taken out on the marine railway for a cleaning and a smoothing of her underbody. The long voyage left her seastained. Varnish on some of her bright woodwork is almost white with a coating of salt.

The Killarney, a former excursion boat, which has been fitted up to furnish living quarters for the Shamrock's crew, arrived from Providence, R. I., today, her fresh green paint hardly dry. Soon the pipe berths on which the men slept coming over will be taken out of the challenger. In fact, her interior will be stripped of virtually everything not essential to the business of racing.

Shamrock Resembles Yankee.

Compared to the four American defender candidates, Shamrock V most closely resembles Yankee, the Boston boat. Her crew says she likes an 8-knot breeze or better, so perhaps she resembles the Yankee in performance as well. But those associated with her insist she is also a good light-air boat, and that during her trials on the other side she ran away from many yachts with proportionately greater sail area.

Competition for the honor of defending the cup will be resumed next Wednesday off Newport by the Yankee, Weetamoe, Enterprise and Whirlwind and soon the invader will know who will go to the starting line with her September 13 in the international classic.

Mount Rainier Duckpin League Meets Tonight

President Frank Disney has called a meeting for tonight of the Mount Rainier Duckpin League to be held at the Recreation Alleys in Mount Rainier, starting at 8 o'clock. Representatives of all teams wishing to compete are urged to be present. It is expected that more than 20 teams will answer the call. Last year the circuit was composed of twelve teams and the Recreation Five won the championship.

CUBS ROUT ROBINS TO LENGTHEN LEAD

the first-base bag and was trapped. While he evaded the trap, Hartnett rushed home. English added the final polish on Clark with a double, and Clise Dudley relieved him and ended the rally in great style. He started by hitting Cuyler with a pitched ball and filling the bases, but forced Wilson to send an easy tap to Moore for a force out.

The Cubs added their final two runs in the third through no special fault of Dudley's. Taylor beat out an infield hit to start the inning, and Hartnett blazed a long single to center, which escaped Frederick. In his hurry to retrieve the ball, Frederick threw wild and Hartnett scampered home. Taylor went to third and came home a minute later when Wright and Bissonette were getting Farrell out at first.

Dudley Holds Cubs Thereafter.

From that period Dudley held the Cubs well in check, although they filled the bases with two out in the eighth.

All five of Brooklyn's hits up to the ninth inning were belted out by Wally Gilbert and Babe Herman. Gilbert rapped out two singles and a double and the Babe collected a double and a single. Neither got past second base, however.

Today's triumph not only pushed the Cubs to a full game lead in the pennant scramble, but placed them in an excellent position for tomorrow's game. Manager Joe McCarthy indicated he would send Charles Root or young Bud Teachout to the mound, while Manager Robinson expected to send in Adolfo Luque, the tricky Cuban, who has beaten the Cubs twice this season.

So far, the three games, the attendance totaled approximately 118,000 spectators. More than 40,000 were expected for tomorrow's finale, which would establish a new attendance mark for a four-game series in the national loop.

STOCKS LOSE GAINS AFTER MIDDAY RISE

Many Prominent Issues Are Virtually Unchanged at Market's Close.

BROKER LOANS DECLINE

New York, Aug. 14 (A.P.).—The speculative pulse fluttered feebly on the stock market today, but it remained in the hands of the bears.

It was the short interest that provided most of the activity, covering and selling alternately throughout an inconclusive session which saw a turnover of only 1,925,000 shares. The close was irregular. Many of the leading shares were virtually unchanged.

Events in the business world contributed meagerly to the course of the market. A cut in copper metal prices to 10¾ cents by some of the custom smelters inspired a flurry of selling soon after the irregularly higher opening, but it was felt chiefly in the steel and copper shares and the market soon turned upward. Prices continued to advance until leaders were 1 to 7 points net higher, whereupon the shorts, having completed their profit taking for the time being, resumed selling and the market lost its advances.

Canadian Pacific Drops.

Shares of three companies were particularly weak. Canadian Pacific, which has been steadily sold during the past week, tumbled 10¾ points to 165¾, another new low. The liquidation reflects the poor showing made by the road's earnings and the prospects that the directors will have to dip into surplus for the dividend, or reduce it.

Republic Steel was freely offered, for Wall street is sceptical about the $4 annual return to the stockholders in view of the large expenditures incident to the organization of the company several months ago, and the current low rate of operations.

The third weak spot was International Paper, all of whose shares touched their lowest figures of the year, in expectation of the unfavorable earnings statement.

Otherwise, the market seemed governed by the passing speculative expediency. U. S. Steel, which closed at 139 on Wednesday, sold as high as 140½ and as low as 157¾, closing only ½ net lower. General Motors, Radio, General Electric, General Motors and American Can either finished unchanged or a shade either side of yesterday's finals.

Copper Shares Decline.

The cut in copper, although not followed by the producers, carried the price to the lowest in years and again called attention to the generally unsatisfactory condition of the industry. The news was accompanied by breaks of one to two points in the copper shares, Kennecott and American Metal touching new minimums.

Announcement of an advance in scrap steel at Pittsburgh would have been encouraging, in view of the theoretical importance placed on that commodity, had it not been for the fact the rise reflected a short supply rather than a better demand.

Brokers' loans dropped $59,000,000 in the trading week ended Tuesday to $3,155,000,000, the lowest since July, 1927. More interest was attached to the weekly Federal reserve statement, which revealed the extent to which the Central Bank is easing credit into the market to offset the gold exports. This showed that the system's holdings of Government securities had risen $30,000,000, while open market purchases of bills increased $21,000,000. Discounts declined $15,000,000.

Carrier Issues Firmer.

Merchandizing and rail shares firmed considerably, Sears Roebuck, Union Pacific, New Haven, Rock Island, Atchison, and Safeway Stores gaining a point. There was isolated heaviness in some of the utilities and specialties. American Telephone lost more than a point, while Woolworth, Hudson Motors, National Power & Light and Woolworth sagged to about the same extent.

A rally of half a cent an ounce in silver improved Far Eastern exchanges, but the European rates were easy. The French franc lost a little more ground, adding further relief to the gold situation. Last night's exports of the metal were understood to have been made without profit and were regarded as a special transaction.

Wheat rallied more than a cent on better export demand, but corn lost fractionally. Cotton continued mostly heavy, closing 11 to 16 points lower, after recording new lows for the season.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, Aug. 14 (A.P.).—A moderate advance in cotton during today's early trading was followed by declines which carried all the active months into new low ground for the movement under liquidation or resulting by recent buyers combined with local scattered selling.

The new October contract after selling up to 12.05 early broke to 11.77 and closed at that figure, with the general market closing easy at net declines of 11 to 16 points.

The opening was steady at unchanged prices to an advance of 4 points, and the active months sold about 9 to 13 points net higher during the early trading on some trade and commission house buying together with covering promoted by relatively steady Liverpool cables and uncertainty as to the probable showing on drought conditions expected during the early afternoon.

This advance met increased offerings, however, and the selling became more active later when it was found that the drought report would not be published in the market here as anticipated this afternoon.

Reports that there were prospects for rains or showers in Arkansas, Oklahoma and Texas no doubt contributed to the decline which extended to 11.94 for new December and 12.24 for March deliveries, in the late trading. Closing quotations were at about the lowest for the day.

Reports that cotton was being offered at a tenderable basis in some parts of the South, and that hedging was beginning to increase, were regarded by local traders as accounting for a little more Southern selling at times here during the day. Private advices from New Orleans, quoting a member of the Federal Farm Board in part as believing that the drought has cut down the potential yield of cotton but has also killed boll weevils so that the remaining cotton would average more bales per acre than it would otherwise, was also discussed in connection with the afternoon decline.

Liverpool cables reported that hedging and liquidation had been absorbed by covering on expectations of a bullish drought report. Exports today, 1,830, making 77,603 so far this season. Port receipts, 14,392. U. S. port stocks, 1,598,795.

RAILS HEAD UPWARD TENDENCY IN BONDS

11 Carriers Go to New High Ground While Group's Index Hits Top.

FOREIGN SECTION QUIET

New York, Aug. 14 (A.P.).—Quickened interest in domestic investment issues tended to lift the bond market out of its midsummer trading rut today. The railroad section was strong and provided the leadership for the advance which carried the list upward to dupticate its recently established new high in the averages.

The demand for railroad obligations spread further among less active issues and allowed them to catch up with leaders which some time ago reached the best price levels of the year. Some profit taking appeared in the final hour, but gains far outstripped losses among the better grade lines in the domestic list.

Canadian National Railways 5s, of October, 1969; Chicago, Northwestern 5s, Chesapeake & Ohio 4½s B, Detroit River Tunnel 4½s, Louisville & Nashville 4s, New York Central 4s, of 1934; Virginian Railway 5s, Norfolk & Western divisional 4s, Pennsylvania 4½s, and Consolidated 4s and Western Maryland 4s were pushed into new high ground for the year. Pennsylvania 3½s D gained 3 points. Northern Pacific 4s and Missouri, Kansas & Texas first 4s were strong. Many others sold at the best prices of the year.

Southern Bell Declines.

Good buying came into the market for some of the telephone and electric company bonds in the utility section. Detroit Edison collateral 5s rose 1¼ points to a new high and North American Edison 5s C, and Bell Telephone of Pennsylvania 5s reached new peaks for the year. Utah Power & Light 5½s, Utah Light & Traction 5s, Public Service Electric & Gas 4½s, and Columbia River Power & Light 4½s were others which made good advances. Southern Bell Telephone 5s, Northern Ohio Traction & Light 6s worked slightly lower.

Interest in second-grade bonds still lags, and the miscellaneous industrial group continues to suffer from rather wide fluctuations.

However, high-grade industrials have crept forward gradually and made a new high in the averages, erasing the previous record established last March. Inland Steel 4½s and Lehigh Valley Coal 5s reached new highs. Steel and oil company loans were in demand.

Copper Prices Again Cut.

Further cuts in copper prices influenced selling of Revere Copper and Brass 6s. American Metal 5½s were very active and made a small advance. Stock privilege issues were firm. Warner Brothers 6s rallied more than a point.

Changes in the foreign list were inconsequential. Standard issues were fairly stable. Activity in French 7s was resumed and held steady. Australian issues were strong.

U. S. Governments moved irregularly in expanded activity. Liberty 3½s, and Treasury 3¼s sold off about ⅛ of a point.

Offering will be made tomorrow of $1,000,000 first mortgage 5 per cent gold bonds of the Indianapolis Power & Light Co. It is practically the only corporate bond issue to be marketed this week.

Stay Away From Ogopogos!

The Ogopogo—mysterious giant fish of the Canadian lakes—has an unpleasant habit of tipping over a fisherman's boat, gobbling up the fisherman, and carrying him through subterranean passages to the Pacific Ocean—so goes the legend of the Canadian Indians.

The worried Indian who fishes in British Columbia waters, and risks being caught by the Ogopogo, is in exactly the same boat with the worried speculator who risks having his financial craft upset by a stock market flurry—and is gobbled up by the very stock he is fishing for.

It's a simple matter to keep away from these financial Ogopogos. Your surplus funds, invested in 6% First Mortgage Notes, will never be carried away by a downward plunge on Wall Street—for 61 years, during all the wild periods of fluctuation, these Notes HAVE NEVER VARIED a penny in value. Every investor has always received his unfailing interest return.

Paper Company Reports Balance

International Concern Has June Quarter Showing of $601,056.

New York, Aug. 14 (A.P.)—International Paper & Power Co. and subsidiaries today reported for the June quarter a balance of $601,056 available for dividends on the preferred and class "A" common stocks, compared with $927,641 in the like quarter last year.

After providing for dividends on the preferred and class "A" common, there was a deficit of $1,622,457 for the quarter, compared with a deficit of $1,278,395 for the June quarter of 1929. Total net revenue and other income for the June quarter was $10,292,995, compared with $9,267,342, a gain of 11 per cent. Total surplus as of June 30 last was $11,894,727, compared with $16,824,764 a year previously.

A. R. Graustein, president, said that the second quarter earnings reflected "the present adverse business conditions which have made themselves felt through reduced sales or lower prices, or both, on substantially all pulp and paper products. Though general business conditions have not yet shown substantial improvement," he added, "it is anticipated that the earnings for the fourth quarter will show a considerable increase owing to continued reduction in costs and to larger power earnings."

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Aug. 14 (A.P.).—Reassurances that banks will finance the 1930 movement of Canadian wheat and that provincial government guarantees are probable, did much to lift wheat prices today. Persistent reports of unseasonable weather in Europe hampering the wheat harvest there counted also as a stimulus to upturns in wheat values. Besides, export business today in North American wheat was of more liberal volume than of late, 1,000,000 bushels, mainly wheat from the United States, with Liverpool quotations 18 cents above Chicago, the widest difference so far this season.

Chicago's closing prices on wheat were firm, ⅛@1¼c a bushel higher than yesterday's finish. Corn closed unchanged to ¾c lower, oats ¼@¾c up and provisions unchanged to 5c down.

Helping to emphasize that prospective financing of operations of the Canadian growers' pool would be conducted about as heretofore, except as to the amount of the initial payment to farmers, was word that the heavy selling which upset the Winnipeg wheat market yesterday was largely for Chicago account. Upturns in wheat prices today were chiefly in evidence during the early trading and again from about noon until the close. At other times, wheat fluctuated rapidly owing good deal to a sharp transient break in corn values. The temporary tumble of the corn market, reaching at one stage 2½ cents under yesterday's finish, was ascribed to rains reported in parts of Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Nebraska and Kansas, but in the main only showers were received. Assertions that Russian wheat shipments this week totaled 1,800,000 bushels against 392,000 bushels last week and nothing a year ago was also of some temporary bearish effect.

Corn rallied chiefly as a result of wheat strength, but the reports of rainfalls scattered over many States checked enthusiasm so far as most corn buyers were concerned. A majority of traders showed themselves inclined to accept views expressed by a leading authority that it was too late for rain to materially enlarge the valume of the corn crop and that about all that could be expected was to put an end to further increase of corn losses, improve pastures and prepare the soil for fall plowing. Another unofficial expert, however, was out with a statement that rains could still benefit the corn crop to a moderate extent, and that with perfect weather hereafter could raise crop estimates in the north half of the corn belt. Oats reflected late upturns in wheat.

Provisions averaged lower, influenced by the action of corn.

ADVICE ON INVESTMENTS

By CHARLES W. STORM

In making inquiries address Charles W. Storm, financial department of The Washington Post, and inclose a self-addressed stamped envelope for reply.

Yellow Truck.

S. K.—Please give me some facts regarding Yellow Truck.

Answer—Yellow Truck is selling at about double the year's low. Control is held by General Motors. Earnings in the first six months were 43 cents per share. Profits are showing an impressive recovery over former years when the company operated in the red.

No dividends are paid on the common or preferred, but $9.59 per share was earned on the latter issue in the first six months this year. There are 2,000,000 shares of combined class "B" stocks. Yellow Truck may be regarded as speculative but with good long-pull prospects.

Bellas Hess, International Salt.

L. S. R.—Am inclined to buy either National Bellas Hess or International Salt. Will you please advise me?

Answer—Sales of National, Bellas Hess have shown consistent declines since the beginning of 1930, a reduction of 27.9 per cent having been reported for initial six months, compared with the corresponding period last year. While certain operating economies are understood to have been effected, results are not believed to be satisfactory and a deficit for the entire year is expected. Under the circumstances, purchases of the stock would appear inadvisable.

The fact that International Salt in the first half of 1930 earned an amount equal to $1.79 a share on the capital stock, coupled with the definite promise that the new three-for-one splitup shares will be placed on a $3 annual dividend basis, which would be the equivalent of $9 per share on the old issue, gives to the stock considerable attractiveness from a speculative investment viewpoint. Particularly is this true when it is remembered that the final half of the year invariably gives to the company its largest volume and most profitable business.

Preferred Railroad Stocks.

N. R.—Can you give me a list of preferred stocks of railroads which will cover dividends this year by a wide margin?

Answer—Yes. Yields of as high as 6½ per cent can be obtained without any undue risk. Norfolk & Western, for instance, will earn its preferred dividend about 42 times. The margin of safety for this issue is 87 per cent—that is, earnings for the year could be 87 per cent smaller and still show the preferred dividend covered.

For convenience in selecting the highest returns consistent with the widest margin of safety, the following are arranged in order: Norfolk & Western, 4 per cent; Atchison, 5 per cent; Union Pacific, 4 per cent; Bangor & Aroostook, 7 per cent; Alabama Great Southern, 7 per cent; Pere Marquette prior, 5 per cent; Reading first, 4 per cent; Colorado Southern first, 4 per cent; Pere Marquette ordinary, 5 per cent; New Haven, 7 per cent; Baltimore & Ohio, 4 per cent; Chicago & Northwestern, 7 per cent; Rock Island, 7 per cent; Boston & Maine prior, 7 per cent, and Kansas City Southern, 4 per cent. The per cent figures represent the issue in question and not the yield.

Kelvinator.

W. L. D.—Have you any late information regarding Kelvinator? I am a stockholder in the company and am anxious to know what is going on.

Answer—Earnings for the March quarter this year were equal to 74 cents a share, and $1.19 in the June quarter, making a total of $1.93 a share earned in the six months. In the June quarter last year profits equaled $1.22 per share. Business in the current three months' period is stated to be running ahead of that for the same time last year. The outlook appears good and earnings for the full year are expected to make a fairly good showing.

Cuneo Press.

P. E. R.—Considering the $2.50 annual dividend, how do you regard Cuneo Press stock as an investment issue?

Answer—Cuneo Press may be considered a good speculative investment. At its present price around 39 the stock sells for less than six times the 1930 indicated earnings of $7 per share and yields in excess of 6 per cent. This return may be considered attractive when consideration is given to safety of principal.

Earnings of Cuneo Press have been rising despite growing competition. The company has not only bested competitors in this respect but has secured some valuable new contracts, one being to print the Liberty Magazine, while important work has been secured from the National Bellas Hess Co. Cuneo Press had a good year in 1929, earnings rising to $6.72 a share, as against $4.34 the year previous.

Lima Locomotive.

N. L. H.—I have $1,000 in the savings bank which I have been advised to put into Lima Locomotive. What can you tell me about Lima, and what is your opinion of such a procedure.

Answer—The plan of drawing out your savings and buying Lima Locomotive is not approved. Keep your money in the bank, where it draws interest. You may need it some day for emergencies. Lima Locomotive is now selling at $10 a share under quick assets, but there is nothing in prospect on which the stock should rise sharply.

During good years the company has earned about $8 a share, but the outlook does not appear any too promising for the locomotive manufacturers. Dividends of $4 a share were discontinued some time ago. Earnings were equal to $2.37 a share last year, while in 1928 and 1927 the company carried on operations at a loss. Keep your money in the bank!

Collins & Aikman.

W. C. S.—What are the earnings of Collins & Aikman and the future of this stock?

Answer—The outlook is most promising. Despite inactivity in the automobile industry, Collins & Aikman was able to report earnings equivalent to $1.01 per share for the three months ended May 31 last. Earnings for the first half of the present fiscal year are estimated at $2 per share. Profits of $2 in six months would be more than the earnings in the entire twelve months preceding fiscal period. Collins & Aikman is ably managed, is in a comfortable position and a continuation of the earnings recovery should result in the resumption of common dividends. The future, therefore, holds considerable promise.

American Chain.

F. C. R.—Kindly give me some facts and an opinion regarding the common stock of American Chain.

Answer—The common stock may be regarded highly as a speculative investment. American Chain is profiting in a large way from a favorable decision on patent suits; a Ford contract for bumpers and an increased demand for automobile chains. Excluding nonrecurring income last year of $1.01 per share, earnings for 1929 were equal to $9.02 per share of common stock. This compares with a deficit in 1928 equal to $1.42 a share of common. Earnings for the first six months this year equaled $3.29, as compared with $2.63 in the same period last year. People close to the company estimate earnings this year equal to $10 per share.

American Hawaiian Steamship.

H. L. T.—How do you regard American Hawaiian Steamship?

Answer — Intercoastal traffic this year shows a decline of 25 per cent. Earnings last year of $1.39 per share (not including profits of $1.06 per share from the sale of ships and securities) are not expected to be equaled in 1930. A special distribution of $10 a share from sale of assets, &c., was made recently. Dividends have not been paid regularly and have been mostly in the form of special payments, amounting in 1929 to $1 per share.

American Hawaiian, however, can not be regarded as a high-class investment issue in which to place surplus funds.

DISTRICT REVENUES SHOW INCREASE OF $1,379,450 IN 1930

$34,864,276 Collected in Last Fiscal Year, Says Towers in Report.

CAR REGISTRATION NETS AMOUNT OF $183,517

Payment for Real Estate Tax in 1868 Was Received for $16.58.

District revenues in the last fiscal year were $1,379,450.90 greater than in the preceding fiscal year, Chatham M. Towers, District tax collector, informed the Commissioners in his annual report made public yesterday.

Collections totaled $34,864,276.25 in the fiscal year, Mr. Towers said. Of this total $19,735,846.80 came from real estate taxes which showed an increase fo $353,363.57 over the revenues from that source in the preceding fiscal year.

Tangible personal taxes produced $4,007,482.49, an increase of $305,811.02 over the preceding year; intangible personal taxes produced $2,619,671.43, na increase of $122,888.82. But to the personal tax totals should be added $214,223.85 produced by the personal tax on motor vehicles which was collected separately last year for the first time. The amount collected when license tags were sold last January was for the six months' period from July 1, to December 31, 1930. This was collected in advance in order to put the payment of personal taxes on automobiles on an annual basis. Tax for a full year will be collected in advance this December when new tags are sold. Under the system employed last year, no effort was made to collect the half of the tax due from January 1 to June 30 for which owners had received bills and on which penalties have accrued since March, if the tax was not paid in that month.

Penalties Total $438,829.

Interest and penalties on overdue taxes netted a sizable sum last fiscal year, amounting to $38,829.29, an increase of $23,833.60 over the year before.

Study of the annual report submitted by Mr. Towers disclosed that among teh collections he made last year were taxes which had beene due on real estate for many years. There was one payment of $16.58 made last year which was due in 1868. Other amounts were collected for each year since 1888, $2,701,952.57 being collected on account of taxes due in 1929; taxes due in 1928 were paid to the amount of $80,793.03, and for 1927 to the amount of $57,06.09. Amounts collected for other years were small.

Motor car registration netted the District $183,517; the Municipal Court turned $103,651.32 into the District coffers; the receorder of deeds turned in 10,816.61; the register of wills, $86,74.46; tax certificatees, $18,808.

Permits required for various things produced $393,730.80, with motor vehicle operators' permits yielding $73,056 for new permits and $233,403 for renewed permits. Building permits brought in $46,226.30 and electric permits brought in $37,789.50.

Dog Tags Total $38,482.

Occupational business, other than insurance, licenses brought the District $170,678.15; dog licenses brought $38,482.99, and insurance licenses $50,624.28.

The Police Court laid a none too gentle hand on the purses of those unfortunate enough to be haled before it, fines assessed amounting to $526,919.92. The gasoline tax produced $1,467,952.98, while water rent collected amounted to $1,402,274.29.

The District would be $3,659,490.10 richer if it could collect all of the unpaid real estate taxes which it claims due it, Mr. Towers reported, including a table showing the amounts uncollected for each year back to 1887. The amount uncollected last year was $3,308,624.60 and $145,532.02 remained uncollected from 1929. The District claims $8,706.55 still due for the year of 1877. In man instances the penalties have mounted to many times the amount of the original tax and it is probable that the books never will be cleared of unpaid taxes.

WATCHMAN BOUND; TWO ARE ARRESTED

One, Found With Pistol in Hand, Says He Was Only Joking.

CASHIER FINDS COUPLE

Whether it was a joke or an attempt at robbery, police last night were holding two men, one of whom was found in the Potomac Savings Bank yesterday morning with a gun in his hand, standing over the bound and gagged watchman.

The man, Leroy Cooper, colored, 25 years old, of P street near Twenty-sixth street northwest, told police that he was playing a joke on the watchman when he held him up and bound him. But the watchman, Cosma Boyd, did not think much of a joke which had kept him bound on the floor for more than two hours.

Cooper is a former employe of the bank, having been a janitor there until discharged a few months ago. Elmore T. Burdette, of 2515 Wisconsin avenue, assistant cashier of the bank, said that Cooper threatened him at the time he was fired.

Cooper was found in the bank when the cashier of the institution, C. Wendall Shoemaker, of 4818 Wisconsin avenue, missed the usual morning greeting of Boyd when he arrived at the bank. He started a search of the building and found the bound Boyd and Cooper in the basement. Cooper was armed with two guns, which were subsequently found to have been taken from the desks of officers of the bank.

Cooper explained that he was just playing a little joke and turned the guns over to Shoemaker when the cashier requested them.

The other man held with Cooper is Walter Samuel Carter, colored, of N street near Twenty-seventh street northwest. Police said that he was arrested when noticed loitering in the vicinity of the bank. It is said that authorities are also searching for a third man supposed to be implicated in the "joke."

Bobby Jones Joins Crusaders' Ranks

Antiprohibition Movement Announces Plans for Fall Campaign.

With the announcement that Bobby Jones, king of golfers, had accepted a commander's post in the recently organized Atlanta, Ga., unit, the Washington Crusaders yesterday divulged plans for a series of fall demonstrations designed to advance the interests of wet candidates in congressional elections.

The antiprohibition organization's summer period of inactivity will be broken in October with the opening of several downtown headquarters, a number of mass meetings, and the local appearance of nationally known speakers. Thousands of placards will be posted about the city and newspaper advertisements and the radio will be used in a membership campaign designed to push the organization's present local membership of approximately 5,000 to twice that figure.

Bobby Jones is the latest of a number of internationally known athletes who have espoused the Crusaders' fight for "temperance, not prohibition." Recently Gene Tunney, Jesse Sweetser and all members of the Davis Cup tennis team became actively engaged in the organization's work.

Filling Station Tenant Is Awarded $35,000

Chief Justice Alfred A. Wheat in District Supreme Court yesterday handed down a decision awarding Arthur Seagron, tenant of a filling station, $35,000, for improvements made by him.

The order specifies that the sum shall be included in the award made by a condemnation jury for premises at 108 Second street southwest and 128, 132, 134 and 120 Maryland avenue southwest. Previously the condemnation jury had awarded the sum of $320,040 to the owner of the property, but had not given Seagron anything for his filling station fixtures. The jury, however, set out that it valued Seagron's fixtures and improvements at $35,000 and specified that if the court awarded him that sum it should not be deducted from the amount given the owner.

Replanting of Cherry Trees Will Be Urged

Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d will be urged to plant more cherry trees in East Potomac Park to replace those killed by a high river last year, a park committee from his office announced yesterday. The trees will not likely be of the Japanese variety, however, because of the length of time needed to obtain them.

Trees in the parks through the city were said to not be harmed by the drought. They were said to be in better condition than usual. The committee also intends to recommend the planting of more nut-bearing trees in Rock Creek park to provide food for squirrels.

Civil Service Will Hold Tests for Police Work

Applications for positions in the Police Department will be accepted up to September 9, the Civil Service Commission announced yesterday. Not enough eligibles resulted from the last examination to fill present and prospective needs.

Appointments are made to the grade of private class 1, at $1,900 per year. Higher paid grades are filled through promotions. Age limits are 22 to 35 years and rigid physical requirements are necessary. Information may be obtained at commission's office, 1724 F street northwest.

C. H. Fred on Probation In Year-Old Traffic Case

Police Court Judge Suspends His 30-Day Sentence in Famous Conviction, Involving Lack of City Tag, Appealed to Highest Tribunal.

Charles H. Fred, principal in one of the most famous traffic cases ever to originate in the District, was yesterday placed on probation for six months by Judge John P. McMahon in Police Court. In extending probation, Judge McMahon suspended the 30-day sentence which caused the case to be taken successively to the District Court of Appeals and the United States Supreme Court.

Judge McMahon's action follows the receipt of the mandate from the United States Supreme Court in the case and came after Attorneys Hawken and Havell, who represented Fred, had pleaded for a suspended sentence.

Fred was convicted more than a year ago in Police Court on a charge of driving after revocation of operator's permit and was sentenced to serve 30 days in jail. Through Attorneys Hawken and Havell he appealed to the Court of Appeals and that tribunal reversed the Police Court conviction. The District then carried the case to the United States Supreme Court, with the result that the Court of Appeals was reversed and the Police Court conviction sustained.

The case involved the right of a person residing in another State to operate an automobile in the District under a permit from the other State despite the fact that previously his District operator's permit had been revoked here. Fred's District permit was revoked many years ago and shortly afterwards he removed to Virginia. More than a year ago he came to Washington on a visit and while operating his machine here under his Virginia permit was arrested, charged with operating after revocation of permit.

Police Continue Hunt for Thomas

Potomac Dragged for Real Estate Man Without Results.

J. Benson Thomas, real estate man, who has been missing from his home at 4710 Military road since Tuesday, is still object of a widespread search. Police, who are dragging the river near Chain Bridge, yesterday ran down two reports that bodies resembling his had been found in the water, but in neither case were the bodies found.

Search of the river, canal and nearby woods has continued since Wednesday afternoon, when a brother and business partner of the man, Donn Thomas, of 129 Kentucky avenue southeast, found the missing man's car abandoned near the bridge.

Mr. Thomas was last seen near his office at Thomas Circle Tuesday afternoon. It was said that he had been working extremely hard and that he may have suffered a nervous breakdown. Some months ago the man narrowly escaped death when his car struck a bump in Rock Creek Park. He was thrown into the water and knocked unconscious, and was on the verge of drowning when rescued by an employe of The Post.

Radio Man at Banquet, Not Burglar; Liberated

James B. Williams, jr., a radio dealer, of Wisconsin avenue near Upton street northwest, was released by Fourteenth Precinct police yesterday morning, following his arrest for investigation Wednesday night in connection with a burglar's entry into the apartment of Clarence Roderick in apartment 550, Wardman Park Hotel.

Williams was freed upon substantiation of his explanation that he was attending a banquet of radio dealers at the hotel at the time Roderick returned to his rooms to find an intruder, who immediately made a successful getaway. A taxicab driver later saw Williams drive away in an automobile and turned over the license plate number to police, who arrested Williams at his home.

Gypsy Indicted as Woman Says Charm of $38 Failed

At midnight on July 16 Mary E. Curtin opened up a wadded-up handkerchief which she had held in her hands for many hours at the direction of a gypsy to discover that, instead of having three times the $38 which she believed she had seen the gypsy wrap up, she had nothing at all.

Yesterday, as a result, Ada Mitchell was indicted by the grand jury on a charge of grand larceny.

Assistant United States Attorney Renah F. Camalier, who presented the case to the grand jury, said that the gypsy, after failing to interest Mrs. Curtin in having her fortune told, asked if the woman had $50. Mrs. Curtin assured the gypsy that she did not have $50, but had $38, it is alleged.

The gypsy is said to have said the $38 would be all right and to have taken the money from Mrs. Curtin and to have pretended to roll it inside the handkerchief. Then she is said to have made her departure after solemnly warning Mrs. Curtin that if she opened it before midnight the magic words which were to treble the sum would have no effect.

Mrs. Curtin, after discovering her loss, called the police and a few days later, learning that a band of gypsies were camped in Arlington County, is said to have gone there with police and apprehended the Mitchell woman.

MORE INDICTMENTS CONFRONT SHAPIRO

COUNTS ARE DETAILED

Four indictments charging false pretenses were returned by the District of Columbia grand jury yesterday against Jacob Shapiro, president of the Joseph Shapiro Realty Co. Mr. Shapiro was indicted recently on two similar charges and only last week was arraigned. He was placed under bonds of $5,000 on each of the charges to await trial by jury.

The new indictments are similar to those on which he was arraigned. They allege false pretenses in connection with the sale of real estate on which socalled "hidden trusts" later were discovered. In each instance at the time of the sale of the properties the real estate man is alleged to have represented that properties were unencumbered except for a first trust.

The first indictment returned yesterday charges that Mr. Shapiro sold premises at 3615 Eighteenth street northeast to William J. and Mary Haste in May, 1928, without disclosing the existence of a "hidden trust" of $3,900.

In the second indictment he is charged with selling Clarence M. Hughes the premises at 3625 Eighteenth street northeast on March, 1928, without disclosing the fact that it was encumbered by a $600 "hidden trust."

Indictment on No. 3 charges sale to Helen C. Espey of premises at 421 Marietta place northwest without disclosure of encumbrances of $1,271.99.

In the fourth indictment Mr. Shapiro is alleged to have sold William J. Slattery in October, 1927, premises at 1823 Otis place northeast without revealing that a "hidden trust" of $560 existed.

Survey of Traffic Planned for Area

Proposed Project Would Include Roads Within 20 Miles of City.

Provided District authorities and officials of nearby Virginia and Maryland agree, a general traffic survey of the area within 20 miles of Washington will be sponsored by the regional highway committee, it was announced yesterday. The plan depends upon willingness of the District government, the National Park and Planning Commission, and Maryland and Virginia highway officials to provide necessary funds.

If authorized, the survey will be conducted by the Bureau of Roads of the Agricultural Department. Its purpose is to determine advisable highway connections in the area.

The committee also announced that the Arlington & Fairfax Railroad Co., had offered its right-of-way through Arlington County, Va., to Fairfax, for the construction of the John Marshall highway, which would connect the National Capital with the Front Royal entrance to the Shenandoah National Park. The right-of-way, which is said to have been offered free of charge, would permit the construction of a 20-foot highway on each side of the tracks, which the company said might be abandoned in favor of buses.

William Henry Sawyer, Negro, was indicted by the grand jury yesterday on a charge of arson. Sawyer is alleged to have set fire to a house on the 2300 block of Eighth street northwest, in an effort to slay Alice Jackson, 15-year-old Negress. Before setting fire to the house, Sawyer is alleged to have bound the girl and thrown her on a bed over which he is said to have poured coal oil. The girl was rescued when she managed to wiggle to a window and scream for help. The Fire Department extinguished the flames.

Sawyer is alleged to have worn a mask at the time, but was identified by a scar on his lip, according to police. His efforts to burn the girl are said to have followed her refusal to run away with him.
